Straw Vote on CATV

Voters will have an opportunity to pass on community antenna television when they go to the polls April 4 to elect a city councilman, City Manager W. Raymert Miller announced today.

A ballot is being prepared by City Attorney Manuel Drumm. It will give voters a chance to express their wishes in a straw vote.

The language of the proposal has not been worked out yet, Miller continued, but the purpose of the ballot will be to see if there is enough interest for city officials to investigate it further.

Persons interested in obtaining a franchise to serve Sikeston with cable television have approached the city council in the past but no action has been taken.

If sufficient interest is shown, the council will contact the companies providing the service to determine who can offer the most for the lowest price, Miller said.

Cable television requires a customer hook - up and a monthly charge for the service, Miller said.

One council post will be filled April 4.

The contest is between councilman Arthur Ziegenhorn and Hugh T. McCollum.

The special ballot will include an estimate of cost based on the charges made to customers in towns served by cable television, Drumm said.

The ballot will ask a question to the effect that if CATV were franchised and available in Sikeston, would you be willing to pay $5 to $7 monthly, plus an installation charge of about $15. Voters will scratch yes or no, he explained.

Four or five cable television companies have expressed an interest in obtaining a franchise to serve Sikeston in the past few years, Miller said.

It was never clarified if programming from both St. Louis and Memphis could be carried, Miller noted. This will be investigated if enough interest is shown.

DAILY STANDARD Easter coloring contest first place winner, was Frances Kay Whitaker, 11, route two, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Whitaker. She received $5.

One Senate Committee In Session

There the Senate Appropriations Committee gathered to hear the money needs of state agencies and institutions.

For the committee members the Easter vacation was short-from adjournment last Thursday to today. And many members had to travel on Easter Sunday to be on hand for the beginning hearings.

The needs of the corrections department and the Division of Mental Diseases were the first to be laid before the committee.

As the money bills left the House last week they totaled $1.106 billion, only a shade less than Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had asked for.

The Senate Appropriations Committee chairman, Sen. J. F. Patterson, D - Caruthersville, said he expected few changes to be made from the House version of the budget bills.

By the time the Senate returns to full scale work April 4, Patterson hopes the gruelling hearings will have been virtually completed. Then come the closed sessions at which actual committee addition or subtraction will be done.

The House won't come back until April 5, the day after municipal and school elections around the state.

Early Easter Rain Halts Rites

Showers interrupted Easter sunrise services. They caused low attendances at two services and cancellation of open air services on the banks of the Mississippi river at New Madrid.

A crowd gathered in New Madrid.

The invocation was given in the interdenominational service, the opening song and the scripture reading. Then a shower sprinkled worshippers and the services were cancelled.

A joint service by the First General Baptist, the Second General Baptist and Little Vine churches was held indoors at the Second General Baptist church on Illinois street, with 125 attending.

The sermon "To Believe in Easter," was by the Rev. Joe Powell, Little Vine church minister. The opening prayer was given by the Rev. Robert Jones, pastor of the First General Baptist church, and the benediction by Bryce Fisher.

Arnold Joe Myrick, sang a solo. A pageant, "The Old Rugged Cross," was presented by Youth group, and singing by the First General Baptist curch choir. Ruby Nell Riddle was pageant narrator.

More than 100 attended a sunrise service in the Morehouse school gymnasium.

The Rev. James Estep, Morehouse Methodist preacher, gave the sermon. The school choir sang two numbers.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Mrs. Harry Perry, Assembly of God minister, with scripture reading by the Rev. Glenn Bohannon, Morehouse First Baptist pastor, in the Kiwanis club sponsored rites.

Elks Honor Leon Stone

Leon Stone was honored as Outstanding Elk of the Year at the first annual banquet held for this purpose by Elks lodge 2319 Saturday night at the club building on South Main Street.

He was given a plaque by Ray Hart, first exalted ruler of the lodge, for "unselfish work, cooperation and attendance" as an Elk.

State Rep. Tony Heckemeyer predicted that a federal constitutional convention would be called to nullify a United States supreme court ruling that members of state legislatures can be elected only on a population basis.

"We are nearing the crossroads of government," he said. "At present only action by two more states is needed to petition Congress to call a convention to amend the constitution.

"It is my prediction there will be one called within the next five years. Federal usurping of power has been so quiet and sudden that the first convention may be called since the nation's founding 180 years ago.

Officers introduced were Lee Wilson, exalted ruler; Allen Blanton, esteemed leading knight; Gerald Kellett, esteemed loyal knight; Floyd Carr, esteemed lecturing knight; Loman Garner, secretary; Stone, treasurer, and Frank Rodgers, tyler. Board members are Bob Ralph, five years; Bob Couch, three years, and Jim Warf, two years.

Protests and Snow Mar Easter Sunday

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP) — As Easter pilgrims shivered in snowy Jerusalem, Italians favoring birth control and divorce demonstrated in St. Peter's Square and Pope Paul VI urged the world Sunday to hope despite "menacing and gigantic problems."

Jerusalem's Easter weather was the worst in memory, and it kept all but about 500 of the thousands of pilgrims in the Holy City away from prayers at the marble tomb of Christ. The first snow on the holiday in decades led some pilgrims to exchange "Merry Christmasses" instead of "Happy Easter."

The annual Easter procession moved through slushy streets, and sunrise services were moved indoors.

Before nearly 250,000 persons jammed into St. Peter's Square in Rome, Pope Paul said that his own joy on the festive day of Christ's resurrection was dimmed by the world's troubles. But he urged men not to let their minds be saddened "at the futility of efforts towards good, at the growing powers of darkness."

The Pope said he believed it was time for the Roman Catholic Church to take up social problems again and announced the publication Tuesday of an encyclical on social justice and an end to poverty and hunger. It will be the fifth encyclical of the Pope's 3½-year reign.

Pope Paul began the day by celebrating Mass in a poor suburb of Rome. In white vestments and a mitre, he also celebrated Mass on the steps of St. Peter's before giving his Easter message to the throng in the square.

As the pontiff appeared to speak, about 30 persons near the front of the crowd unveiled banners reading, "fewer children, less famine," "yes to the pill," and "five million Italians want a family without hypocrisy and cruelty."

Others tried to tear down the banners and police hurried the demonstrators out of the crowd. The Roman Catholic Church forbids divorce and artificial methods of birth control.

Woman Shoots Man in Lip at New Madrid

NEW MADRID - Robert King was shot in the lip with a .22 caliber pistol by Mary Scott at 2 a.m. today, Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, charged today.

King was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston for treatment of the wound and released. It required 50 stitches to close the wound.

The shooting, which occurred at the Scott home on Pinnell street, resulted after the woman ordered King to leave her home, Ramsey said. King, who had no car, was going to take her car, the sheriff said, but she ordered him not to take it.

When he started to enter the car, she went back into the house, got a pistol and shot him, the sheriff charged.

No charges were filed against the woman.

Police Report Two Burglaries; 14 Arrested

A television set and about $25 were reported taken in two separate house break ins reported to police during the weekend.

Dennis Crowley, 522 Clayton, told police Sunday afternoon that about $25 was taken from his residence sometime during the weekend. Entry was gained through the back door, he said. The money was kept in a small bank at the house, police reported.

Stolen Goods Recovered

NEW MADRID - Several farm implements believed to have been stolen were recovered sunday morning by Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey Jr., on the Alfred Patton farm five miles west of Marston.

Patton, 37, who is out on $5,000 bond on previous charges of selling and possession of stolen property, now faces additional charges of possession of stolen property.

Ramsey said warrants have been issued for Patton's arrest but that Patton's whereabouts are not known.

Found Sunday on the Patton farm were:

Parts from Allis Chalmers and John Deere cultivators, found about 200 feet from the farmhouse under a pile of wood; a grader blade, found about one-fourth of a mile from the farmhouse, and John Deere and Allis Chalmers cultivator parts, found in a ditch about 300 yards from the farmhouse. The equipment was owned by Guy DeLise, Ramsey said.

Patton had previously been charged with possession of or selling the following items:

Two John Deere hydraulic cylinders owned by C. B. Alsobrook.

Two Sikeston Scenes in New Color Booklet

The brochure is ready for distribution, Henry Maddox, director of the division of commerce and industrial development, Jefferson City, announced.

A copy may be obtained, at no charge, by writing to Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, P. O. Box 118, Jefferson City, 65101.

$505 Raised By Students

Mrs. Buford Baber, Scott county chairman of the Easter Seal campaign, said today that $504.51 was collected in the drive at the elementary, junior high school, high school and by the high school student council in school and public fund raising efforts.

The student council collected $407.31, more than a half a mile of pennies, in their mile of pennies drive. The students collected at car stops and at public places two weekends. A collection table also was set up at the public school.

Peaking Unit To Arrive Soon

A new 2,000 KV peaking unit to be used during periods of high electrical use will arrive between April 15 and 20, Dick Inman, Board of Public Works manager said today.

The peaking unit steps up the power supply to serve customers without increasing the city's contract for power purchased from Southwestern Power Administration, Inman said.

The unit is estimated to pay for itself in about six years, he noted. Cost of the unit is about $142,000.

April 14 Set For Taking Water Bids

Bids will be taken for the first leg of work on water system improvements covered by the recent sale of $1,200,000 in water and sewer bonds at 2 p.m. April 14 at the city administration building.

Dick Inman, manager of the Board of Public Works, said the first contract will include: Construction of a booster pumping station, a one-million-gallon ground storage tank to be located across from the Rail Haven Motel, and installation of a 16-inch water main from the water plant on Center street to Pine street.

A special meeting of the City Council with the Board of Public Works will be called following the bidding to determine who should get the contracts, Inman said.

Plans for the second contract letting for sewer and water improvements should be ready about six weeks after the first letting according to consulting engineers William G. Riddle and Associates of Kansas City, Inman said.

The second letting is expected to include contracts for the construction of more water mains and sewer lines, he noted.

A third contract letting for the construction of an addition to the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram road is expected by midsummer, he said.

Hundreds Hunt Eggs At Dexter

DEXTER — Hundreds of children participated in the annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Kiwanis club at North City Park Saturday afternoon.

About 1,400 eggs were boiled and colored by Kiwanians, Bob Robins, club president, said.

The hunt was divided into three age groups: preschool, first and second graders and third graders and older. Three prize eggs were hidden for each group.

Winners:

Preschool — Mary Jo Allen, first; Jimmy Lincoln, second, and Carla Capps, third.

First and second graders — Darrell Warren, first; Ricky Stearns, second, and Judy Smith, third.

Third graders and older — Sheila Williams, first, and Beverly Davis, third. The second prize egg in this category was not found.

Two Killed, 13 Hurt, on Highways

Two persons were killed and 13 were injured in traffic accidents in Southeast Missouri during the Easter weekend.

Ernest E. Hackworth, 54, of Esther died Saturday at the Ironton hospital from injuries sustained in a one-car accident on highway 21, six miles south of Ironton at 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

The highway patrol said his car ran off the road and hit a concrete bridge.

Carolyn Ollar, 26, of Memphis, was killed in a two-car collision at 5:25 p.m. Sunday on U. S. highway 61, two miles south of Portageville.

Injured in the accident were Teresa Ollar, 4, Memphis, broken leg and face injuries; Gene Ollar, 6, Memphis, possible head injury and face injuries; Phillip Ollar, 25, Memphis, face cuts, chest and leg injuries; John Weaver, 62, Springfield, chest injuries and face cuts and Emanuel Fitzgerald, Portageville, possible head injury. They were taken to the Hayti hospital.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Weaver attempted to pass another vehicle and hit head on the car driven by Phillip Ollar. Weaver was charged with driving while intoxicated. It is not known whether manslaughter charges will be filed, troopers said.

Two persons sustained knee injuries in a two-car accident on U. S. 61 at Portageville Sunday at 2:45 p.m.

A car driven by Shirley Jean Gregory, 25, Memphis, collided with a car driven by Anita Louise Dial, 25, Portageville, as the Dial car was making a turn, troopers reported.

Injured were Mrs. Gregory and Richard Todd Gregory, 2, Memphis. Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Mrs. Gregory was charged with failure to yield right of way and having no operator's license.

Eddie Flowers, 15, Sikeston Route 1, sustained a left leg cut when his car skidded on a wooden bridge and went into a ditch on a gravel road four miles west of Crowder in Stoddard county, troopers said. The accident occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Flowers was taken to the Sikeston hospital. No arrest has been made, troopers reported. The legal age for driving in Missouri is 16.

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident on Route C in Mississippi county, four miles south of Charleston at noon Sunday.

A car driven by Jeff Schoffner, 49, Charleston, failed in the attempt to pass a car driven by Oscar Anderson, 69, East Prairie and collided, the highway patrol reported.

Injured were Anderson, knee injury, and Mattie Schoffner, 43, Charleston, right ankle and foot injury. Both were taken to the Sikeston hospital.

A three-car rear end pileup on U. S. 61 at Marston Sunday at 6 p.m. resulted in injuries to two.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Edward Norwood, 38, Marston, was slowing down for another vehicle when a car driven by Thomas Spencer, 47, Memphis, skidded into the rear of the Norwood car. A third car, driven by Roger Sample, 25, State College, Ark., skidded into the rear of the Spencer car.

Three Unopposed At New Madrid

NEW MADRID — Three aldermen are unopposed in bids for reelection April 4. Councilman Lee Boyd, ward 1; C. E. LaValle, ward 2, and John A. Hunter, ward 3 were the only candidates to file. Filing deadline was last Monday.

Easter Weekend Unlucky for 23

Twenty three persons were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital over the weekend.

Some Milk Processing Plants Being Picketed

By the Associated Press

Dairy farmer pickets appeared outside some dairy plants today as the National Farmers Organization strove to dramatize its 25-state effort to raise producers' prices by withholding milk from the market.

Indianapolis processing plants were targets of some NFO members. Similar picketing occurred in other cities.

But, except in Tennessee where members of the Teamsters Union refused to truck dairy products and shut off the flow of milk to homes and stores in much of the state, the demonstrations appeared to be having little or minor initial effect.

HUNDREDS PARTICIPATED in the annual Easter egg hunt Saturday at North City Park in Dexter. The hunt was sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
WHAT TO DO ABOUT CRIME

The first National Conference on Crime Contro, a two-day meeting, opens in Washington on Tuesday (March 28.)

Crime over the past few years has acquired great political glamour. Mayors, governors, President Johnson himself are making much of the public worry over robbery, rape and murder.

Gov. Kirk of Florida has a private army against crime, and several other governors are leaning in that direction. Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City on March 8 promised that "the top priority of my administration this year has been given to the war against crime."

Barry Goldwater early in the 1964 campaign found out that crime was about as dependable - and safe - a campaign issue as sin and motherhood. He rang all the organ stops on "crime in the streets."

Lyndon B. Johnson played down crime as an issue in 1964, but two years ago he created a blue-ribbon Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. On its recommendations the President based his program for crime prevention which he sent to Congress last Feb. 6. The measure, on which Senate and House hearings already have begun, anticipates federal grants in the next two years of $350 million to help finance state and local crime programs.

National attention is now focused on a series of Supreme Court decisions setting forth the rights of persons accused of crime. The most recent and most hotly debated ruling of the series was handed down June 13, 1966 in Miranda v. Arizona. To avoid violation of the Fifth Amendment privilege, the court stated: "Prior to any questioning, the person must be warned that he has a right to remain silent, that any statement he does make may be used as evidence against him, and that he has a right to the presence of an attorney."

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary of New York City on March 18 said recent court rulings designed to protect the rights of defendants were "restricting" the police. Attorney Gen. Ramsey Clark, however, had told a House Judiciary subcommittee on March 15: "I don't think court rules cause crimes. It's a little more difficult than that."

The President's commission, in its report issued on Feb. 18 in general found that law enforcement agencies had fallen behind the times. They had failed to make use of new techniques and equipment. They had made little use of systems analysis, data processing, and new training procedures.

That new techniques - and more police - are desperately needed is evident. The FBI reported on March 15 that serious crime surged upward 11 per cent last year. Curiously, the sharpest rise was reported in small cities.

President Johnson's attitude is more basic. "Poverty. There is the real enemy," the president told a group of state crime administrators last Oct. 15. "Strike poverty down and much of crime will fall with it. Punish the criminal. By all means. But if we wish to rid this country of crime, if we wish to stop hacking at its branches only, we must cut its roots and drain its swampy breeding place, the slum."

Missouri was the setting for a major development in the 1968 presidential campaign.

This occurred in Fulton when Vice President Hubert Humphrey chose the same site where Winston Churchill gave his famous "iron curtain" speech 21 years ago to declare an open door policy between Russia and the west.

Humphrey's choice wasn't particularly significant but the fact that he was President Lyndon B. Johnson's choice to make the speech was.

The President might have made the speech himself. He could have permitted Secretary of State Dean Rusk to make this major foreign policy declaration.

Instead he chose Humphrey and the significance of the choice is that the President has demonstrated by action instead of merely by words that Humphrey is the choice for his 1968 running mate.

This assumes, of course, that Johnson will run. The assumption isn't a wild one. Johnson might be expected to seek a second term and he's been talking more and more like a candidate recently. He has even shrugged off Bobby Kennedy's insulting behavior with kind words - at least those uttered in public.

The fact that Johnson approves of Humphrey as his running mate gives the nation little feeling of comfort but things could be worse. The country could have a weak President and a strong Vice President.

Long live President Johnson and may he keep his health as long as he is the occupant of the White House.

We have voted a levy for schools, parks and library.

Why wouldn't it be a good thing to vote a one mill levy for Industrial development?

This fund would produce a base to acquire land sites which are necessary if we hope to interest new industry in locating here.

The fact is that nearly every city in Missouri as well as across the nation has this fund and has been developing industrial sites while we want to sleep at the switch for a few years. This, we cannot afford and don't let anyone tell you otherwise.

So if you want progress and more jobs and payrolls in Sikeston, then we must vote YES for an industrial levy.

While we were in Texas recently, I saw Texas newspapers "playing up" a professor of Journalism's ten commandments for proper reading of a newspaper. Thinking they might be of value to you, I am passing them on.

Here they are:

ONE - Read your newspaper fully each day. Make it a habit.

TWO - Don't be headline-happy. Heads are just the menu; you must eat the food itself to get a satisfying meal.

FOUR - Don't be one-subject happy. Sticking only to sports, comics or society news is like picking up pennies and ignoring dollars.

FIVE - Be a fact-seeker. Get the facts from the news column, then read the comments of editorial writers and columnists. You may find that you are the better thinker (at least in your own opinion.

SIX - Read with both eyes. Note the qualifying words and also "who says so." Don't take an accusation for a conviction, rumor for fact, or confuse plans with accomplishments.

SEVEN - Don't be a reading coward. Don't be afraid to weigh opinions in complete conflict with your own.

EIGHT - Get out of any reading rut you may have fallen into and read at least one thing a day completely apart from your normal interest, to give yourself a mental job.

NINE - Plan your shopping and buying at home with the help of the advertising columns of your newspaper.

TEN - Relax and enjoy the fun every day. There is a lighter side of life and your newspaper covers it - so give yourself a break and join in the enjoyment.

- Frank Briggs in the Macon Chronicle Herald.

FISHING FAR FROM HOME

In the interests of conservation, the Senate Committee on Commerce is pushing for legislation to establish a "fishery zone" 12 miles wide in all U.S. coastal waters. With few exceptions, foreign fishermen would be excluded from operating in that zone, which is presently the case within only that 3 - mile zone internationally recognized as our "territorial waters."

The report of the Committee's hearings clearly demonstrates the need for a broader area of exclusion. And this could be reasonably done, according to legal testimony, without claiming an extension of territorial waters and with no interference to ordinary shipping on the high seas outside the 3-mile zone.

Presently, foreign fishermen are able to operate in the very months of some of our most important bays and harbors, and over grounds which our own fishermen have for years worked with utmost care to maintain a continuing good supply of marketable fish. In recent years, some foreign vessels, most notably those of the Soviet Union, have been dragging those grounds with nets so fine in mesh that hardly a minnow can get through. And according to U.S. fishermen who claim to have observed it, the Communists lack even the decency to throw the small ones back. After picking out the larger, edible fish, they dump all the rest in the hold to be ground up as fish meal or fertilizer. We don't think it far-fetched to suggest that they may be deliberately trying to damage or destroy our offshore fishing grounds.

In any case, that's what they've been doing. And the effects are already evident in diminishing annual hauls of such important seafoods as crabs, shrimp and salmon. Also, the big Soviet trawlers have time and again destroyed stationary equipment (set nets and traps) which U.S. fishermen use, instead of trawlers, as part of the program to conserve the fish stock for coming years.

While there's certainly justification for a 12-mile zone in the interests of conservation alone, there may be some equally compelling reasons. For some of those Soviet Trawlers spend a lot of time in the mouths of some of our harbors where there are few if any food fish to be caught. When fishermen far from home dip their nets and drop location markers where they know fish do not abound, there is reason to wonder for what they are really fishing.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS

The 40th annual convention of the Reserve Officers Association this month highlights the fact that the whole structure of our military reserve organization has been distrupted in recent months by Defense Secretary McNamara. The outstanding example was his deactivation last December of some 750 organized Army Reserve units, including all six combat divisions. This was done while Congress was out of session and after the Senate Committee on Armed Forces had unanimously opposed such a move.

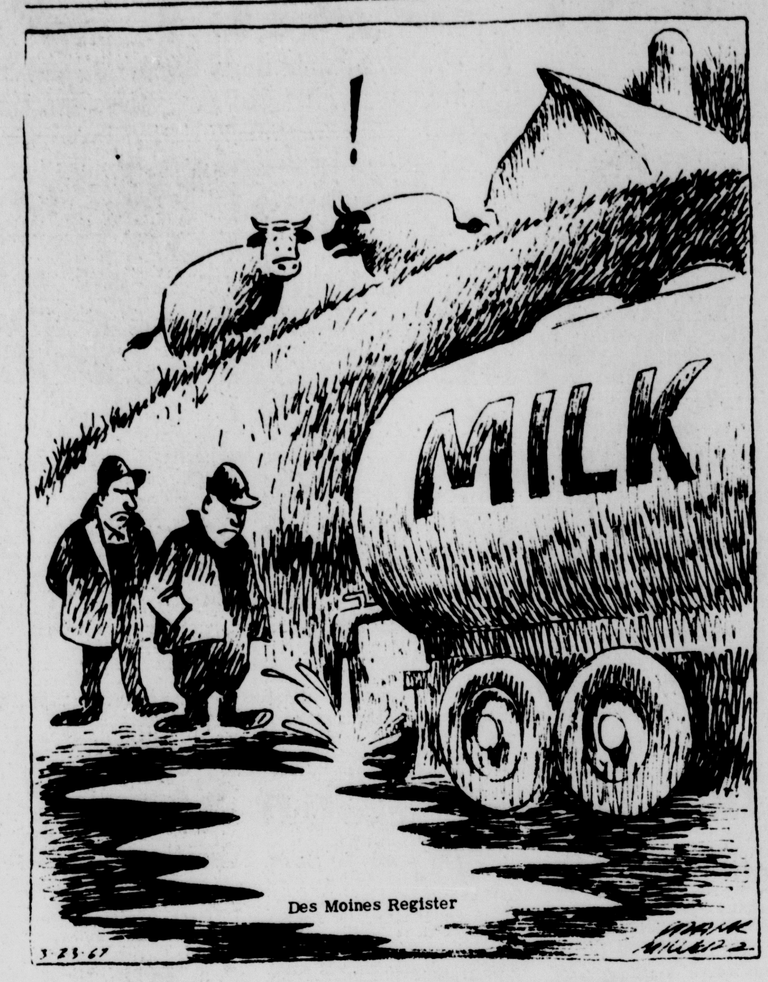
The Defense Secretary claimed that there was "no military requirement" for any of the abolished units. However, in subsequent hearings by the Senate Committee, military witnesses acknowledged that among those abolished were a "number of units of the exact type listed on the requests of General Westmoreland for Vietnam, and which the Active Army had been and in some cases is unable to supply withing the time frame required."

It appears that Mr. McNamara wants to maintain a sizeable force of trained reservists. But for some reason he doesn't want organized reserve units, evidently preferring to call up individual reservists to augment the regulars. Yet military experience has demonstrated that being a part of an established unit is a great factor in soldier morale, as well as combat team efficiency. That was one of the primary reasons Congress established organized reserve units in the first place.

Possibly part of the problem stems from the Defense Secretary's own lack of military training or experience. The famed General Von Clausewitz, in his classic treatise "On War" noted that theorists are inclined "to look upon combat as purely a trial of strength or numbers, being unable to comprehend non-physical factors as morale and esprit d'corps." Certainly it is a "war of numbers" which the Defense Secretary and his fellow theorists have been conducting in Vietnam. Perhaps they, and their computers, find it much simpler to call up individuals from the reserve or by draft than it would be to maneuver organized reserve units.

We hope that Reserve Officers Convention in New York will initiate some action to help Congress make some corrections. Being "citizen - soldiers," reservists are sometimes better able to do something about mismanagement (or whatever) by politically appointed civilians in the Defense Department than can the Army regulars.

'WELL, IF THAT'S WHAT THEY'RE GOING TO DO WITH IT THEN I'M GOING TO START WITHHOLDING'



H. L. Hunt Says

END OF THE "GREAT SOCIETY"

It has been reported that President Johnson has decided to drop the term "Great Society" to describe his programs for expanding the powers and spending of the federal government. The accuracy of these reports is suggested by the omission of any reference to the "Great Society" in the President's 1967 State of the Union message.

Essentially the same programs to which President Johnson gave the "Great Society" label had previously borne three other labels: New Deal, Fair Deal and New Frontier. President Eisenhower did not give them a label, but continued most of them nevertheless. The names have changed, but the drive which they describe has not. It is the drive toward full federal control of every aspect of American life.

Each of the four specific slogans used to make this push for power sound appealing to the voters has been associated with an individual President. No President has used more than one of them. So it marks a change for President Johnson to abandon his particular slogan and look for a new one. It could well mean that even the most appealing slogans are no longer so useful in selling a shoddy and dangerous product. In any case it is evident that the "Great Society" slogan had become more a liability than an asset to the President.

This is especially encouraging to freedom-loving Americans because the "Great Society" slogan was the most openly socialist of all. Perhaps the propagandists for big government have realized that the country is not ready for open socialism. In time and with education, Americans will reject all its disguised forms as well. HLH.

If the earth were to be divided equally among everyone alive, your fair share would amount to about 12½ acres.

The coldest community in the world is Oymyakkon in Siberia, where a temperature of minus 96 degrees has been recorded. Because of its inclement climate Siberia, which is as large as the combined area of the United States and Mexico, has a population of only about 23½ million.

The hottest place in America is the Greenland Ranch in Death Valley, Cal. On July 10, 1913 the mercury there soared to a sizzling 134 degrees — in the shade!

Do you think of America's "Founding Fathers" as old men? The average age of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was 44.6 years, and the men in President George Washington's first Cabinet averaged only 39 years at the start of their term in office.

Tourism has become one of the world's fastest growing industries. Last year about 116 million people traveled outside their home countries, and spent about $13½ billion.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Diplomats are worried over the fact that Ho Chi Minh's blunt rejection of President Johnson's peace overture has increased pressure on the President to escalate the war.

Chief pressure comes from the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who once again have urged the President to let them close shipping into Haiphong, which they state has been used by the Russians and smaller Communist countries to unload modern artillery and rockets.

In the past the President has countered the joint chiefs by arguing that he is out to curtail Red Chinese influence in North Vietnam, and the mining Haiphong Harbor would only play into Chinese hands and strengthen their influence in Hanoi. The Chinese have been pressuring Ho Chi Minh to continue the war. The Russians have been pressuring him to end it.

The President has been fully aware of the fact that Russian arms were entering Haiphong, and has discussed this with both Foreign Minister Gromyko and Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin. They have argued that if they are to have any influence with the North Vietnamese, Moscow must give military aid. Johnson has gone along with this, and is further convinced that Premier Kosygin, when he met with Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London, did his best to persuade Ho Chi Minh to sit down at the conference table. Johnson was on the transatlantic telephone every day with Wilson, knew all the details of the communications with Hanoi. Actually, Kosygin remained in London an extra day, hoping to get favorable word from Ho. But Chinese influence apparently outweighed Russian influence.

So the Joint Chiefs of Staff are now telling the President that, since his strategy didn't work, they should be permitted to mine Haiphong Harbor.

$2,000,000 OF LUCK

Securities and exchange investigators are taking a dim view of the latest Wall Street success story on how to make two million dollars in less than 10 minutes. It happened on the day that Schenley, the big liquor company, and P. Lorillard, the big tobacco company, went into a corporate huddle to finalize a long - planned merger.

As the meeting dragged on, Schenley stockholders became nervous that a snag had developed and there would be no merger. The New York Stock Exchange, though aware that the negotiations had not broken down, did nothing to head off the rumor. Sell orders began to pour in until the exchange ordered a halt in the trading.

But minutes before the close of business, the market was opened again to Schenley transactions. By this time, the pile - up of sell orders had knocked the stock down eight points and Glen Alden Corporation quickly moved in and purchased 200,000 shares at the low price.

Next morning, when the financial world learned that the Schenley - Lorillard merger was still in the works, the stock bounced back up. Glen Alden sold out for a cool $2,100,000 profit. It took less than 10 minutes of trading time for the company to pull off this profit.

The SEC would now like to know why the stock exchange opened the trading for a few minutes before closing time and did nothing to scotch the false rumors. SEC investigators would also like to know whether Glen Alden had inside information or merely had two million dollars worth of luck.

THREE RED GUARDS

Three Chinese Red guards, once favorable to Mao Tse-Tung, have escaped from their units and turned up in Formosa. They are Wong Chao-Tien, Chou Pai - Yuan and Dze Shen - Peng.

They first began to question Chinese propaganda which criticized American automobile accidents. How, they asked, could America have so many accidents unless America also had many automobiles? They could see there weren't enough cars in China to have many accidents.

They also read in their newspapers excerpts from western papers criticizing their governments. It struck them that if the press was free to challenge the policies of the governments then those countries must be more Democratic than China.

One escapee, Chou Pai-Yuan, hasn't found the free world entirely to his liking. Women's skirts are too short and the movies too sexy. And he thinks it's wrong for the people to waste so much food.

However his friend Sze doesn't mind the short skirts at all and would rather see the sexy movies than the dull propaganda films produced by the Red Chinese. He also prefers to live in a society that waste food than in a society where people go hungry.

THERE WAS ADAM

Few sessions of congress have been so linked to one member as the 90th Congress to Adam Clayton Powell.

The very first piece of legislation offered on the house floor Jan. 10 was H. Res. 1, sponsored by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., establishing a special committee to investigate Powell's right to be seated.

Recently, following a house discussion on hiring of special counsel to combat Powell's court suit to force his seating, Rep. John Saylor, R-Pa., remarked:

"When the history of the 90th Congress is written, it is going to read like the Good Book. In the beginning there was Adam."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Adam Clayton Powell Plans Return -- To Whack Labor Leaders.

Washington, D. C.: -- Up on the Hill they're beginning to dust off old, discarded signs which read: "Never Aggravate Adam Clayton Powell." They've heard that the irreverent gentleman from Harlem is planning to make a tour de farce (sic) right across the nation shortly.

He may not wander into New York. But he could campaign for re - election at long-distance -- from a score of stages in other big towns. For some weeks now one of his business advisers has been attempting to line up personal appearances for Adam and his "disciplines," a Bimini combo, in 11 cities stretching from Philadelphia to Seattle, via Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

If the itinerary for this sentimental journey can be completed (the boys on Broadway now call Adam Powell one of America's strongest box office appeals) there certainly would be a stand in this capital.

Certainly he'll be back with his Congressional credentials after the April 11th Election Day -- much to the delight of some of those who voted to oust him but now want his vote, his support, his rapier tongue in a battle he once won for them.

This was a fight to stop labor from getting what it has wanted most from Congress for exactly 20 years -- repeal of the ban on common situs picketing. The law now prevents building and construction unions from picketing a big construction site on which many contractors are operating at the same time. Thus the plumbers, in a dispute with a single contractor revamping Pad 34 of the Florida moonport, now cannot picket the space base since this might shut down the other contractors as well.

To understand how vital this is to the labor movement it must be realized that the $96 billion building and construction business is the nation's largest industry.

And the AFL-CIO construction union bloc -- 3,500,000 strong -- is the most influential force inside labor.

The ban on this sort of secondary picketing began in the Taft - Hartley law of 1947. In 20 years four presidents -- Messrs. Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson -- have backed labor's repeal drive.

In this past 89th Congress, labor was about to win. The repealer was passed through by the House Rules Committee then chaired by "Judge" Howard Smith of Virginia, hardly one of labor's bosom buddies. But to get to the floor the bill had to be handed in by the irascible Rev. Powell, then chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Instead, he bottled it up.

He charged there just were not enough Negro workers in the building and construction unions.

He was in the political pressure cooker -- but he took the heat. The bill died. Many believe that's where the revolt started which led Adam to self-exile on his own carefully selected Devil's Island.

Now labor again is battling for what it claims is the same right to picket enjoyed by all other unions in other fields. The new repeal bill is HR 100, introduced by labor's good friend, Congressman Frank Thompson, D-N.J.

Hearings on the bill to permit common situs picketing are scheduled to start before the labor subcommittee during the first week in April.

At the executive council session of the Building and Construction Trades Department in Bal Harbour, Fla., last month its ace lobbyist Walter Mason told his colleagues, "I believe we have the votes on both sides of the aisle which will pass a situs picketing bill."

That's undoubtedly true -- now.

Adam has aggravated lots of people. But he still has his friends in the House or Senate -- to which the repeal bill must go, of course, if it passes the House.

If Adam does hit the hustings, his voice will be heard throughout the land -- and it won't exactly have the tone of the turtle. Adam Powell will be orating as a layman and preaching as a reverend. He will be hitting such cities as Cleveland just as the construction controversy heats up.

The hearings will run .. into April after the opening testimony, probably by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz. And Adam Clayton Powell will be back in Congress then -- if he wants to take his seat.

And silence is not exactly his specialty. And he would have the biggest stage of all -- the House.

So labor isn't over the hurdle yet.

THE INTERNATIONAL DRINK -TEA-

Next to water, tea is the world's favorite drink. In China, where tea was first grown over 5,000 years ago it is sipped from small bowls. In Japan tea leaves are made into a soup, in Siam, it is chewed with salt, in Burma it is pickled and served as a salad and in Russia, tea is flavored with mutton fat. America and Canada are the only countries that care for iced tea.

The trees are on evergreens that grows best in the tropical climates of Ceylon and Java. They will grow in colder climates such as China or Japan but they are not as productive.

Tea plants will grow as tall as a good sized tree but they are kept pruned to a height of about three feet. A good tea bush will yield after 10 years only a quarter of a pound of tea in a year. Only the bud and first two leaves of each branch is used for the finest tea. A Ceylonese woman, using both hands, can pick 60 pounds of tea in a day.

When the processed tea leaves arrive in the United States they must be examined and graded by government inspectors before they are released to the American companies.

After the tea is received at the American manufacturers it is again tested. Each company employs "tea tasters" that will blend the various teas until they have the best flavor. An expert "tea taster" can tell hundreds of teas apart by tasting them. He can tell which teas are mixed in every blend and where each was grown. After deciding on a blend the recipe is kept secret.

For best results in brewing tea:

Measure one teaspoon of tea or one tea bag for each cup of tea. Pour the boiling water over the tea and let it steep or stand for three minutes - five minutes for stronger tea. Drink the tea hot or let it cool and add ice. Do not boil tea - it will be bitter and lose its true flavor.

ROADSIDE CROSSES

In many sections of South Texas the sites of highway fatalities are marked by small shrines in the shape of a cross. The crosses, some of wood and some of elaborate stone, are erected by the family of the deceased as a memorial. Marking the site of a death is a religious custom that originated in Spain, and the crosses are found in areas with heavy Mexican population.

KANSAS CITY CENTRAL dethroned Beaumont and won the Class L state indoor high school track championship Saturday for the fourth time in five years.

Central scored 28 1/2 points. Kansas City Paseo second at 22 and Beaumont third with 17.

Six meet records were broken and one was tied.

Wilbur Smith made 12 of Paseo's points for individual honors. His 7.5 seconds in the 60-yard high hurdles tied the record. He was second in the low hurdles and third in the broad jump.

BILL WHITE, the Philadelphia Phillies' injured first baseman, may be used as a pinch hitter before long, even though doctors say he will not be able to play regularly before June.

"He could pinch hit on opening day April 11," Manager Gene Mauch said Sunday.

THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS sent 12 players back to the minors Saturday, among them George Kernek, who had been billed a year ago as successor to Bill White at first base.

Sox roster players were sent to the Cardinal minor league camp for reassignment and six nonroster players were returned to their minor league clubs.

The other roster players were infielders Jose Arcia, Steve Huntz and John Sipin and outfielders John Kindl and Floyd Wicker.

The nonrostermen were pitchers Dennis Aust, Sal Campesi, Joe Hamende, Leland White and Leo Newton and Catcher Gary Stone.

Kernek and Aust, who pitched briefly for the National League club, were the only two of the group with major league experience.

16 To Battle For Title

Invitational Opens Tonight

PARMA -- Sixteen teams will battle for the championship of the Parma Independent Invitational Basketball tournament this week.

Advance and Gray Ridge, winners of two area tournaments, are favored to take the title. Poplar Bluff, Parma, Sikeston Rebels and Dexter have been tabbed as the dark horses.

Action begins tonight at 6 p.m. when Vanduser and Poplar Bluff square off followed by a 7:30 p.m. game that matches Advance and Lilbourn and an 9 p.m. game that will find Parma going against United Parcel of Sikeston.

Three games will be played daily Monday through Thursday with semi-finals Friday and finals Saturday.

The upper bracket of the tournament seems to be the strongest. Poplar Bluff, Advance and Parma are in it. The lower bracket has Gray Ridge, Portageville, Sikeston Rebels and Dexter.

The Daily Standard team will open tournament action Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. when it challenges Dexter.

Tuesday night's action opens at 6 p.m when rivals Wardell and Kennett lock horns followed at 7:30 p.m. by the Gray Ridge Morley game. At 9 p.m. another rival match will take place, when Portageville and Hayti meet.

Oran and Sikeston open Wednesday night's action at 6 p.m. followed by the Standard-Dexter game at 7:30 p.m. and at 9 p.m. putting the winners of the Vanduser-Poplar Bluff game against the winner of the Advance-Lilbourn contest.

UCLA Ends With Perfect Record And NCAA Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — John Wooden, coach of UCLA's NCAA national basketball champions, isn't sure what the word dynasty means but he may have one on his hands.

Led by giant Lew Alcindor and tiny Mike Warren, the Bruins wrapped up their third national title in four years Saturday night to cap a perfect 30-0 season.

And with all five starters returning, Wooden won't deny that UCLA may be back to claim the title next year.

"I've never been quite sure what the word dynasty means. I've never looked it up," Wooden said after the Uclans had squashed Dayton's game Flyers 79-64 in the championship game.

"But I do hope we can stay up there and be a power," he said. "We're certainly going to continue trying and I hope we'll be back next year, and the year following, and the year following and the year following.

"I never want us to do less than we did this year in order to get here," Wooden said.

Wooden denied that a basketball dynasty, at UCLA, if there is to be one, would be harmful to college basketball.

"I'd say the New York Yankee regime wasn't bad for baseball," Wooden said. "I think a winning team should give others incentive to build to the level of the best."

Don Donoher, the Dayton coach, agrees.

"When you see a team like this it makes you want to build toward it," he said.

The Flyers fell behind 20-4 as the game started and never really knew what hit them.

Dayton's biggest scoring threat, Don May hit only three of 12 baskets in the first half and the team hit only 23.8 per cent from the field. May wound up with 21 points but the Flyers team shooting only warmed up to 34 per cent.

Alcindor's mere presence was enough to intimidate Dayton, but he scored 20 points and nabbed 18 rebounds for good measure. Lucius Allen had 19 points and Warren 17.

It was the third straight year in the playoffs for Dayton and the third time it had been eliminated by the No. 1 ranked team.

The Flyers finished 25-6 this season.

Guy Lewis, whose Houston Cougars did only what was necessary to defeat North Carolina, 84-62 in the consolation game, also is optimistic about next season.

"We lose two starters, but I think that we can have a team just as good or better next season," Lewis said. "When you wind up you season with a win over the number three ranked team in the country, it's a pretty good indication."

Hawk-Warrior Battle For NBA Supremacy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Warriors and the St. Louis Hawks now are getting ready for the battle for supremacy in the National Basketball Association's Western Division, but the Boston Celtics surprisingly have a little unfinished business in the East.

The Warriors, who won their third straight playoff victory from Los Angeles Sunday, 122-115, play the Hawks in the Cow Palace Thursday night in the opener of their series.

But the Celts, who had beaten New York 21 times including two recent playoff triumphs, were upended by the Knicks 123-112 in Boston and the series moves back to New York Tuesday.

Philadelphia won its playoff series from Cincinnati with a 112-94 third-game victory Saturday while St. Louis disposed of Chicago with a 119-106 triumph in its final game in the preliminary Western Division series.

The rest of the schedule between St. Louis and San Francisco has the second game on the Coast Saturday and then it's back to St. Louis for the third game on April 5 and the fourth game on April 8.

If additional games are needed, the fifth will be at San Francisco on April 10, the sixth at St. Louis on April 12 and the seventh in San Francisco on April 14.

Rick Barry led the Warriors Sunday with 37 points, and the Lakers sorely missed Jerry West, out of the game with a broken finger. Elgin Baylor had 37 points for Los Angeles.

Willis Reed had 38 points for the Knicks and dominated the boards in the upset. Cazzie Russell had 24 points and Walt Bellamy added 23. John Havlicek had 29 for Boston.

Exhibition Baseball

McDowell Goes 6 Hitless

By RON RAPOPORT

The verdict on Sam McDowell may not be final for a couple of months yet, but the Chicago Cubs think they see the jury coming in.

McDowell, of course, is the fireballing Cleveland left-hander who was supposed to make everybody forget about Sandy Koufax. He ran into arm trouble last year and had a mediocre season.

But Sunday, with the opening of the major-league baseball season just a little more than two weeks away, McDowell went six innings against the Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz., and gave up not so much as a single hit.

The Indians had a little trouble scoring themselves, but finally pushed across three unearned runs in the eighth inning and added another in the ninth, then withstood a Chicago challenge and won 4-3.

In all, Sudden Sam struck out six and walked one in the Cleveland triumph. The Cubs' runs all came in the ninth, two of them on Ron Santo's two run homer in his first appearance since being spiked on March 17.

In other exhibition games Sunday, Baltimore beat Los Angeles 3-1, Kansas City edged Houston 5-4, California blanked San Francisco 5-0, Philadelphia outslugged Atlanta 10-9, the New York Yankees bounced Cincinnati 9-3, Pittsburgh and Washington tied 5-5 in 15 innings, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Mets 4-3 in 10 innings, Minnesota blasted Boston 7-1 and St. Louis beat Detroit 6-2.

Cleveland's Dick Radatz set the Cubs down without a hit in the seventh, but Jim Stewart broke the spell in the eighth with a two-out pinch single off Vince Romo.

Dave Johnson knocked in two runs for the Orioles with a double and two singles in the victory over the Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla. Dave Duncan drove in two runs, one on a homer, for Kansas City as the Astros fell at Cocoa, Fla.

George Brunet set San Francisco down on two hits in six innings in the Angels' triumph at Palm Springs, Calif. Tom Satriano had three hits and two runs batted in for California.

Two balks by Charlie Vaughan sent in the tying and winning runs for Philadelphia at Clearwater, Fla. The Phillies blew a 7-2 lead before coming back for the victory.

Horace Clarke had four runs batted in and four hits for the Yankees at Tampa, Fla., and Lou Clinton homered for the Yanks. Whitey Ford was the winning pitcher.

The Senators-Pirates game was called off at Pompano Beach, Fla., after four hours and 15 minutes because of darkness. Frank Howard had three runs batted in for the Senators and Matty Alou and Maury Wills each had four Pittsburgh hits.

Tom McCraw's single with the bases loaded in the 10th gave the White Sox their win at St. Petersburg, Fla. Ron Swoboda and Jerry Grote homered for the Mets.

Jim Kaat gave up five hits in seven innings in the Minnesota triumph at Orlando, Fla. Rico Petrocelli homered for the lone Sox run.

Ray Washburn doubled in a run and pitched five good innings for the Cardinals at Lakeland, Fla. Jerry Lumpe doubled in both Detroit runs.

"HE WHISPERS TO ME"

In the early morning hours
Just at the break of day
In quiet Meditation
I seek my God and pray

It is the time of day when I
Feel Nearer to My Lord
When all the world is peaceful
I read his holy Word.

The quiet hours When I kneel down
and pray to God above
I listen as he tells my heart
About the Wonders of his love.

Yes, he tells me of his love
so great
As I listen to him there
The calm and peace that fills my soul
As I kneel in silent prayer.

I tell him of my trials
He whispers hope and peace to me
Believe on me and I will do
So very much for thee.

I thank him and I praise him
For without him I would be
Just like a ship without a sail
Lost in a storm at sea.

A Record Nears, But Mays Is Too Busy to Notice

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(NEA)—Willie Howard Mays Jr., waiting his turn to bat in the batting cage of the San Francisco Giants, saw the thin fungo bat near the third-base line. He grabbed it and quickly flipped a baseball in the air. Willie chopped at the ball to hit a grounder toward Hal Lanier at shortstop.

But the ball, instead of hitting the infield grass, sailed on a line and then rose in a parabola which took it far over Lanier's head into the outfield. It rolled free to the fence.

"I can't help it," squealed Willie at Lanier, "if there ain't nothin' but hits in my bat." A high-pitched giggle came out of his chocolate face.

Outwardly, there's hardly any change in the compact, thick-necked body with the slightly bandied legs that first showed up in New York's Polo Grounds in 1951. Maybe a tuft or two less of kinky hair, a worry line etched deeper between the eyes, a trace of crow's feet on the edges. Age has placed a gentle tattoo on Willie Mays, who has hit 542 homers in his big league career and conceivably has a chance to surpass the 714 of the immortal Babe Ruth.

Willie will be 36 years old on May 6. Last year he hit 37 home runs. If he plays five more seasons until he's 40, which was Ruth's age when he hit his last homer, and Willie keeps collecting home runs at the 1965 rate, he will surpass the Babe. But records are for the hypothesists, and Willie's a materialist concerned only with what he's doing today.

"I don't think about it," he said, as he tapped a bat on the ground and studiously watched the rookie pitcher throwing batting practice. "I never think about those things, records and all. They're nice, but they're not the way I play baseball. I don't know how many home runs I hit or how many records I got coming to me. I never been any other way. It'd be nice to hit as many home runs as Babe Ruth, but that's a long way off. No use wondering about it."

Willie does worry about the demands on his body as he takes up his normal role as field leader of the Giants.

"I love the game now as much as I ever did," he said, retreating to the team clubhouse after the workout. "I get as much fun out of it, the actual playing but the game is a little harder when you get older. I pace myself and get a lot more rest between games. I don't play doubleheaders. Four or five years ago, I used to work out in the infield. I can't help myself when I'm around the guys. That's why to rest I have to stay away from the park completely."

So you look up the record book and it shows that Willie has never played fewer than 151 games in any season since 1954 (his career had been interrupted by a hitch in the Army), and he has a total of 2,540 base hits with a lifetime batting average of .312. It's a log of amazing durability for an all-out performer.

"I have never been hurt seriously," he said, and rapped his knuckles on the thick barrel of his bat. "Fellows like Mantle, they had injuries long before they even got into baseball. They had a history of it. I try hard not to get out of shape too much between seasons. I come to camp, and I only have to lose four or five pounds. I always weigh around 185.

"The most important thing is the legs. I don't do the things I used to. I don't run the bases. I concede to the fact I'm much older."

Golden Globes

Golden Jubilee, a 1967 All-America Selections winner, has double, golden-yellow flowers from 3½ to 4½ inches in diameter, borne on uniform plants. A row looks like a fine hedge.

Giant golden-yellow flowers, fully double, measuring from 3½ to 4½ inches in diameter appear as golden globes on plants so bushy and compact that, with no clipping at all, they form a perfect hedge.

That's a description of Golden Jubilee, a first generation hybrid marigold, which is one of three All-America Selections award winners for 1967.

While the plants grow about 20 inches high, they spread only 13 inches wide, another characteristic which makes a row of them a natural hedge.

If, like most gardeners, you have grown marigolds of the Climax type, you will find that Golden Jubilee grows about a foot lower than any of the Climax' and is slightly deeper in color than Golden Climax. It also starts flowering earlier and produces more blooms.

But the superior habit of growth is what really makes Golden Jubilee different from marigolds other than its yellow-flowered counterpart, Diamond Jubilee. Just think what you can do in the way of not only a hedge, but also a solid border or bed planting when you know that all of the plants will be of the same height!

A planting of Golden Jubilee in full bloom is a brilliant sight. There are so many flowers on each plant and they are so large and so bright.

Scandinavian Designs Offer Fun in Fashion

Vietnam Service Medal

The United States Armed Forces Vietnam Service Medal may be awarded to individuals who have served in Vietnam and "designated contiguous waters, and air space thereover," since July 3, 1965.

Military personnel who have served in Vietnam before July 3, 1965, and are entitled to the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal, may choose the Vietnam Service Medal instead. However, no one may receive both medals for serving in Vietnam.

The medal itself is a gold disk, one and one-quarter inches in diameter. The front side shows a dragon behind a grove of bamboo trees over the inscription "Republic of Vietnam Service." The bamboo trees were taken from the president's flag of the Republic of Vietnam.

The dragon behind the trees symbolizes military power and is used on the military insignia of Vietnam.

The reverse side of the disk shows a torch superimposed on a crossbow above the curved inscription "United States of America." The torch refers to the Statue of Liberty which is the symbol of the United States and of freedom. The crossbow is an ancient Vietnamese weapon. Together, the torch and crossbow symbolize the American aid to Vietnam.

Details pertaining to the length of time required in Vietnam may be found in Change #13 to AR 672-5-1, dated May 1961. (ANF)

Top State in 4-H Work

Brasher

Chickens and pictures have won prizes for two Missouri boys for their best-in-state 4-H projects, as judged by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The youths and their projects are J. H. Beard, 15, Kansas City, photography, and Dennis Brasher, 16, Bragg City, poultry.

Eastman Kodak Company has awarded Beard a $50 U.S. savings bond for his excellent progress.

Brasher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Brasher, translated his father's occupation into an award-winning project of his own. He cared for 300 hens of his own as well as his father's flock of 35,000. He gathers, grades and packages eggs and vaccinates and debeaks the birds.

Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc. awarded him a wrist watch.

GOV. WARREN E. HEARNES signs a proclamation designating April as FEDERAL LAND BANK MONTH in Missouri. Ralph E. Nowlan, president of The Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, observes the signing.

Proclamation

STATE OF MISSOURI

WHEREAS, the month of April, 1917, marked the beginning of operations of the Nation's twelve Federal Land Banks and the issuance of the first loans to farmers by Land Bank associations; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Land Banks and local associations provided the first nationwide means of making private investment capital available to the use of farmers for modernizing their facilities and increasing their productive capacity; and

WHEREAS, the farmers of Missouri and the allied service and supply industries related to agriculture in this state have shared in a half-century of progress, founded on the wise and constructive use of credit as an agricultural tool; and

WHEREAS, agricultural advancement through sound farm financing has been furthered by the innovations and leadership provided by the Federal Land Banks and Federal Land Bank associations; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Land Banks are dedicating their 50th Anniversary to honoring the farmers of Missouri and the United States for their achievements as "Providers of Plenty:"

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WARREN E. HEARNES, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MISSOURI, do hereby proclaim the month of April, 1967, as

and call upon all citizens to join with the Federal Land Banks and local Land Bank associations to pay just tribute to those engaged in our state's agriculture.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Missouri, in the City of Jefferson, this 27th day of February, 1967.

Club Opposes Turnpike Bill

ST. LOUIS - Senate bill 2, calling for establishment of a turnpike authority in Missouri, does not meet the qualifications for a toll road law as required by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his message to the 74th general assembly, according to the Automobile Club of Missouri.

In that address Jan. 4, 1967, the Governor said:

"I recommend to this general assembly that legislation be enacted to authorize the establishment of turnpikes and to place the economic burden of construction and maintenance directly upon those who use them and benefit by them."

In an appearance before the house roads and highways committee in Jefferson City, the Auto Club charged that: Senate bill 2, in its present form, does not fulfill those requirements because under the leasing provisions in this bill, gasoline tax and other highway user revenues paid by motorists who may never use a toll road, can be used to subsidize the toll facility."

The Auto Club said it recognizes the increasing highway needs in the state but added that there has been no evidence presented that toll roads are the best solution to current highway needs because no study has been made of alternatives to the toll road method.

Senate bill 170 provides for a state tax study commission to study all fiscal operations of the state. The Auto Club pointed out that this could include a study of methods of financing highway construction.

The AAA noted that Missouri maintains 32,000 miles of state highways, compared with only 16,000 in Illinois and 15,000 in New York. It was suggested by the Auto Club that a study should be made to determine why Missouri maintains such a disproportionately high amount of state highways on the lowest gasoline tax rate in the United States. In fact, the Auto Club called for a thorough study to be made of the entire highway structure before any precipitant action is taken to disturb the present Missouri highway system.

The provision in senate bill 2 that the Turnpike Authority can lease a toll road to the state highway commission constitutes a procedure whereby highway user funds can be used to pay principal and interest on toll road bonds. "This," said the Auto club, "is contrary to the intent of the Missouri Constitution. Under this arrangement, the turnpike authority is, in effect, being given authority to make highway user funds available to build toll roads anywhere in the state."

"It is a basic principle," said the Auto club, "that leases should be negotiated at arms length for the protection of the public. This is impossible under Senate Bill No. 2 because negotiations on such a lease would be fiction, since the Highway Commission would also comprise the turnpike authority, putting the Highway Commission in the position of being both landlord and tenant."

"There is no justification," charged the Auto club, "for a Turnpike Authority to be given the power to set speed limits 20 per cent higher than those existing on the free state highway system. Traffic cannot safely move at speeds 20 per cent higher on toll roads if those roadways are built to the same design standards as interstate highways which have a design speed of 70 miles per hour. The best evidence of this is found in statistics recently released by the International Bridge and Tunnel Association. According to their figures, the Kansas Turnpike, with an 80 mile-per-hour speed limit has a fatality rate of 9.7 persons killed per 100 million miles of travel, over 3 times greater than the national average of 2.8 for all turnpikes. Nor is there any justification for the provision permitting unlimited vehicle weights and dimensions on a toll road."

Police Probe Interstate Theft Ring

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The recovery of vehicles and $7,500 worth of farm chemical in the Bootheel during the past two weeks has led to a probe by state and federal law authorities into the possibility of an area link with an interstate theft ring which originated in Texas.

According to Sgt. Jeff M. Hickman of Hayti, who is representing the State Highway Patrol in the investigation, informers in Texas spurred a Ranger, a Deputy Sheriff and a detective from the Dallas, Tex., area to come to Pemiscot County about two weeks ago to search for cars and other items stolen in several counties in Texas.

As of this date Sergeant Hickmen states, the state and federal agents have recovered a 1966 Ford, three semi-trailers, three pick-up trucks which are 1965 and 1966 motel Chevrolets and the $7,500 worth of Treflan, all of which have definitely been identified as part of the stolen Texas loot.

Questioned as to who had the stolen items in their possession, Sgt. Hickman replied that some of the recovered goods were found abandoned and the remainder were in the hands of individuals who willingly surrendered them, reporting that they had bought them from persons and were not aware that they had stolen goods.

Most of the items, except for a portion of the chemical were recovered in and around Caruthersville in Pemiscot County. Some of the chemical was located in the possession of a Dunklin county man, according to Captain E. F. Dampf of the headquarters office of the Highway Patrol at Poplar Bluff.

A great many rumors are being circulated all over the Bootheel about prominent individuals being under investigation or already in custody and charged with conspiracy with the interstate theft ring.

A newsman checked reliable sources, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation Office in St. Louis, and could find no evidence that any person had been charged, taken into custody or indicated in connection with this stolen property.

The case is under investigation and, as stated by Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Sharon J. Pate, "You can be sure that the FBI will work slowly but surely. When they are ready to pull the net, which may not be for another month or so, if any persons in this area are implicated, they'll be caught."

Hart Heads M.U. Section

COLUMBIA -- Dr. William M. Hart has been appointed professor of surgery and head of the section of ophthalmology at the University of Missouri medical center. He assumed duties March 1, succeeding Dr. Carl H. Ide, who has been acting chief of the section.

Dr. Hart came from Bethesda, Md., where he had been director of the Eye Research Foundation of Bethesda, a private institution affiliated with the University of Maryland. He will continue on the board of trustees of the foundation.

He has also served as a research consultant to the federal aviation agency; a member of the committee on vision, National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council; and a member of the program-project committee of the National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

A native of St. Clair county, Dr. Hart received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau; and Master of Science degree from the University of Iowa; a Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Minnesota as a Mayo Foundation Fellow in physiology; and his Doctor of Medicine degree at Temple University, Philadelphia.

He remained at Temple as a research associate professor of ophthalmology from 1949 to 1952 and then served a year as chief of the branch of ophthalmology at the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

Between 1954 and 1964 he was clinical associate professor of ophthalmology and a special lecturer in physiology at Georgetown University while he was in private practice.

Dr. Hart was named a diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology in 1952. He is also a member of a number of medical societies and is listed in Who's Who in America, American Men of Medicine, Leaders in American Science, and American Men of Science.

Dr. and Mrs. Hart have four children, two married daughters, a son in medical school at the University of Maryland, and a daughter attending Grinnell College.

Black Walnut Hulls Pack Sedative Ability

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- Ozark fishermen have known for years what scientists are just now discovering: a substance found in the green hulls of black walnuts has immobilizing qualities.

For generations, crafty Missouri anglers have put bags of the walnut hulls in streams and ponds to stun temporarily the fish, which then float to the top and are easily caught. Now pharmacologists at the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia have succeeded in isolating the element that acts as a mild sedative.

Umesh C. Bhargava, an Indian student who is a Doctor of Philosophy candidate, continued investigations begun some time ago by the chairman of the department of pharmacology, Dr. B. A. Westfall. After considerable study, Bhargava was able to identify the mystery element. It is ellagic acid, which is common to many plants. It has been found, also, in hulls of cashew nuts, in guava fruit, beer, cognac spirits, and in small amounts in some French and German wines.

Bhargava has found that research animals react to the compound much as the fish do to the walnut hulls. When injected into mice, the ellagic acid produces sedation and musucular incoordination. In albino rats it causes a fall in blood pressure with accompanying temporary increases then decreases in heart rate and respiration, from which the animals soon recover. Ellagic acid also causes a mild analgesia and, given along with pentobarbital, increases sleeping time.

The reactions suggest possible commercial use of the new compound in the production of tranquilizers, Bhargava said.

He has been invited to present a paper on his findings at an April meeting of the Federation of American Socieites for Experimental Biology. Member societies include the American Physiological Society, American Society of Biological Chemists, American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, American Society for Experimental Pathology, American Institute of Nutrition, and American Association of Immunologists.

Senior Citizens Meet at NSC

One of the quilts that they have finished was given to a family who lost all their belongings when their house burned.

Two days were spent making and mending clothes to be given to a needy family in the area.

Senior citizens come to the center each week. This week 12 women came, last week 21. The numbers vary according to the weather but now that spring is here it is expected that more women will come out each week.

Along with the work the women do, they have a social hour with refreshments and visiting.

Senior citizen women in the Morehouse, Matthews, and Canalou communities may participate in the Tuesday afternoon sessions.

Cape Federal Building Now Being Razed

CAPE GIRARDEAU, -- Demolition has started on the 57-year-old federal building here at the downtown corner of Fountain and Broadway.

The site will be graded down to street level and a new federal courthouse and office building will be erected on the same site.

Furnishings in the building were distributed among various government agencies.

Under way is the dismantling of salvageable materials, including iron railings on the staircase and the removal of marble paneling in the lobby and elsewhere in the structure.

The solid stone walls will be knocked down by a steel headache ball when the interior work is completed, demolition company workers said.

It was estimated it will take about 30 days to raze the old structure.

U. S. district court will be held in the court of common pleas until the new building is completed.

Kim was born in Sikeston and attended the First Methodist Kindergarten school and the Lee Hunter school through the second grade.

July 25 Cutoff On Home Loans

ST. LOUIS -- Only about four months remain for veterans of World War II to use their guarantee privileges for a loan to purchase a home, farm or for business purposes, P. S. Pollock, manager, Veterans Administration regional office, pointed out today.

Present statutes provide that a cutoff date for World War II veterans on July 25. This deadline is the result of congressional action which extended the final date of eligibility several times.

The cutoff will not affect veterans of the Korean conflict or veterans who have served since Jan. 31, 1955, Pollock pointed out. These veterans are covered by different legislation.

In Missouri 140,000 loans have been guaranteed by the Veterans Administration to veterans since the beginning of the program following World War II. One out of every five homes constructed in the United States following World War II was with VA guarantee.

The Veterans Administration will guarantee up to 60 per cent of the purchase price of a home for a veteran with limitation as to the total purchase price. Pollock urged veterans planning to purchase a home to make their selection as soon as possible, avoiding the last minute rush for certification.

CBS to Go Into Movie Production

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The talk of the film industry this week was the announcement by the Columbia Broadcasting System that it is going into the business of making movies for theaters.

"This makes it a whole new ball game," said a movie bigwig in assessing the significanceof the CBS move.

The announcement was made by John A. Schneider, president of the CBS broadcast group.

The import of this development is being discussed in film industry circles.

At least three elements have emerged:

1. CBS is taking firm action to assure supply of feature movies for its network programming. And if CBS does so, NBC and ABC may well follow suit.

The smash success of "The Bridge On The River Kwai" this season proved the value of feature movies in prime time TV. All three networks have become increasingly concerned about the supply of features, which will be expended within three years. At that time the networks will have to start replaying films that have already appeared on TV — or else supply new ones.

2. The major studios will now be faced with direct competition by the television industry.

Until now, the Hollywood companies have thrived by using television to bolster their finances; sales of TV series and old movies have saved the studios from insolvency.

For the first time, the old-line companies are faced with direct competition for theatrical bookings. Is the CBS move at variance with antitrust laws? The film companies may look into this. But CBS will undoubtedly seek to protect itself on that score.

3. Movie theaters will welcome the CBS development.

For the past decade the central theme of theater conventions has been: "We need more product." Exhibitors have claimed that the film producers do not supply enough new features to maintain a healthy industry.

The number of CBS features is expected to be no more than 10 per year at the beginning.

Matthews Girl Scouts Have Potluck Supper

MATTHEWS -- The Girl Scout troops observed Girl Scout Week with a potluck supper held in the school cafeteria. Each troop contributed to the entertainment on the program. The senior scouts served as narrators; the cadets conducted the flag ceremony; the juniors did a choral reading; and the brownies sang the Girl Scout song. Guests were parents, friends and Miss Ilena Aslin, executive director of the Cotton Bowl Council. A yellow and green color scheme was used in the room table and stage decorations. About 125 persons attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Settles and daughter, Kathy, returned recently from a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones, and daughter, Lisa, in Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Carl Romines is reported to be convalescing satisfactorily from surgery on her feet which she underwent at Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Richard Gaines is serving as clerk in the postoffice during her absence.

Pvt. Ricky Huls, who is in training with the armed forces at Camp Polk, La., had the misfortune of breaking a leg this month. His father, Lowell Huls, and George Gaines went to Camp Polk to accompany him home to remain during his convalescence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rogers have received word that their son, Pvt. William Rogers, who was in training at Fort Dix, N.J., has been transferred to Fort Campbell, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester King and son, Joe Lynn, and daughter, Brenda, attended funeral services for Mrs. King's grandfather, Henry McColl, at Morrilton. McCool was with his daughter, Mrs. Beryl Franklin in Atchison, Kan. at the time of his death.

The Christian Women's Fellowship met at the church Wednesday evening with Mrs. C. G. Scott Jr., in charge of the program. The group had a bean supper at the church on Saturday, March 18.

Matthews R-5 schools were in session Saturday, March 11, to make up for Tuesday, March 7, when school was not in session because of snow. Schools were dismissed on March 16 and 17 for the Southeast Missouri district teachers meeting at Cape Girardeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Stanley of Caruthersville were recent guests of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Stanley.

The Matthews Community Club met at the home of Mrs. B. B. Conrad on Thursday evening. "Let's Understand Color and Design" was the topic for the program presented by Mrs. Marcus Koch and Mrs. D. K. Lape.

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford L. Nelson of St. Paul, Minn., spent a week visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Conrad and son, Charles. Both are employed at the University of Minnesota where he is an associate professor in College of Agriculture and she is a textiles research laboratory technician in the School of Home Economics.

Kiwanis Told of School Bonds

MOREHOUSE -- The program given the Kiwanis club Thursday was on the proposed school bond issue and election April 4.

Supt. of Schools Thad Ryan emphasized the fact that the proposed tax rate for the coming year will be $3 per $100 assessed valuation compared with this year's rate of $2.95.

This increase will qualify the school for second level equalization money from the state. This would amount to approximately $5,000.

The club discussed the possibility of having a pancake day.

Jury Says Drug Use Limited

COLUMBIA (AP) - The Boone County grand jury reported Thursday it had found no evidence of widespread use of marijuana here.

The report, submitted to Circuit Judge John M. Cave, severely criticized two publications on the University of Missouri campus for "irresponsible articles" indicating widespread use of drugs by students in Columbia.

Three young people, students or former students at M. U. have been arrested on narcotics charges of possession or sale of marijuana since last November, and the jury said "unquestionably other arrests will follow."

But the jury's report concluded that the use of marijuana in the Boone County area "is limited to a very minute segment of our population."

The jury said part of its investigation was based on articles in the Maneater and the Columbia Missourian, indicating widespread use of marijuana in Boone County.

The Maneater is a weekly campus newspaper produced by M. U. students. The Missourian is a daily newspaper published by the university school of journalism as a laboratory project for journalism students and faculty members. It is circulated both on and off the campus.

The jury reported it had questioned 42 persons in its investigation. Among them, the report said, were law enforcement authors of news articles, editors and "individuals commonly referred to as weirdoes and creeps."

The report said investigation showed that reports in the Columbia Missourian of laxity in enforcing narcotics laws here were unfounded.

"Several local news articles on the sale and use of marijuana were inaccurate and have proved to be more fiction than fact-a said commentary indeed for a community which boasts of the outstanding journalism school in the United States," the report said.

HOFFA AND POWELL

The hour finally arrived, and Jimmy Hoffa -- undisputed ruler of the Teamsters -- went to jail. In the same period, Adam Clayton Powell, the Congressman from Harlem and playbody of the Bahamas, was denied a seat in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Both events unquestionably proved a comfort to millions of good citizens who have been deeply dismayed at the offenses committed by Hoffa and Powell. The two men long seemed to be above the law or any form of corrective action. For three years, Jimmy Hoffa stalled the processes of justice. He used every conceivable delaying tactic to prevent paying his debt to society. As for Powell, he mocked the law, the Congress and the people of the United States. It is crystal clear that he acted on the assumption that he could not be brought to account, that he was a one-man privileged sanctuary.

For the time being, both men have received a jolt. Hoffa is behind bars. The only people he could hope to personally organize are his fellow convicts in federal prison. Adam Clayton Powell may act with his usual cockiness, but he no longer occupies a seat of power on Capitol Hill. Americans can be thankful that he is no longer numbered among the lawmakers.

But the situation of both offenders against society is such that the public can't be entirely happy. Hoffa is no longer in the head office of the Teamsters Union, but he still exerts power from a prison cell. The Teamsters evidence no shame at Hoffa's conviction. Nor is there any evidence that Hoffa-style rule of a union is about to disappear. It is not only Hoffa the man who needs to be removed from circulation but the Hoffa philosophy of unionsim. The unions have yet to experience real democracy. Union members still are in the trip of powerful and ruthless union bosses who are true overlords.

Powell's will also continues to be manifested in his home district. James Meredith's hasty retirement from the field against Powell is evidence of the remaining power of the preacher-politician-playboy. No one may ever know the extent of the pressures -- even threats -- directed against Meredith when he sought to run against Powell. As one writer has said, Harlem will have a "Russian election" and Powell will be re-elected. The misguided people of his district, who are infatuated with his contempt of the public interest, seem certain to return him to Washington. Again, Congress will be duty bound to refuse to let him be seated. Powell's presence in Congress would be a stain on that body.

Hoffa and Powell represent what the ancients referred to as "kakistocracy," or rule by the worst. In the waning days of the Roman Republic, ruthless opportunists, catering to the mobs, gained enormous power. They helped bring to an end one of the finest governments in history. Hoffa and Powell likewise represent pernicious influences in American life. They stand for things which are utterly incompatible with free republican government. Demagogy is a disease of free states, and cannot be tolerated. As in the case of many diseases, a permanet cure involves as much reeducation as medication.

For Hoffa, the courts have provided the right medicine. The Congress also furnished the needed medicine in Powell's case. But continuing and accelerated education of the public is needed to make the American people aware of the political and social evils that Hoffa and Powell stand for.

Nations fall not so much because of a lack of material means but because of a breakdown of moral standards. An excessive tolerance toward destructive elements and figures in a nation can ruin a republic as effectively as atomic bombs. The arrogant, above-the-law dictator -- whether he be in a union office or a public and political office -- is a threat to the country and to the majesty of our government of law. Such a figure cannot be allowed to return to a position of authority.

Hoffa in jail and Powell out of power is in the interest of all the people of the United States, including both the Teamster members and the residents of Harlem.

Savings Bond Sales Strong

Sales of U. S. savings bonds continued strong through February, according to Donald R. Bohannon, savings bonds chairman, in Scott county. He said sales for February amounted to $31,687, bringing the combined sales for January and February to $65,805 and the county quota to 10.1 per cent.

John L. Wilson, state chairman, reports total sales of Series E and H Bonds in Missouri during February amounted to $13,919,293. Total sales in Missouri for the first two months of 1967 amounted to $27,501,632, he said.

Nationally, Wilson said, sales for February amounted to $426,000,000. "This represents an increase of 23 per cent over a year ago and was the highest for any February since 1960," he said.

Not only are sales of U. S. Savings Bonds up all around the country, but people seem to be holding on to their bonds more than ever, according to the state chairman. There are now outstanding in unredeemed Savings Bonds a total of $50,399,000,000, which is a billion dollars more than was outstanding a year ago, he said.

Sales of Savings Bonds in other area counties were:

Bollinger -- $2,981 last month; $4,893 this year; 9.6 per cent of quota.

Butler -- $20,306 last month; $43,193 this year; 10.2 per cent of quota.

Cape Girardeau -$73,102 last month; $122,818 this year; 16.5 per cent of quota.

Dunklin -- $6,637 last month; $26,737 this year; 4.6 per cent of quota.

Mississippi -- $2,681 last month; $6,149 this year; 2 per cent of quota.

New Madrid -- $1,762 last month; $10,537 this year; 3.1 per cent of quota.

Pemiscot -- $7,462 last month; $29,193 this year; 7.3 per cent of quota.

Stoddard -- $14,050 last month; $24,600 this year; 7.1 per cent of quota.

RETAIL RECRUITERS LOOK FOR MORE COLLEGE GRADS

NEW YORK -- The nation's retailers will be competing more actively than ever for top - caliber college graduates in 1967, says the personnel director of one of the world's largest retail chains.

Robert W. Young, vice president -- personnel for the F. W. Woolworth Co., said that continued expansion of the nation's economy and increased complexity of retailing are major factors that will stimulate recruiting drives on the nation's campuses this year.

"A recent study of the needs by business and industry shows that this year they seek to sharply increase their hiring from the 1967 graduating classes, with the increases in some categories running as high as 108 per cent over 1966," Mr. Young reported.

A high percentage of the companies will be contacting more schools than they did in the past in the hope of meeting their needs, he added.

Population increases and rising economic levels make imperative an expansion in retailing, and that requires additions to the management team, Mr. Young said.

He added that Woolworth recruiting teams last year visited 309 colleges and universities to take with graduating students about career opportunities in retailing. As a result of these visits, 600 college graduates joined Woolworth's executive training program, which now totals 2700 trainees.

"Although it once was an intuitive art, the retailing businesses today is automated and computerized and requires precise long - range projections and scientifically accurate research," the Woolworth executive explained.

"Modern management techniques are essential. Retailing is becoming a complex science, and only the best - trained and most alert managements will succeed in maintaining their competitive positions."

Mr. Young said retailing offers career opportunities to college graduates in accounting, real estate, construction and other specialized fields in addition to merchandising.

"And the compensation, pensions and other fringe benefits offered to men in these careers are equal to or better than those received by men at a similar level in fields other than retailing."

Commenting on Woolworth's historic policy of promoting from within the company, he said this policy and the opportunity for managers to share in company net profits are the best means of creating a successful team.

Woolworth, he said, finds that employee turnover among college graduates is very low, only six per cent, compared to about 19 per cent for non - college people.

Helping the Poor

I am in sympathy with the outspoken caseworker who was dismissed by the Missouri Division of Welfare for his attempts to publicize the inadequacies of our state's public assistance programs.

The grants are pitifully low. Eligibility requirements are archaic, rigid and punitive. For example, residence requirements date back to the Elizabethan Poor Laws of the early 1600s and were set up to keep the poor from leaving their ghettos.

However, the Missouri Division of Welfare is not to blame. This agency is merely carrying out those policies set by the Legislature and the citizens of Missouri. I wonder if Missourians realize that part of their federal income tax helps to support and rehabilitate the poor in those s[illegible] with more liberal laws and public assistance grants.

"THE ROBIN"

When the robin sings his carols
We know that spring is on its way
And we see the pretty Crocus
Opening up at break of day.

Tho the days be still quite chilly
The robin doesn't seem to mind
As he hunts for seed and berries
Waiting for the summertime.

He is singing Oh so sweetly
As he builds so nigh his nest
In the tree top near my window
Never stopping once to rest.

When the farmer plows the furrows
You will see him hop along
Looking for some worms for dinner
Singing all the while his song.

I'm so glad that I am living
Now that spring is here again
As the earth seems to awaken

Soviets Seek Flu Cure

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists are setting up an institute in Leningrad that will work on improving methods of preventing and curing influenza, the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda says.

The newspaper said the institute would attempt to develop vaccines against flu and would cooperate with scientists in the same field throughout the world.

When science finishes getting man up to the moon, maybe it can have another try at getting pigeons down from public buildings.

Cape Man Heads Group

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- J. Hugh Logan, Cape Girardeau city councilman, was elected the first president of district 12 of the Missouri Municipal League at an organizational meeting held Thursday.

To serve with him in the year ahead are the vice president, Robert Riley, mayor of New Madrid, and the secretary, Woodrow Ball, councilman from Flat River.

All were elected by acclamation by the 75 municipal officials in attendance from cities in the 15 counties of southeast Missouri comprising the district.

As one of the items of business following organization, the district went on record as opposing state house bill 166 dealing with collective bargaining pending in the Legislature.

The resolution was submitted by Mayor Willis Conner of Dexter and was seconded by Paul Baumgardner, assistant to the mayor of Poplar Bluff There were no dissenting votes.

One of the three speakers during the program had outlined the bill to the group.

J. T. Bell, executive director of the Missouri Municipal League, said the original bill on collective bargaining had passed the Legislature two years ago. It put into law that cities may bargain collectively with unions.

If the bill now before the Legislature is passed, it will make collective bargaining between cities and unions mandatory, he stated.

This could lead to some troublesome times for some cities and their officials, Mr. Bell pointed out. The bill was heard in the Senate March 14 and is now on the third reading calendar.

Bell said the bill had passed the House heavily and that the Municipal League hasn't been able to do much about slowing it down.

After the resolution was passed opposing the bill, members of the organization were urged to contact their senators immediately to tell them of their views on the issue.

It was brought out that the league is not against organized labor, but wants it kept out of municipal government.

Bell had also reviewed other municipal legislation which has been introduced during the session of the Legislature and reported on his status.

He listed as opposed or contrary to league policy House bills now on legislation on annexation, firemen's hours, daylight savings time, pensions - Social Security, vehicle license fees, revenue and general obligation bonds, elimination of personal property tax on house goods and autos.

Those proposed or supported by the league are House bills in legislation on anti - crime, Title 19-Social Security act, records and archives, reassessment, unsafe buildings, state sharing of police costs, fuel tax exemption, codes by reference, assessments, public property and the house joint resoltuion on revenue and general obligation bonds.

Other house bills of interest to the league were listed as those on municipal utilities and on warrants.

Some of the senate bills before the legislature of interest to the league are those on qualification for office, housing authority, development authority, licensing, lagers (pension legislation), unsafe buildings and street improvement costs, Bell said.

The opening speaker, John Poelker, St. Louis city comptroller and an authority on municipal finance, talked on shared taxes prior to the discussion of legislation.

He told the group that metropolitan problems and urban problems are the same. While there may be more people and more dollars involved in operating a larger city, the problems remains much the same as in smaller towns - particularly with the budgets, he said.

Poelker added that these common bonds hold municipal officials together and this was one of the reasons the Missouri Municipal League was setting up District XII. District and league meetings provide opportunities for cities to help each other and to transmit back to league officials the thoughts of various towns on specific issues.

He pointed out the state legislation sometimes needs to be educated in the problems of local governments. Poelker emphasized that school districts received state funds by being persistent and knocking on the door of the Legislature year after year. He urged municipal officials present to do the same thing.

"Keep knocking on the doors in Jefferson City-educate the governor now there to our problems and the ones who will be there in the future," Poelker urged the group. He said most cities could solve their problems with a little more money.

He then spoke on a few issues the league and its revenue and taxation committee has called to the attention of the legislature. Included are those on real estate taxation, state collected-locally shared taxes, real estate transfer and repeal of personal property tax on household goods and others.

On tax sharing, the municipal committee has recommended that provision be made for a local tax sharing plan whereby a portion of any increase in state income or sales tax be shared with local governments, the speaker said.

He also pointed out that nowhere on the state level is there a plan on the part of the state to pass down to local government any share the state may get from federal income tax.

Poelker stated cities should not support federal legislation which would allow Washington to pass unrestricted amounts to the state without some assurance that part of what the state receives will be handed on to local governments.

George Nickolaus, legal specialist in governmental affairs, University of Missouri, Columbia, spoke on municipal annexation laws and procedures. He is a past city attorney of Columbia and is presently a candidate for the office of mayor there.

Nickolaus said that in the last eight years, the subject of urban extension has become very popular. An attempt has been made through many universities to extend these ideas to municipalities, he stated.

He said annexation laws and procedures in Missouri are very complex and added that something needs to be done about the municipal code in this state. A standardized law should be worked out to apply to all municipalities, he emphasized.

The speaker gave to each person in attendance a copy of a book he has written called "Annexation in Missouri." He reviewed parts of the book with the audience and a question-answer period followed.

Picking up litter along Missouri highways cost $360,160 last year, the Highway Department reported today.

Chief Engineer M. J. Snider, in announcing the figures, urged all highway travelers to help cut down on this unnecessary use of highway funds by not throwing litter out of their cars. The total cost was for cleaning right of way along the approximate 32,000 miles of the state highway system.

"Throwing this litter along the highways not only drains away funds sorely needed for constructive purposes," said Snider. "It also mars our state's scenic beauty. And it creates a potential danger for the highway traveler and our maintenancemen as well as possible damage to equipment."

Litter pickup costs by Department districts ranged from $13,014 in District 2 at Macon to $81,726 in District 7 at Joplin.

Costs in other districts were: District 1, St. Joseph, $15,912; District 3, Hannibal, $18,886; District 4, Kansas City, $42,720; District 5, Jefferson City, $24,667; District 6, Kirkwood, $73,578; District 8, Springfield, $32,413; District 9, Willow Springs, $15,476; and District 10, Sikeston, $41,768.

Uplift Interests Students

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Eighty freshmen at Harvey Mudd College have petitioned the engineering department to let them undertake the design and development of a better brassiere.

Proposed Project Uplift was outlined by David De Ford, 18, as follows:

"It could be approached like a bridge. There are stresses and strains to be considered, and the frequency of collapses."

GOVERNORS FOR RIGHT TO WORK

HAYDON BURNS, Governor of Florida 1965 - 1969: "During my campaign, I stated that Florida's Right to Work law was good for both sides, labor and management, and should be left intact and untouched."

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
March 27, 1917

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith Tuesday morning.

Garrett Vickery of Indiana has accepted a position as shipping clerk at the White-Dorroh Wholesale Grocery Co.

James E. Smith, sr., has announced for re-election to the Board of Aldermen from the second ward. He has liberal experience as an alderman and if he is re-elected, will continue to serve his constituents as his conscience dictates.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Moore entertained a number of relatives and friends at dinner last Sunday at their home, 10 miles south of Sikeston. The dinner was in compliment to Mr. Moore's 70th birth anniversary, which occurred on that day.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris French of Sikeston are parents of a son born Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George White of Morehouse are parents of a son born this Monday.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Our Savior Christ Jesus. . . abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. (II Timothy 1:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Glorious Savior, we cannot understand the miracle of Thy resurrection, but we believe it with all our hearts and minds. We humble ourselves in Thy presence, and rejoice that Thou art alive forevermore. In Thy name we offer our thanksgiving and praise. Amen.

UNNATURAL SELECTION

A Madison Ave. advertising executive drove most of his staff wild by playing favorites among the junior partners. They heaved a sigh of relief when he went off for a long vacation at a retreat he maintained in Florida.

Then they began to receive messages addressed to "The Gang," with his standard message. "Having a wonderful time! Wish most of you were here."

FT. BELVOIR, Virginia - Captain John R. Childress (center), son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Childress of 716 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, is presented the army commendation medal (first Oak Leaf cluster) for meritorious service as commanding officer of the engineer officer orientation unit, U.S. army engineer school, during the period 1 August 1966 to 8 March 1967. Making the presentation, in recent ceremonies at the school, is Colonel William M. Glasgow, Jr. (left), Assistant Commandant. The captain's wife, WAC Captain Margaret Childress, witnesses the presentation.

The citation stated that Captain Childress' "performance of duty has been characterized by extremely outstanding leadership, forceful perseverance, exceptional organizational ability and professional competence of the hightest caliber."

Captain Childress is presently a student in the 3rd engineer officer career course here at the school.

He is a 1956 graduate of Sikeston high school and earned his bachelor of science degree from the Missouri School of Mines in 1962. He entered the army in March of that year. Captain Childress is a member of the society of american military engineers.

There is still a little time left in which to apply for Nursing.

This program offers an excellent educational opportunity for students interested in the field of nursing. It is open to young men and women who have not yet reached their 24th birthday by June 15. The deadline for submitting applications is March 31.

If qualified, the plan provides the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Science in Nursing with the major portion of educational expenses paid by the Department of the Army.

Young men and women selected spend their first two years attending the accredited college or university of their choice. The government pays tuition and certain other required fees directly to the college. The student receives pay and allowances at the end of each month from which room and board is paid by the individual.

At the end of the first two years, providing requirements have been met, the student will transfer to the University of Maryland School of Nursing. Academic study will be taken at the university and clinical training will be provided by Walter Reed Army hospital.

After graduation and satisfactory completion of the examination for State license for registered nurse, the candidate is appointed a second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps. All who complete the program are required to serve on active duty for a period of three years.

After commissioning, Army nurses have opportunities for travel and professional advancement. They serve in interesting, exciting, and sometimes, romantic locations all over the world. Of particular value in light of today's increased emphasis on higher education is the fact that Army Nurses are encouraged to pursue advance programs leading to graduate degrees in medically related fields.

The Army Nurse Corps is the oldest of all the military services for women. Established in 1901, the all-officer Corps consists entirely of registered professional nurses. The heritage of the Army Nurse Corps to serve the soldier and his family when and where most needed is being continued today by the nearly 4,500 nurses on active duty. Over 500 of these men and women are serving in Vietnam.

The present need for nurses is great . . .the future need is also great. If interested in nursing as a career, and if interested in scholarship assistance, young men and women are urged to contact their local Army Recruiter for help in filing their applications.

Remember, the deadline for filing this year is March 31.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC)- Marine Private Roger T. Butler, son of Arthur E. Butler of 522 Sikes, Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from the six-week Marine Aviation Operational Clerical Course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

The course included basic typing, introduction to aviation operations, the handling of flight records and reports, disbursing hazardous duty pay for people involved in actual flights, flight safety, airfield operations, and operations administration.

Upon completion of this course he is eligible for duties with the Aviation Branch of the Marine Corps.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: A most unusual thing occurred recently at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles. I believe it will interest you. A woman drove up in front of the hotel and left a box with the doorman. The note pasted to the box read as follows:

"Dear Sir: Here are the items my son took from the Acapulco Hilton. An embarrassed Mother."

Clipped to her note was a copy of your column which dealt with stealing from hotels under the guise of "souvenir collecting."

The contents of the box contained the following items which would have an approximate value of $300 to $400: 2 silver wine coolers, 6 silver finger bowls, 1 - 14 inch silver service tray, 3 bread and butter knives, 3 dinner knives, 3 forks, 3 teaspoons, 2 soup spoons, 1 ice tong, 4 drinking glasses and 2 face towels.

As a past president of the California State Hotel and Motel Association, I'm sure I speak for all hotel and motel managers when I say thank you, Ann Landers, for your help. The problem of hotel pilfering is reaching incredible proportions and running into millions of dollars annually.

The fact that at least one young man was influenced by your comments to the extent that he returned the stolen articles, is evidence that some people do listen to you. We are most grateful for your support. - Robert A. Groves, General Manager, Beverly Hilton.

Dear Mr. Groves: Thank you for your letter. When I was a guest at another well-known Beverly Hills hotel in December, someone stole my diamond earrings. If HIS mother would return them to the doorman MY day would be complete.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 19-year-old girl who has a problem I have never heard of before. I'll bet you have never heard of it either.

I have been looking for a job for six months. Almost every job that interests me requires that I take a physical examination. I just can't bring myself to undress in front of a doctor. I also can't bear the thought of having a doctor put his hands on me.

I realize this is crazy, but I don't know what to do about it. My mother can't understand why I have not landed a job in all this time and I can't tell her. Please help me. - PETRIFIED

Dear Pet: I assume you mean MALE doctor, so for heaven's sake go to a female doctor and get your physical so you can go to work. Then, use some of your salary for psychiatric help. If you expect to lead a normal life you must conquer your crippling inhibitions about your body.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits - the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex - Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE MIS-INTERPRETIVE DANCE

Norton's neighbor Sally had a figure that was curvier than a road map. Consequently, when she invited Norton and two other female neighbors into her apartment, for some beer and music, Norton didn't have to be asked twice. He bounced into the apartment like a beach ball. And, if he had eyes for Sally before the evening's festivities began, they nearly popped several hours and beers later when the two female neighbors dared Sally to do a strip-tease dance and she did it to perfection. So much so, in fact, that when Norton met her in the hallway two nights later, he couldn't help grabbing and kissing her.

Indignant, Sally had amorous Norton charged with assault and battery.

"It was as much her fault as it was mine," Norton argued in court. "After the other night, I thought she liked me. I thought I was one of her chosen people."

"I wouldn't choose him for dog-catcher," was Sally's answer. "Just because he happened to be present when I accepted a dare was no invitation for him to try to kiss me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Norton for misinterpreting Sally's dance?

This is how the judge ruled: Not guilty! The judge held that for a woman to perform a strip-tease dance before a lone man might imply consent to his later making advances toward her. If he misconstrues the implication, it's not necessarily his fault.

The Guys in the Da Nang patrol

Now the time is near. Men in the chopper are counting the seconds.
17 of them. Dressed in green dungarees, soaked black in sweat.
No wisecracks. No horseplay.
Any minute now they'll hit the landing zone. And head for the jungle.
The chopper will lift. And they'll be alone.

Ten thousand miles around the world, there are people who call them sucker.
People who hope they'll give up. Quit. Go AWOL.
But they won't.
They care. Enough so 9 out of 10 men in the outfit put cash into U.S. Savings Bonds.
To help pay the bill.

The next time they hit the landing zone, will you be with them?
Do you care enough to get in there and pitch the best way you can?
Make no mistake.
These guys in the Da Nang patrol will hit the landing zone anyway.

troops attended services in the field during a quiet Easter.

About 1,500 ban the bomb marchers turned out in West Berlin, the first time the Easter disarmament demonstrations that take place elsewhere in West Germany were held in the city. Some marchers carried signs against the "U.S. war" in Vietnam.

In the United States, hundreds of thousands attended sunrise services in generally good weather. New York City's traditional Easter parade along Fifth Avenue was marked by many fur coats and relatively few frilly hats.

New York's temperatures were in the 50's but many among the 220,000 holiday strollers remembered the heavy snow and cold of last week. The parade included a few miniskirts, one on a bearded man, and a white poodle who wore a red jacket and white helmet and sat on a motorcycle.

Mexico City police arrested more than 3,000 pranksters who observed the Easter custom of drenching strollers and motorists with water. Thousands of persons returned to the Mexican capital late Sunday night after Holy Week vacations. Hundreds of government agencies, banks, stores and industries were closed at least three days during the week, and beach resorts reported record crowds.

Pile Up Causes Four Injuries

A three car accident Sunday afternoon on East Malone in front of the Imperial Bowling Lanes resulted in injuries to the three drivers and a passenger.

No one was considered seriously injured.

Robert Mitchell Jr., 20, 10 Bel Air; Betty Thomann, 17, 221 Crowe; Sharon Malone, 16, 811 Matthews; and John R. Felker Jr., 19, Sikeston, were treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital following the pileup. Felker was a passenger in the Mitchell vehicle.

The accident occurred on wet pavement at about 2 p.m. when the car driven by Miss Malone headed west, skidded into the eastbound path of Mitchell causing a headon collision, police said. The rear of the Malone vehicle struck the side of a car driven by Miss Thomann who was stopped in the westbound lane to make a left turn into the bowling alley entrance.

Three minor accidents were reported Sunday during the rainy weather. No one was injured in the other accidents.

Long Calls for Better Prices

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A new effort to "provide the American farmer with decent prices and a decent income," was advanced today by Senator Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

He said the present farm program had worked "pretty well" but added:

"We have still not achieved the most important goal: parity of income for the family farmer. Farm prices are down again. Farm costs continue to rise. The farmer is caught in the middle with pulls and pushes from the consumer, the processor, the supermarket chains and the Federal budget."

The senator spoke at the annual meeting of the Central Electric Cooperative.

With surpluses down, we must make new efforts to find a balance between surpluses and shortages," he said. "We simply must not permit the farmer to be exploited. He must have insurance against a drought this year or next year. Reserves would guarantee our nation's security against the dangers of not enough food. Reserves would make sure that the consumer costs do not fluctuate too widely."

Senator Long said the future of rural Missouri depends a great deal on whether Congress votes to establish the Rural Electric Bank, a system to insure that cooperatives will have enough money available for expansion.

"In Missouri alone, our rural electric coops are going to have to produce 1.8 billion kilowatt hours by 1971," he said. "This is 1-billion hours more than we produced last year. By 1980, just 13 years from now, Missouri farmers and rural residents will require two and a half times more kilowatt hours than rural electric coops are now able to produce."

He said the cooperatives are going to need 10 to 15 billion dollars in loan funds in another 15 years. He added that there are too many demands on the taxpayer's dollar to afford this billions of dollars increase for rural electrification.

He added that this capital can be obtained on the open market through the Rural Electric Bank system.

Error Rate High on State Tax Returns

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The director of the Missouri Department of Revenue, Thomas A. David, said today a high percentage of error has turned up in processing state income tax returns.

He estimated if the current rate of error continues nearly 300,000 returns will require special handling. This amounts to about 16 per cent of the total.

Common errors he noted included:

Incorrect computation is the biggest problem, accounting for nearly half the income tax errors, David said.

Court Delays Rail Merger

Justice Tom C. Clark, announcing the 5-4 decision, said the merger should be delayed until the Interstate Commerce Commission determines the fate of smaller railroads.

Clark made it clear the court was not passing on the validity of the merger, the biggest corporate union in the history of American business.

Delay had been requested by the Justice Department and by nine other railroads.

The proposed $6-billion merger was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for some 10 years. It approved the deal last April, saying the merger could "fall apart" by delay.

Traineeships Given to Two

JEFFERSON CITY -- Karen Diviney of Sikeston and John Edward Schneider of Cape Girardeau have been awarded summer traineeships by the department of education.

The grants are given to Missouri residents, who are considered by the department of education to be "professional personnel interested in the education of handicapped children."

The grants were received for persons preparing to teach handicapped children, as college instructors for preparation of teachers of the handicapped, as supervisors of teachers for the handicapped, as speech correctionists or as research workers in the education of the handicapped.

AS A NEW recruit during the Korean conflict, I was hustled from one end of Fort Meade, Md., to the other for initial processing. Finally I was crowded into a large room to receive my classification interview and assignment. As I sat apprehensively waiting for the sergeant on the other side of the desk to decide my future, the air was shattered by a bellow from the next desk.

Another recruit had received his assignment and was not taking it quietly. He shouted that his civilian training was in public relations, that the Army should certainly try to place a man in a field in which he had previous experience.

The old sergeant facing him endured the tirade in silence. Then he said sympathetically, "I'd like to, son. But, you see, the infantry needs men, and not too many come through here who shot people for a living."

Straw Vote on CATV

Voters will have an opportunity to pass on community antenna television when they go to the polls April 4 to elect a city councilman, City Manager W. Raymert Miller announced today.

A ballot is being prepared by City Attorney Manuel Drumm. It will give voters a chance to express their wishes in a straw vote.

The language of the proposal has not been worked ou yet, Miller continued, but the purpose of the ballot will be to see if there is enough interest for city officials to investigate it further.

Persons interested in obtaining a franchise to serve Sikeston with cable television have approached the city council in the past but no action has been taken.

If sufficient interest is shown, the council will contact the companies providing the service to determine who can offer the most for the lowest price, Miller said.

Cable television requires a customer hook - up and a monthly charge for the service, Miller said.

One council post will be filled April 4.

The contest is between councilman Arthur Ziegenhorn and Hugh T. McCollum.

The special ballot will include an estimate of cost based on the charges made to customers in towns served by cable television, Drumm said.

The ballot will ask a question to the effect that if CATV were franchised and available in Sikeston, would you be willing to pay $5 to $7 monthly, plus an installation charge of about $15. Voters will scratch yes or no, he explained.

Four or five cable television companies have expressed an interest in obtaining a franchise to serve Sikeston in the past few years, Miller said.

It was never clarified if programming from both St. Louis and Memphis could be carried, Miller noted. This will be investigated if enough interest is shown.

DAILY STANDARD Easter coloring contest first place winner, was Frances Kay Whitaker, 11, route two, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Whitaker. She received $5.

One Senate Committee In Session

There the Senate Appropriations Committee gathered to hear the money needs of state agencies and institutions.

For the committee members the Easter vacation was short-from adjournment last Thursday to today. And many members had to travel on Easter Sunday to be on hand for the beginning hearings.

The needs of the corrections department and the Division of Mental Diseases were the first to be laid before the committee.

As the money bills left the House last week they totaled $1.106 billion, only a shade less than Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had asked for.

The Senate Appropriations Committee chairman, Sen. J. F. Patterson, D - Caruthersville, said he expected few changes to be made from the House version of the budget bills.

By the time the Senate returns to full scale work April 4, Patterson hopes the gruelling hearings will have been virtually completed. Then come the closed sessions at which actual committee addition or subtraction will be done.

The House won't come back until April 5, the day after municipal and school elections around the state.

Early Easter Rain Halts Rites

Showers interrupted Easter sunrise services. They caused low attendances at two services and cancellation of open air services on the banks of the Mississippi river at New Madrid.

A crowd gathered in New Madrid.

The invocation was given in the interdenominational service, the opening song and the scripture reading. Then a shower sprinkled worshippers and the services were cancelled.

A joint service by the First General Baptist, the Second General Baptist and Little Vine churches was held indoors at the Second General Baptist church on Illinois street, with 125 attending.

The sermon "To Believe in Easter," was by the Rev. Joe Powell, Little Vine church minister. The opening prayer was given by the Rev. Robert Jones, pastor of the First General Baptist church, and the benediction by Bryce Fisher.

Arnold Joe Myrick, sang a solo. A pageant, "The Old Rugged Cross," was presented by Youth group, and singing by the First General Baptist curch choir. Ruby Nell Riddle was pageant narrator.

More than 100 attended a sunrise service in the Morehouse school gymnasium.

The Rev. James Estep, Morehouse Methodist preacher, gave the sermon. The school choir sang two numbers.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Mrs. Harry Perry, Assembly of God minister, with scripture reading by the Rev. Glenn Bohannon, Morehouse First Baptist pastor, in the Kiwanis club sponsored rites.

Elks Honor Leon Stone

Leon Stone was honored as Outstanding Elk of the Year at the first annual banquet held for this purpose by Elks lodge 2319 Saturday night at the club building on South Main Street.

He was given a plaque by Ray Hart, first exalted ruler of the lodge, for "unselfish work, cooperation and attendance" as an Elk.

State Rep. Tony Heckemeyer predicted that a federal constitutional convention would be called to nullify a United States supreme court ruling that members of state legislatures can be elected only on a population basis.

"We are nearing the crossroads of government," he said. "At present only action by two more states is needed to petition Congress to call a convention to amend the constitution.

"It is my prediction there will be one called within the next five years. Federal usurping of power has been so quiet and sudden that the first convention may be called since the nation's founding 180 years ago.

Officers introduced were Lee Wilson, exalted ruler; Allen Blanton, esteemed leading knight; Gerald Kellett, esteemed loyal knight; Floyd Carr, esteemed lecturing knight; Loman Garner, secretary; Stone, treasurer, and Frank Rodgers, tyler. Board members are Bob Ralph, five years; Bob Couch, three years, and Jim Warf, two years.

Protests and Snow Mar Easter Sunday

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP) — As Easter pilgrims shivered in snowy Jerusalem, Italians favoring birth control and divorce demonstrated in St. Peter's Square and Pope Paul VI urged the world Sunday to hope despite "menacing and gigantic problems."

Jerusalem's Easter weather was the worst in memory, and it kept all but about 500 of the thousands of pilgrims in the Holy City away from prayers at the marble tomb of Christ. The first snow on the holiday in decades led some pilgrims to exchange "Merry Christmasses" instead of "Happy Easter."

The annual Easter procession moved through slushy streets, and sunrise services were moved indoors.

Before nearly 250,000 persons jammed into St. Peter's Square in Rome, Pope Paul said that his own joy on the festive day of Christ's resurrection was dimmed by the world's troubles. But he urged men not to let their minds be saddened "at the futility of efforts towards good, at the growing powers of darkness."

The Pope said he believed it was time for the Roman Catholic Church to take up social problems again and announced the publication Tuesday of an encyclical on social justice and an end to poverty and hunger. It will be the fifth encyclical of the Pope's 3½-year reign.

Pope Paul began the day by celebrating Mass in a poor suburb of Rome. In white vestments and a mitre, he also celebrated Mass on the steps of St. Peter's before giving his Easter message to the throng in the square.

The Pope touched on the Vietnam war and religious restrictions in Communist nations and elsewhere.

As the pontiff appeared to speak, about 30 persons near the front of the crowd unveiled banners reading, "fewer children, less famine," "yes to the pill," and "five million Italians want a family without hypocrisy and cruelty."

Others tried to tear down the banners and police hurried the demonstrators out of the crowd. The Roman Catholic Church forbids divorce and artificial methods of birth control.

Woman Shoots Man in Lip at New Madrid

NEW MADRID - Robert King was shot in the lip with a .22 caliber pistol by Mary Scott at 2 a.m. today, Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, charged today.

King was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston for treatment of the wound and released. It required 50 stitches to close the wound.

The shooting, which occurred at the Scott home on Pinnell street, resulted after the woman ordered King to leave her home, Ramsey said. King, who had no car, was going to take her car, the sheriff said, but she ordered him not to take it.

When he started to enter the car, she went back into the house, got a pistol and shot him, the sheriff charged.

No charges were filed against the woman.

Police Report Two Burglaries; 14 Arrested

A television set and about $25 were reported taken in two separate house break ins reported to police during the weekend.

Dennis Crowley, 522 Clayton, told police Sunday afternoon that about $25 was taken from his residence sometime during the weekend. Entry was gained through the back door, he said. The money was kept in a small bank at the house, police reported.

Stolen Goods Recovered

NEW MADRID - Several farm implements believed to have been stolen were recovered sunday morning by Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey Jr., on the Alfred Patton farm five miles west of Marston.

Patton, 37, who is out on $5,000 bond on previous charges of selling and possession of stolen property, now faces additional charges of possession of stolen property.

Ramsey said warrants have been issued for Patton's arrest but that Patton's whereabouts are not known.

Found Sunday on the Patton farm were:

Parts from Allis Chalmers and John Deere cultivators, found about 200 feet from the farmhouse under a pile of wood; a grader blade, found about one-fourth of a mile from the farmhouse, and John Deere and Allis Chalmers cultivator parts, found in a ditch about 300 yards from the farmhouse. The equipment was owned by Guy DeLise, Ramsey said.

Patton had previously been charged with possession of or selling the following items:

Two John Deere hydraulic cylinders owned by C.B. Alsobrook.

Two Sikeston Scenes in New Color Booklet

The brochure is ready for distribution, Henry Maddox, director of the division of commerce and industrial development, Jefferson City, announced.

A copy may be obtained, at no charge, by writing to Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, P. O. Box 118, Jefferson City, 65101.

$505 Raised By Students

Mrs. Buford Baber, Scott county chairman of the Easter Seal campaign, said today that $504.51 was collected in the drive at the elementary, junior high school, high school and by the high school student council in school and public fund raising efforts.

The student council collected $407.31, more than a half a mile of pennies, in their mile of pennies drive. The students collected at car stops and at public places two weekends. A collection table also was set up at the public school.

Peaking Unit To Arrive Soon

A new 2,000 KV peaking unit to be used during periods of high electrical use will arrive between April 15 and 20, Dick Inman, Board of Public Works manager said today.

The peaking unit steps up the power supply to serve customers without increasing the city's contract for power purchased from Southwestern Power Administration, Inman said.

The unit is estimated to pay for itself in about six years, he noted. Cost of the unit is about $142,000.

April 14 Set For Taking Water Bids

Bids will be taken for the first leg of work on water system improvements covered by the recent sale of $1,200,000 in water and sewer bonds at 2 p.m. April 14 at the city administration building.

Dick Inman, manager of the Board of Public Works, said the first contract will include: Construction of a booster pumping station, a one-million-gallon ground storage tank to be located across from the Rail Haven Motel, and installation of a 16-inch water main from the water plant on Center street to Pine street.

A special meeting of the City Council with the Board of Public Works will be called following the bidding to determine who should get the contracts, Inman said.

Plans for the second contract letting for sewer and water improvements should be ready about six weeks after the first letting according to consulting engineers William G. Riddle and Associates of Kansas City, Inman said.

The second letting is expected to include contracts for the construction of more water mains and sewer lines, he noted.

A third contract letting for the construction of an addition to the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram road is expected by midsummer, he said.

Hundreds Hunt Eggs At Dexter

DEXTER — Hundreds of children participated in the annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Kiwanis club at North City Park Saturday afternoon.

About 1,400 eggs were boiled and colored by Kiwanians, Bob Robins, club president, said.

The hunt was divided into three age groups: preschool, first and second graders and third graders and older. Three prize eggs were hidden for each group.

Winners:

Preschool — Mary Jo Allen, first; Jimmy Lincoln, second, and Carla Capps, third.

First and second graders — Darrell Warren, first; Ricky Stearns, second, and Judy Smith, third.

Third graders and older — Sheila Williams, first, and Beverly Davis, third. The second prize egg in this category was not found.

Two Killed, 13 Hurt, on Highways

Two persons were killed and 13 were injured in traffic accidents in Southeast Missouri during the Easter weekend.

Ernest E. Hackworth, 54, of Esther died Saturday at the Ironton hospital from injuries sustained in a one-car accident on highway 21, six miles south of Ironton at 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

The highway patrol said his car ran off the road and hit a concrete bridge.

Carolyn Ollar, 26, of Memphis, was killed in a two-car collision at 5:25 p.m. Sunday on U. S. highway 61, two miles south of Portageville.

Injured in the accident were Teresa Ollar, 4, Memphis, broken leg and face injuries; Gene Ollar, 6, Memphis, possible head injury and face injuries; Phillip Ollar, 25, Memphis, face cuts, chest and leg injuries; John Weaver, 62, Springfield, chest injuries and face cuts and Emanuel Fitzgerald, Portageville, possible head injury. They were taken to the Hayti hospital.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Weaver attempted to pass another vehicle and hit head on the car driven by Phillip Ollar. Weaver was charged with driving while intoxicated. It is not known whether manslaughter charges will be filed, troopers said.

Two persons sustained knee injuries in a two-car accident on U. S. 61 at Portageville Sunday at 2:45 p.m.

A car driven by Shirley Jean Gregory, 25, Memphis, collided with a car driven by Anita Louise Dial, 25, Portageville, as the Dial car was making a turn, troopers reported.

Injured were Mrs. Gregory and Richard Todd Gregory, 2, Memphis. Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Mrs. Gregory was charged with failure to yield right of way and having no operator's license.

Eddie Flowers, 15, Sikeston Route 1, sustained a left leg cut when his car skidded on a wooden bridge and went into a ditch on a gravel road four miles west of Crowder in Stoddard county, troopers said. The accident occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Flowers was taken to the Sikeston hospital. No arrest has been made, troopers reported. The legal age for driving in Missouri is 16.

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident on Route C in Mississippi county, four miles south of Charleston at noon Sunday.

A car driven by Jeff Schoffner, 49, Charleston, failed in the attempt to pass a car driven by Oscar Anderson, 69, East Prairie and collided, the highway patrol reported.

Injured were Anderson, knee injury, and Mattie Schoffner, 43, Charleston, right ankle and foot injury. Both were taken to the Sikeston hospital.

A three-car rear end pileup on U. S. 61 at Marston Sunday at 6 p.m. resulted in injuries to two.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Edward Norwood, 38, Marston, was slowing down for another vehicle when a car driven by Thomas Spencer, 47, Memphis, skidded into the rear of the Norwood car. A third car, driven by Roger Sample, 25, State College, Ark., skidded into the rear of the Spencer car.

Three Unopposed At New Madrid

Some Milk Processing Plants Being Picketed

By the Associated Press

Dairy farmer pickets appeared outside some dairy plants today as the National Farmers Organization strove to dramatize its 25-state effort to raise producers' prices by withholding milk from the market.

Indianapolis processing plants were targets of some NFO members. Similar picketing occurred in other cities.

But, except in Tennessee where members of the Teamsters Union refused to truck dairy products and shut off the flow of milk to homes and stores in much of the state, the demonstrations appeared to be having little or minor initial effect.

Straw Vote on CATV

Voters will have an opportunity to pass on community antenna television when they go to the polls April 4 to elect a city councilman, City Manager W. Raymert Miller announced today.

A ballot is being prepared by City Attorney Manuel Drumm. It will give voters a chance to express their wishes in a straw vote.

The language of the proposal has not been worked out yet, Miller continued, but the purpose of the ballot will be to see if there is enough interest for city officials to investigate it further.

Persons interested in obtaining a franchise to serve Sikeston with cable television have approached the city council in the past but no action has been taken.

If sufficient interest is shown, the council will contact the companies providing the service to determine who can offer the most for the lowest price, Miller said.

Cable television requires a customer hook - up and a monthly charge for the service, Miller said.

One council post will be filled April 4.

The special ballot will include an estimate of cost based on the charges made to customers in towns served by cable television, Drumm said.

The ballot will ask a question to the effect that if CATV were franchised and available in Sikeston, would you be willing to pay $5 to $7 monthly, plus an installation charge of about $15. Voters will scratch yes or no, he explained.

Four or five cable television companies have expressed an interest in obtaining a franchise to serve Sikeston in the past few years, Miller said.

It was never clarified if programming from both St. Louis and Memphis could be carried, Miller noted. This will be investigated if enough interest is shown.

One Senate Committee In Session

There the Senate Appropriations Committee gathered to hear the money needs of state agencies and institutions.

For the committee members the Easter vacation was short- from adjournment last Thursday to today. And many members had to travel on Easter Sunday to be on hand for the beginning hearings.

The needs of the corrections department and the Division of Mental Diseases were the first to be laid before the committee.

As the money bills left the House last week they totaled $1.106 billion, only a shade less than Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had asked for.

The Senate Appropriations Committee chairman, Sen. J. F. Patterson, D - Caruthersville, said he expected few changes to be made from the House version of the budget bills.

By the time the Senate returns to full scale work April 4, Patterson hopes the gruelling hearings will have been virtually completed. Then come the closed sessions at which actual committee addition or subtraction will be done.

The House won't come back until April 5, the day after municipal and school elections around the state.

Early Easter Rain Halts Rites

Showers interrupted Easter sunrise services. They caused low attendances at two services and cancellation of open air services on the banks of the Mississippi river at New Madrid.

A crowd gathered in New Madrid.

The invocation was given in the interdenominational service, the opening song and the scripture reading. Then a shower sprinkled worshippers and the services were cancelled.

A joint service by the First General Baptist, the Second General Baptist and Little Vine churches was held indoors at the Second General Baptist church on Illinois street, with 125 attending.

The sermon "To Believe in Easter," was by the Rev. Joe Powell, Little Vine church minister. The opening prayer was given by the Rev. Robert Jones, pastor of the First General Baptist church, and the benediction by Bryce Fisher.

Arnold Joe Myrick, sang a solo. A pageant, "The Old Rugged Cross," was presented by Youth group, and singing by the First General Baptist curch choir. Ruby Nell Riddle was pageant narrator.

More than 100 attended a sunrise service in the Morehouse school gymnasium.

The Rev. James Estep, Morehouse Methodist preacher, gave the sermon. The school choir sang two numbers.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Mrs. Harry Perry, Assembly of God minister, with scripture reading by the Rev. Glenn Bohannon, Morehouse First Baptist pastor, in the Kiwanis club sponsored rites.

Elks Honor Leon Stone

Leon Stone was honored as Outstanding Elk of the Year at the first annual banquet held for this purpose by Elks lodge 2319 Saturday night at the club building on South Main Street.

He was given a plaque by Ray Hart, first exalted ruler of the lodge, for "unselfish work, cooperation and attendance" as an Elk.

State Rep. Tony Heckemeyer predicted that a federal constitutional convention would be called to nullify a United States supreme court ruling that members of state legislatures can be elected only on a population basis.

"We are nearing the crossroads of government," he said. "At present only action by two more states is needed to petition Congress to call a convention to amend the constitution.

"It is my prediction there will be one called within the next five years. Federal usurping of power has been so quiet and sudden that the first convention may be called since the nation's founding 180 years ago.

Officers introduced were Lee Wilson, exalted ruler; Allen Blanton, esteemed leading knight; Gerald Kellett, esteemed loyal knight; Floyd Carr, esteemed lecturing knight; Loman Garner, secretary; Stone, treasurer, and Frank Rodgers, tyler. Board members are Bob Ralph, five years; Bob Couch, three years, and Jim Warf, two years.

Protests and Snow Mar Easter Sunday

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP) — As Easter pilgrims shivered in snowy Jerusalem, Italians favoring birth control and divorce demonstrated in St. Peter's Square and Pope Paul VI urged the world Sunday to hope despite "menacing and gigantic problems."

Jerusalem's Easter weather was the worst in memory, and it kept all but about 500 of the thousands of pilgrims in the Holy City away from prayers at the marble tomb of Christ. The first snow on the holiday in decades led some pilgrims to exchange "Merry Christmasses" instead of "Happy Easter."

The annual Easter procession moved through slushy streets, and sunrise services were moved indoors.

Before nearly 250,000 persons jammed into St. Peter's Square in Rome, Pope Paul said that his own joy on the festive day of Christ's resurrection was dimmed by the world's troubles. But he urged men not to let their minds be saddened "at the futility of efforts towards good, at the growing powers of darkness."

The Pope said he believed it was time for the Roman Catholic Church to take up social problems again and announced the publication Tuesday of an encyclical on social justice and an end to poverty and hunger. It will be the fifth encyclical of the Pope's 3½-year reign.

Pope Paul began the day by celebrating Mass in a poor suburb of Rome. In white vestments and a mitre, he also celebrated Mass on the steps of St. Peter's before giving his Easter message to the throng in the square.

As the pontiff appeared to speak, about 30 persons near the front of the crowd unveiled banners reading, "fewer children, less famine," "yes to the pill," and "five million Italians want a family without hypocrisy and cruelty."

Others tried to tear down the banners and police hurried the demonstrators out of the crowd. The Roman Catholic Church forbids divorce and artificial methods of birth control.

Woman Shoots Man in Lip at New Madrid

NEW MADRID - Robert King was shot in the lip with a .22 caliber pistol by Mary Scott at 2 a.m. today, Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, charged today.

King was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston for treatment of the wound and released. It required 50 stitches to close the wound.

The shooting, which occurred at the Scott home on Pinnell street, resulted after the woman ordered King to leave her home, Ramsey said. King, who had no car, was going to take her car, the sheriff said, but she ordered him not to take it.

When he started to enter the car, she went back into the house, got a pistol and shot him, the sheriff charged.

No charges were filed against the woman.

Police Report Two Burglaries; 14 Arrested

A television set and about $25 were reported taken in two separate house break ins reported to police during the weekend.

Dennis Crowley, 522 Clayton, told police Sunday afternoon that about $25 was taken from his residence sometime during the weekend. Entry was gained through the back door, he said. The money was kept in a small bank at the house, police reported.

Stolen Goods Recovered

NEW MADRID - Several farm implements believed to have been stolen were recovered sunday morning by Sheriff W.L. "Cowboy" Ramsey Jr., on the Alfred Patton farm five miles west of Marston.

Patton, 37, who is out on $5,000 bond on previous charges of selling and possession of stolen property, now faces additional charges of possession of stolen property.

Ramsey said warrants have been issued for Patton's arrest but that Patton's whereabouts are not known.

Found Sunday on the Patton farm were:

Parts from Allis Chalmers and John Deere cultivators, found about 200 feet from the farmhouse under a pile of wood; a grader blade, found about one-fourth of a mile from the farmhouse, and John Deere and Allis Chalmers cultivator parts, found in a ditch about 300 yards from the farmhouse. The equipment was owned by Guy DeLise, Ramsey said.

Patton had previously been charged with possession of or selling the following items:

Two John Deere hydraulic cylinders owned by C.B. Alsobrook.

Two Sikeston Scenes in New Color Booklet

The brochure is ready for distribution, Henry Maddox, director of the division of commerce and industrial development, Jefferson City, announced.

A copy may be obtained, at no charge, by writing to Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, P. O. Box 118, Jefferson City, 65101.

$505 Raised By Students

Mrs. Buford Baber, Scott county chairman of the Easter Seal campaign, said today that $504.51 was collected in the drive at the elementary, junior high school, high school and by the high school student council in school and public fund raising efforts.

The student council collected $407.31, more than a half a mile of pennies, in their mile of pennies drive. The students collected at car stops and at public places two weekends. A collection table also was set up at the public school.

Peaking Unit To Arrive Soon

A new 2,000 KV peaking unit to be used during periods of high electrical use will arrive between April 15 and 20, Dick Inman, Board of Public Works manager said today.

The peaking unit steps up the power supply to serve customers without increasing the city's contract for power purchased from Southwestern Power Administration, Inman said.

The unit is estimated to pay for itself in about six years, he noted. Cost of the unit is about $142,000.

April 14 Set For Taking Water Bids

Bids will be taken for the first leg of work on water system improvements covered by the recent sale of $1,200,000 in water and sewer bonds at 2 p.m. April 14 at the city administration building.

Dick Inman, manager of the Board of Public Works, said the first contract will include: Construction of a booster pumping station, a one-million-gallon ground storage tank to be located across from the Rail Haven Motel, and installation of a 16-inch water main from the water plant on Center street to Pine street.

A special meeting of the City Council with the Board of Public Works will be called following the bidding to determine who should get the contracts, Inman said.

Plans for the second contract letting for sewer and water improvements should be ready about six weeks after the first letting according to consulting engineers William G. Riddle and Associates of Kansas City, Inman said.

The second letting is expected to include contracts for the construction of more water mains and sewer lines, he noted.

A third contract letting for the construction of an addition to the sewage treatment plant on South Ingram road is expected by midsummer, he said.

Hundreds Hunt Eggs At Dexter

DEXTER -- Hundreds of children participated in the annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Kiwanis club at North City Park Saturday afternoon.

About 1,400 eggs were boiled and colored by Kiwanians, Bob Robins, club president, said.

The hunt was divided into three age groups: preschool, first and second graders and third graders and older. Three prize eggs were hidden for each group.

Winners:

Preschool -- Mary Jo Allen, first; Jimmy Lincoln, second, and Carla Capps, third.

First and second graders-- Darrell Warren, first; Ricky Stearns, second, and Judy Smith, third.

Third graders and older -- Shella Williams, first, and Beverly Davis, third. The second prize egg in this category was not found.

Two Killed, 13 Hurt, on Highways

Two persons were killed and 13 were injured in traffic accidents in Southeast Missouri during the Easter weekend.

Ernest E. Hackworth, 54, of Esther died Saturday at the Ironton hospital from injuries sustained in a one-car accident on highway 21, six miles south of Ironton at 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

The highway patrol said his car ran off the road and hit a concrete bridge.

Carolyn Ollar, 26, of Memphis, was killed in a two-car collision at 5:25 p.m. Sunday on U. S. highway 61, two miles south of Portageville.

Injured in the accident were Teresa Ollar, 4, Memphis, broken leg and face injuries; Gene Ollar, 6, Memphis, possible head injury and face injuries; Phillip Ollar, 25, Memphis, face cuts, chest and leg injuries; John Weaver, 62, Springfield, chest injuries and face cuts and Emanuel Fitzgerald, Portageville, possible head injury. They were taken to the Hayti hospital.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Weaver attempted to pass another vehicle and hit head on the car driven by Phillip Ollar. Weaver was charged with driving while intoxicated. It is not known whether manslaughter charges will be filed, troopers said.

Two persons sustained knee injuries in a two-car accident on U. S. 61 at Portageville Sunday at 2:45 p.m.

A car driven by Shirley Jean Gregory, 25, Memphis, collided with a car driven by Anita Louise Dial, 25, Portageville, as the Dial car was making a turn, troopers reported.

Injured were Mrs. Gregory and Richard Todd Gregory, 2, Memphis. Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Mrs. Gregory was charged with failure to yield right of way and having no operator's license.

Eddie Flowers, 15, Sikeston Route 1, sustained a left leg cut when his car skidded on a wooden bridge and went into a ditch on a gravel road four miles west of Crowder in Stoddard county, troopers said. The accident occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Flowers was taken to the Sikeston hospital. No arrest has been made, troopers reported. The legal age for driving in Missouri is 16.

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident on Route C in Mississippi county, four miles south of Charleston at noon Sunday.

A car driven by Jeff Schoffner, 49, Charleston, failed in the attempt to pass a car driven by Oscar Anderson, 69, East Prairie and collided, the highway patrol reported.

Injured were Anderson, knee injury, and Mattie Schoffner, 43, Charleston, right ankle and foot injury. Both were taken to the Sikeston hospital.

A three-car rear end pileup on U. S. 61 at Marston Sunday at 6 p.m. resulted in injuries to two.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Edward Norwood, 38, Marston, was slowing down for another vehicle when a car driven by Thomas Spencer, 47, Memphis, skidded into the rear of the Norwood car. A third car, driven by Roger Sample, 25, State College, Ark., skidded into the rear of the Spencer car.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
WHAT TO DO ABOUT CRIME

The first National Conference on Crime Contro, a two-day meeting, opens in Washington on Tuesday (March 28.)

Crime over the past few years has acquired great political glamour. Mayors, governors, President Johnson himself are making much of the public worry over robbery, rape and murder.

Gov. Kirk of Florida has a private army against crime, and several other governors are leaning in that direction. Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City on March 8 promised that "the top priority of my administration this year has been given to the war against crime."

Barry Goldwater early in the 1964 campaign found out that crime was about as dependable - and safe - a campaign issue as sin and motherhood. He rang all the organ stops on "crime in the streets."

Lyndon B. Johnson played down crime as an issue in 1964, but two years ago he created a blue-ribbon Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. On its recommendations the President based his program for crime prevention which he sent to Congress last Feb. 6. The measure, on which Senate and House hearings already have begun, anticipates federal grants in the next two years of $350 million to help finance state and local crime programs.

National attention is now focused on a series of Supreme Court decisions setting forth the rights of persons accused of crime. The most recent and most hotly debated ruling of the series was handed down June 13, 1966 in Miranda v. Arizona. To avoid violation of the Fifth Amendment privilege, the court stated: "Prior to any questioning, the person must be warned that he has a right to remain silent, that any statement he does make may be used as evidence against him, and that he has a right to the presence of an attorney."

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary of New York City on March 18 said recent court rulings designed to protect the rights of defendants were "restricting" the police. Attorney Gen. Ramsey Clark, however, had told a House Judiciary subcommittee on March 15: "I don't think court rules cause crimes. It's a little more difficult than that."

The President's commission in its report issued on Feb. 18 in general found that law enforcement agencies had fallen behind the times. They had failed to make use of new techniques and equipment. They had made little use of systems analysis, data processing, and new training procedures.

That new techniques - and more police - are desperately needed is evident. The FBI reported on March 15 that serious crime surged upward 11 per cent last year. Curiously, the sharpest rise was reported in small cities.

President Johnson's attitude is more basic. "Poverty. There is the real enemy," the president told a group of state crime administrators last Oct. 15. "Strike poverty down and much of crime will fall with it. Punish the criminal. By all means. But if we wish to rid this country of crime, if we wish to stop hacking at its branches only, we must cut its roots and drain its swampy breeding place, the slum."

Missouri was the setting for a major development in the 1968 presidential campaign.

This occurred in Fulton when Vice President Hubert Humphrey chose the same site where Winston Churchill gave his famous "iron curtain" speech 21 years ago to declare an open door policy between Russia and the west.

Humphrey's choice wasn't particularly significant but the fact that he was President Lyndon B. Johnson's choice to make the speech was.

The President might have made the speech himself. He could have permitted Secretary of State Dean Rusk to make this major foreign policy declaration.

Instead he chose Humphrey and the significance of the choice is that the President has demonstrated by action instead of merely by words that Humphrey is the choice for his 1968 running mate.

This assumes, of course, that Johnson will run. The assumption isn't a wild one. Johnson might be expected to seek a second term and he's been talking more and more like a candidate recently. He has even shrugged off Bobby Kennedy's insulting behavior with kind words - at least those uttered in public.

The fact that Johnson approves of Humphrey as his running mate gives the nation little feeling of comfort but things could be worse. The country could have a weak President and a strong Vice President.

Long live President Johnson and may he keep his health as long as he is the occupant of the White House.

We have voted a levy for schools, parks and library.

Why wouldn't it be a good thing to vote a one mill levy for Industrial development?

This fund would produce a base to acquire land sites which are necessary if we hope to interest new industry in locating here.

The fact is that nearly every city in Missouri as well as across the nation has this fund and has been developing industrial sites while we want to sleep at the switch for a few years. This, we cannot afford and don't let anyone tell you otherwise.

So if you want progress and more jobs and payrolls in Sikeston, then we must vote YES for an industrial levy.

While we were in Texas recently, I saw Texas newspapers "playing up" a professor of Journalism's ten commandments for proper reading of a newspaper. Thinking they might be of value to you, I am passing them on.

Here they are:

ONE - Read your newspaper fully each day. Make it a habit.

TWO - Don't be headline-happy. Heads are just the menu; you must eat the food itself to get a satisfying meal.

FOUR - Don't be one-subject happy. Sticking only to sports, comics or society news is like picking up pennies and ignoring dollars.

FIVE - Be a fact-seeker. Get the facts from the news column, then read the comments of editorial writers and columnists. You may find that you are the better thinker (at least in your own opinion.

SIX - Read with both eyes. Note the qualifying words and also "who says so." Don't take an accusation for a conviction, rumor for fact, or confuse plans with accomplishments.

SEVEN - Don't be a reading coward. Don't be afraid to weigh opinions in complete conflict with your own.

EIGHT - Get out of any reading rut you may have fallen into and read at least one thing a day completely apart from your normal interest, to give yourself a mental job.

NINE - Plan your shopping and buying at home with the help of the advertising columns of your newspaper.

TEN - Relax and enjoy the fun every day. There is a lighter side of life and your newspaper covers it - so give yourself a break and join in the enjoyment.

FISHING FAR FROM HOME

In the interests of conservation, the Senate Committee on Commerce is pushing for legislation to establish a "fishery zone" 12 miles wide in all U.S. coastal waters. With few exceptions, foreign fishermen would be excluded from operating in that zone, which is presently the case within only that 3 - mile zone internationally recognized as our "territorial waters."

The report of the Committee's hearings clearly demonstrates the need for a broader area of exclusion. And this could be reasonably done, according to legal testimony, without claiming an extension of territorial waters and with no interference to ordinary shipping on the high seas outside the 3-mile zone.

Presently, foreign fishermen are able to operate in the very months of some of our most important bays and harbors, and over grounds which our own fishermen have for years worked with utmost care to maintain a continuing good supply of marketable fish. In recent years, some foreign vessels, most notably those of the Soviet Union, have been dragging those grounds with nets so fine in mesh that hardly a minnow can get through. And according to U.S. fishermen who claim to have observed it, the Communists lack even the decency to throw the small ones back. After picking out the larger, edible fish, they dump all the rest in the hold to be ground up as fish meal or fertilizer. We don't think it far-fetched to suggest that they may be deliberately trying to damage or destroy our offshore fishing grounds.

In any case, that's what they've been doing. And the effects are already evident in diminishing annual hauls of such important seafoods as crabs, shrimp and salmon. Also, the big Soviet trawlers have time and again destroyed stationary equipment (set nets and traps) which U.S. fishermen use, instead of trawlers, as part of the program to conserve the fish stock for coming years.

While there's certainly justification for a 12-mile zone in the interests of conservation alone, there may be some equally compelling reasons. For some of those Soviet Trawlers spend a lot of time in the mouths of some of our harbors where there are few if any food fish to be caught. When fishermen far from home dip their nets and drop location markers where they know fish do not abound, there is reason to wonder for what they are really fishing.

The 40th annual convention of the Reserve Officers Association this month highlights the fact that the whole structure of our military reserve organization has been distrupted in recent months by Defense Secretary McNamara. The outstanding example was his deactivation last December of some 750 organized Army Reserve units, including all six combat divisions. This was done while Congress was out of session and after the Senate Committee on Armed Forces had unanimously opposed such a move.

The Defense Secretary claimed that there was "no military requirement" for any of the abolished units. However, in subsequent hearings by the Senate Committee, military witnesses acknowledged that among those abolished were a "number of units of the exact type listed on the requests of General Westmoreland for Vietnam, and which the Active Army had been and in some cases is unable to supply withing the time frame required."

It appears that Mr. McNamara wants to maintain a sizeable force of trained reservists. But for some reason he doesn't want organized reserve units, evidently preferring to call up individual reservists to augment the regulars. Yet military experience has demonstrated that being a part of an established unit is a great factor in soldier morale, as well as combat team efficiency. That was one of the primary reasons Congress established organized reserve units in the first place.

Possibly part of the problem stems from the Defense Secretary's own lack of military training or experience. The famed General Von Clausewitz, in his classic treatise "On War" noted that theorists are inclined "to look upon combat as purely a trial of strength or numbers, being unable to comprehend non-physical factors as morale and esprit d'corps." Certainly it is a "war of numbers" which the Defense Secretary and his fellow theorists have been conducting in Vietnam. Perhaps they, and their computers, find it much simpler to call up individuals from the reserve or by draft than it would be to maneuver organized reserve units.

We hope that Reserve Officers Convention in New York will initiate some action to help Congress make some corrections. Being "citizen - soldiers," reservists are sometimes better able to do something about mismanagement (or whatever) by politically appointed civilians in the Defense Department than can the Army regulars.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Diplomats are worried over the fact that Ho Chi Minh's blunt rejection of President Johnson's peace overture has increased pressure on the President to escalate the war.

Chief pressure comes from the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who once again have urged the President to let them close shipping into Haiphong, which they state has been used by the Russians and smaller Communist countries to unload modern artillery and rockets.

In the past the President has countered the joint chiefs by arguing that he is out to curtail Red Chinese influence in North Vietnam, and the mining Haiphong Harbor would only play into Chinese hands and strengthen their influence in Hanoi. The Chinese have been pressuring Ho Chi Minh to continue the war. The Russians have been pressuring him to end it.

The President has been fully aware of the fact that Russian arms were entering Haiphong, and has discussed this with both Foreign Minister Gromyko and Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin. They have argued that if they are to have any influence with the North Vietnamese, Moscow must give military aid. Johnson has gone along with this, and is further convinced that Premier Kosygin, when he met with Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London, did his best to persuade Ho Chi Minh to sit down at the conference table. Johnson was on the transatlantic telephone every day with Wilson, knew all the details of the communications with Hanoi. Actually, Kosygin remained in London an extra day, hoping to get favorable word from Ho. But Chinese influence apparently outweighed Russian influence.

So the Joint Chiefs of Staff are now telling the President that, since his strategy didn't work, they should be permitted to mine Haiphong Harbor.

$2,000,000 OF LUCK

Securities and exchange investigators are taking a dim view of the latest Wall Street success story on how to make two million dollars in less than 10 minutes. It happened on the day that Schenley, the big liquor company, and P. Lorillard, the big tobacco company, went into a corporate huddle to finalize a long - planned merger.

As the meeting dragged on, Schenley stockholders became nervous that a snag had developed and there would be no merger. The New York Stock Exchange, though aware that the negotiations had not broken down, did nothing to head off the rumor. Sell orders began to pour in until the exchange ordered a halt in the trading.

But minutes before the close of business, the market was opened again to Schenley transactions. By this time, the pile - up of sell orders had knocked the stock down eight points and Glen Alden Corporation quickly moved in and purchased 200,000 shares at the low price.

Next morning, when the financial world learned that the Schenley - Lorillard merger was still in the works, the stock bounced back up. Glen Alden sold out for a cool $2,-100,000 profit. It took less than 10 minutes of trading time for the company to pull off this profit.

The SEC would now like to know why the stock exchange opened the trading for a few minutes before closing time and did nothing to scotch the false rumors. SEC investigators would also like to know whether Glen Alden had inside information or merely had two million dollars worth of luck.

THREE RED GUARDS

Three Chinese Red guards, once favorable to Mao Tse-Tung, have escaped from their units and turned up in Formosa. They are Wong Chao-Tien, Chou Pai - Yuan and Dze Shen - Peng.

They first began to question Chinese propaganda which criticized American automobile accidents. How, they asked, could America have so many accidents unless America also had many automobiles? They could see there weren't enough cars in China to have many accidents.

They also read in their newspapers excerpts from western papers criticizing their governments. It struck them that if the press was free to challenge the policies of the governments then those countries must be more Democratic than China.

One escapee, Chou Pai-Yuan, hasn't found the free world entirely to his liking. Women's skirts are too short and the movies too sexy. And he thinks it's wrong for the people to waste so much food.

However his friend Sze doesn't mind the short skirts at all and would rather see the sexy movies than the dull propaganda films produced by the Red Chinese. He also prefers to live in a society that waste food than in a society where people go hungry.

THERE WAS ADAM

Few sessions of congress have been so linked to one member as the 90th Congress to Adam Clayton Powell.

The very first piece of legislation offered on the house floor Jan. 10 was H. Res. 1, sponsored by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., establishing a special committee to investigate Powell's right to be seated.

Recently, following a house discussion on hiring of special counsel to combat Powell's court suit to force his seating, Rep. John Saylor, R-Pa., remarked:

"When the history of the 90th Congress is written, it is going to read like the Good Book. In the beginning there was Adam."

H. L. Hunt Says

END OF THE "GREAT SOCIETY"

It has been reported that President Johnson has decided to drop the term "Great Society" to describe his programs for expanding the powers and spending of the federal government. The accuracy of these reports is suggested by the omission of any reference to the "Great Society" in the President's 1967 State of the Union message.

Essentially the same programs to which President Johnson gave the "Great Society" label had previously borne three other labels: New Deal, Fair Deal and New Frontier. President Eisenhower did not give them a label, but continued most of them nevertheless. The names have changed, but the drive which they describe has not. It is the drive toward full federal control of every aspect of American life.

Each of the four specific slogans used to make this push for power sound appealing to the voters has been associated with an individual President. No President has used more than one of them. So it marks a change for President Johnson to abandon his particular slogan and look for a new one. It could well mean that even the most appealing slogans are no longer so useful in selling a shoddy and dangerous product. In any case it is evident that the "Great Society" slogan had become more a liability than an asset to the President.

This is especially encouraging to freedom-loving Americans because the "Great Society" slogan was the most openly socialist of all. Perhaps the propagandists for big government have realized that the country is not ready for open socialism. In time and with education, Americans will reject all its disguised forms as well. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Adam Clayton Powell Plans Return -- To Whack Labor Leaders.

Washington, D. C. -- Up on the Hill they're beginning to dust off old, discarded signs which read: "Never Aggravate Adam Clayton Powell." They've heard that the irreverent gentleman from Harlem is planning to make a tour de farce (sic) right across the nation shortly.

He may not wander into New York. But he could campaign for re - election at long-distance -- from a score of stages in other big towns. For some weeks now one of his business advisers has been attempting to line up personal appearances for Adam and his "disciplines," a Bimini combo, in 11 cities stretching from Philadelphia to Seattle, via Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

If the itinerary for this sentimental journey can be completed (the boys on Broadway now call Adam Powell one of America's strongest box office appeals) there certainly would be a stand in this capital.

Certainly he'll be back with his Congressional credentials after the April 11th Election Day -- much to the delight of some of those who voted to oust him but now want his vote, his support, his rapier tongue in a battle he once won for them.

This was a fight to stop labor from getting what it has wanted most from Congress for exactly 20 years -- repeal of the ban on common situs picketing. The law now prevents building and construction unions from picketing a big construction site on which many contractors are operating at the same time. Thus the plumbers, in a dispute with a single contractor revamping Pad 34 of the Florida moonport, now cannot picket the space base since this might shut down the other contractors as well.

To understand how vital this is to the labor movement it must be realized that the $96 billion building and construction business is the nation's largest industry.

And the AFL-CIO construction union bloc -- 3,500,000 strong -- is the most influential force inside labor.

The ban on this sort of secondary picketing began in the Taft - Hartley law of 1947. In 20 years four presidents -- Messrs. Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson -- have backed labor's repeal drive.

In this past 89th Congress, labor was about to win. The repealer was passed through by the House Rules Committee then chaired by "Judge" Howard Smith of Virginia, hardly one of labor's bosom buddies. But to get to the floor the bill had to be handed in by the irascible Rev. Powell, then chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Instead, he bottled it up.

He charged there just were not enough Negro workers in the building and construction unions.

He was in the political pressure cooker -- but he took the heat. The bill died. Many believe that's where the revolt started which led Adam to self-exile on his own carefully selected Devil's Island.

Now labor again is battling for what it claims is the same right to picket enjoyed by all other unions in other fields. The new repeal bill is HR 100, introduced by labor's good friend, Congressman Frank Thompson, D-N.J.

Hearings on the bill to permit common situs picketing are scheduled to start before the labor subcommittee during the first week in April.

At the executive council session of the Building and Construction Trades Department in Bal Harbour, Fla., last month its ace lobbyist Walter Mason told his colleagues, "I believe we have the votes on both sides of the aisle which will pass a situs picketing bill."

That's undoubtedly true -- now.

Adam has aggravated lots of people. But he still has his friends in the House or Senate -- to which the repeal bill must go, of course, if it passes the House.

If Adam does hit the hustings, his voice will be heard throughout the land -- and it won't exactly have the tone of the turtle. Adam Powell will be orating as a layman and preaching as a reverend. He will be hitting such cities as Cleveland just as the construction controversy heats up.

The hearings will run into April after the opening testimony, probably by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz. And Adam Clayton Powell will be back in Congress then -- if he wants to take his seat.

And silence is not exactly his specialty. And he would have the biggest stage of all -- the House.

So labor isn't over the hurdle yet.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
WHAT TO DO ABOUT CRIME

The first National Conference on Crime Contro, a two-day meeting, opens in Washington on Tuesday (March 28.)

Crime over the past few years has acquired great political glamour. Mayors, governors, President Johnson himself are making much of the public worry over robbery, rape and murder.

Gov. Kirk of Florida has a private army against crime, and several other governors are leaning in that direction. Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City on March 8 promised that "the top priority of my administration this year has been given to the war against crime."

Barry Goldwater early in the 1964 campaign found out that crime was about as dependable - and safe - a campaign issue as sin and motherhood. He rang all the organ stops on "crime in the streets."

Lyndon B. Johnson played down crime as an issue in 1964, but two years ago he created a blue-ribbon Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. On its recommendations the President based his program for crime prevention which he sent to Congress last Feb. 6. The measure, on which Senate and House hearings already have begun, anticipates federal grants in the next two years of $350 million to help finance state and local crime programs.

National attention is now focused on a series of Supreme Court decisions setting forth the rights of persons accused of crime. The most recent and most hotly debated ruling of the series was handed down June 13, 1966 in Miranda v. Arizona. To avoid violation of the Fifth Amendment privilege, the court stated: "Prior to any questioning, the person must be warned that he has a right to remain silent, that any statement he does make may be used as evidence against him, and that he has a right to the presence of an attorney."

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary of New York City on March 18 said recent court rulings designed to protect the rights of defendants were "restricting" the police. Attorney Gen. Ramsey Clark, however, had told a House Judiciary subcommittee on March 15: "I don't think court rules cause crimes. It's a little more difficult than that."

The President's commission in its report issued on Feb. 18 in general found that law enforcement agencies had fallen behind the times. They had failed to make use of new techniques and equipment. They had made little use of systems analysis, data processing, and new training procedures.

That new techniques - and more police - are desperately needed is evident. The FBI reported on March 15 that serious crime surged upward 11 per cent last year. Curiously, the sharpest rise was reported in small cities.

President Johnson's attitude is more basic. "Poverty. There is the real enemy," the president told a group of state crime administrators last Oct. 15. "Strike poverty down and much of crime will fall with it. Punish the criminal. By all means. But if we wish to rid this country of crime, if we wish to stop hacking at its branches only, we must cut its roots and drain its swampy breeding place, the slum."

Missouri was the setting for a major development in the 1968 presidential campaign.

This occurred in Fulton when Vice President Hubert Humphrey chose the same site where Winston Churchill gave his famous "iron curtain" speech 21 years ago to declare an open door policy between Russia and the west.

Humphrey's choice wasn't particularly significant but the fact that he was President Lyndon B. Johnson's choice to make the speech was.

The President might have made the speech himself. He could have permitted Secretary of State Dean Rusk to make this major foreign policy declaration.

Instead he chose Humphrey and the significance of the choice is that the President has demonstrated by action instead of merely by words that Humphrey is the choice for his 1968 running mate.

This assumes, of course, that Johnson will run. The assumption isn't a wild one. Johnson might be expected to seek a second term and he's been talking more and more like a candidate recently. He has even shrugged off Bobby Kennedy's insulting behavior with kind words - at least those uttered in public.

The fact that Johnson approves of Humphrey as his running mate gives the nation little feeling of comfort but things could be worse. The country could have a weak President and a strong Vice President.

Long live President Johnson and may he keep his health as long as he is the occupant of the White House.

Why wouldn't it be a good thing to vote a one mill levy for industrial development?

This fund would produce a base to acquire land sites which are necessary if we hope to interest new industry in locating here.

The fact is that nearly every city in Missouri as well as across the nation has this fund and has been developing industrial sites while we want to sleep at the switch for a few years. This, we cannot afford and don't let anyone tell you otherwise.

While we were in Texas recently, I saw Texas newspapers "playing up" a professor of Journalism's ten commandments for proper reading of a newspaper. Thinking they might be of value to you, I am passing them on.

Here they are:

ONE - Read your newspaper fully each day. Make it a habit.

TWO - Don't be headline-happy. Heads are just the menu; you must eat the food itself to get a satisfying meal.

FOUR - Don't be one-subject happy. Sticking only to sports, comics or society news is like picking up pennies and ignoring dollars.

FIVE - Be a fact-seeker. Get the facts from the news column, then read the comments of editorial writers and columnists. You may find that you are the better thinker (at least in your own opinion.

SIX - Read with both eyes. Note the qualifying words and also "who says so." Don't take an accusation for a conviction, rumor for fact, or confuse plans with accomplishments.

SEVEN - Don't be a reading coward. Don't be afraid to weigh opinions in complete conflict with your own.

EIGHT - Get out of any reading rut you may have fallen into and read at least one thing a day completely apart from your normal interest, to give yourself a mental job.

NINE - Plan your shopping and buying at home with the help of the advertising columns of your newspaper.

TEN - Relax and enjoy the fun every day. There is a lighter side of life and your newspaper covers it - so give yourself a break and join in the enjoyment.

FISHING FAR FROM HOME

In the interests of conservation, the Senate Committee on Commerce is pushing for legislation to establish a "fishery zone" 12 miles wide in all U.S. coastal waters. With few exceptions, foreign fishermen would be excluded from operating in that zone, which is presently the case within only that 3 - mile zone internationally recognized as our "territorial waters."

The report of the Committee's hearings clearly demonstrates the need for a broader area of exclusion. And this could be reasonably done, according to legal testimony, without claiming an extension of territorial waters and with no interference to ordinary shipping on the high seas outside the 3-mile zone.

Presently, foreign fishermen are able to operate in the very months of some of our most important bays and harbors, and over grounds which our own fishermen have for years worked with utmost care to maintain a continuing good supply of marketable fish. And according to U.S. fishermen who claim to have observed it, the Communists lack even the decency to throw the small ones back. After picking out the larger, edible fish, they dump all the rest in the hold to be ground up as fish meal or fertilizer. The hottest place in America is the Greenland Ranch in Death Valley, Cal. On July 10, 1913 the mercury there soared to a sizzling 134 degrees — in the shade!

Quotable notables: "For some curious reason man has always assumed that his is the highest form of life in the universe. There is, of course, nothing at all with which to sustain this view." — James Thurber.

Do you think of America's "Founding Fathers" as old men? The average age of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was 44.6 years, and the men in President George Washington's first Cabinet averaged only 39 years at the start of their term in office.

Tourism has become one of the world's fastest growing industries. Last year about 116 million people traveled outside their home countries, and spent about $13½ billion.

Based on the same mileage covered, a motorcycle driver is 20 times as likely to be killed in a traffic accident as a car driver.

It is estimated that between 10 and 11 million women in the world — half of them in the United States — now take birth control pills. The percentage of users in the reproductive age limits are 8.2 in this country compared to 3.2 per cent in England and 20 per cent in Australia and New Zealand.

Folklore: To get rid of freckles, rub a live frog over your face. It is bad luck to drop a glove. You will lose your memory if you go through a cemetery and read the gravestone epitaphs. You can cure a headache by sticking a match in your hair — but don't light it!

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "In this world there are only two tragedies: One is not getting what one wants, and the other is getting it."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Diplomats are worried over the fact that Ho Chi Minh's blunt rejection of President Johnson's peace overture has increased pressure on the President to escalate the war.

Chief pressure comes from the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who once again have urged the President to let them close shipping into Haiphong, which they state has been used by the Russians and smaller Communist countries to unload modern artillery and rockets.

In the past the President has countered the joint chiefs by arguing that he is out to curtail Red Chinese influence in North Vietnam, and the mining Haiphong Harbor would only play into Chinese hands and strengthen their influence in Hanoi. The Chinese have been pressuring Ho Chi Minh to continue the war. The Russians have been pressuring him to end it.

The President has been fully aware of the fact that Russian arms were entering Haiphong, and has discussed this with both Foreign Minister Gromyko and Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin. They have argued that if they are to have any influence with the North Vietnamese, Moscow must give military aid. Johnson has gone along with this, and is further convinced that Premier Kosygin, when he met with Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London, did his best to persuade Ho Chi Minh to sit down at the conference table. Johnson was on the transatlantic telephone every day with Wilson, knew all the details of the communications with Hanoi. Actually, Kosygin remained in London an extra day, hoping to get favorable word from Ho. But Chinese influence apparently outweighed Russian influence.

So the Joint Chiefs of Staff are now telling the President that, since his strategy didn't work, they should be permitted to mine Haiphong Harbor.

$2,000,000 OF LUCK

Securities and exchange investigators are taking a dim view of the latest Wall Street success story on how to make two million dollars in less than 10 minutes. It happened on the day that Schenley, the big liquor company, and P. Lorillard, the big tobacco company, went into a corporate huddle to finalize a long - planned merger.

As the meeting dragged on, Schenley stockholders became nervous that a snag had developed and there would be no merger. The New York Stock Exchange, though aware that the negotiations had not broken down, did nothing to head off the rumor. Sell orders began to pour in until the exchange ordered a halt in the trading.

But minutes before the close of business, the market was opened again to Schenley transactions. By this time, the pile - up of sell orders had knocked the stock down eight points and Glen Alden Corporation quickly moved in and purchased 200,000 shares at the low price.

Next morning, when the financial world learned that the Schenley - Lorillard merger was still in the works, the stock bounced back up. Glen Alden sold out for a cool $2,-100,000 profit. It took less than 10 minutes of trading time for the company to pull off this profit.

The SEC would now like to know why the stock exchange opened the trading for a few minutes before closing time and did nothing to scotch the false rumors. SEC investigators would also like to know whether Glen Alden had inside information or merely had two million dollars worth of luck.

THREE RED GUARDS

Three Chinese Red guards, once favorable to Mao Tse-Tung, have escaped from their units and turned up in Formosa. They are Wong Chao-Tien, Chou Pai - Yuan and Dze Shen - Peng.

They first began to question Chinese propaganda which criticized American automobile accidents. How, they asked, could America have so many accidents unless America also had many automobiles? They could see there weren't enough cars in China to have many accidents.

They also read in their newspapers excerpts from western papers criticizing their governments. It struck them that if the press was free to challenge the policies of the governments then those countries must be more Democratic than China.

One escapee, Chou Pai-Yuan, hasn't found the free world entirely to his liking. Women's skirts are too short and the movies too sexy. And he thinks it's wrong for the people to waste so much food.

However his friend Sze doesn't mind the short skirts at all and would rather see the sexy movies than the dull propaganda films produced by the Red Chinese. He also prefers to live in a society that waste food than in a society where people go hungry.

THERE WAS ADAM

Few sessions of congress have been so linked to one member as the 90th Congress to Adam Clayton Powell.

The very first piece of legislation offered on the house floor Jan. 10 was H. Res. 1, sponsored by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., establishing a special committee to investigate Powell's right to be seated.

Recently, following a house discussion on hiring of special counsel to combat Powell's court suit to force his seating, Rep. John Saylor, R-Pa., remarked:

"When the history of the 90th Congress is written, it is going to read like the Good Book. In the beginning there was Adam."

H. L. Hunt Says

END OF THE "GREAT SOCIETY"

It has been reported that President Johnson has decided to drop the term "Great Society" to describe his programs for expanding the powers and spending of the federal government. The accuracy of these reports is suggested by the omission of any reference to the "Great Society" in the President's 1967 State of the Union message.

Essentially the same programs to which President Johnson gave the "Great Society" label had previously borne three other labels: New Deal, Fair Deal and New Frontier. President Eisenhower did not give them a label, but continued most of them nevertheless. The names have changed, but the drive which they describe has not. It is the drive toward full federal control of every aspect of American life.

Each of the four specific slogans used to make this push for power sound appealing to the voters has been associated with an individual President. No President has used more than one of them. So it marks a change for President Johnson to abandon his particular slogan and look for a new one. It could well mean that even the most appealing slogans are no longer so useful in selling a shoddy and dangerous product. In any case it is evident that the "Great Society" slogan had become more a liability than an asset to the President.

This is especially encouraging to freedom-loving Americans because the "Great Society" slogan was the most openly socialist of all. Perhaps the propagandists for big government have realized that the country is not ready for open socialism. In time and with education, Americans will reject all its disguised forms as well. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Adam Clayton Powell Plans Return -- To Whack Labor Leaders.

Washington, D. C.: -- Up on the Hill they're beginning to dust off old, discarded signs which read: "Never Aggravate Adam Clayton Powell." They've heard that the irreverent gentleman from Harlem is planning to make a tour de farce (sic) right across the nation shortly.

He may not wander into New York. But he could campaign for re - election at long-distance -- from a score of stages in other big towns. For some weeks now one of his business advisers has been attempting to line up personal appearances for Adam and his "disciplines," a Bimini combo, in 11 cities stretching from Philadelphia to Seattle, via Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

If the itinerary for this sentimental journey can be completed (the boys on Broadway now call Adam Powell one of America's strongest box office appeals) there certainly would be a stand in this capital.

Certainly he'll be back with his Congressional credentials after the April 11th Election Day -- much to the delight of some of those who voted to oust him but now want his vote, his support, his rapier tongue in a battle he once won for them.

This was a fight to stop labor from getting what it has wanted most from Congress for exactly 20 years -- repeal of the ban on common situs picketing. The law now prevents building and construction unions from picketing a big construction site on which many contractors are operating at the same time. Thus the plumbers, in a dispute with a single contractor revamping Pad 34 of the Florida moonport, now cannot picket the space base since this might shut down the other contractors as well.

To understand how vital this is to the labor movement it must be realized that the $96 billion building and construction business is the nation's largest industry.

And the AFL-CIO construction union bloc -- 3,500,000 strong -- is the most influential force inside labor.

The ban on this sort of secondary picketing began in the Taft - Hartley law of 1947. In 20 years four presidents -- Messrs. Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson -- have backed labor's repeal drive.

In this past 89th Congress, labor was about to win. The repealer was passed through by the House Rules Committee then chaired by "Judge" Howard Smith of Virginia, hardly one of labor's bosom buddies. But to get to the floor the bill had to be handed in by the irascible Rev. Powell, then chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Instead, he bottled it up.

He charged there just were not enough Negro workers in the building and construction unions.

He was in the political pressure cooker -- but he took the heat. The bill died. Many believe that's where the revolt started which led Adam to self-exile on his own carefully selected Devil's Island.

Now labor again is battling for what it claims is the same right to picket enjoyed by all other unions in other fields. The new repeal bill is HR 100, introduced by labor's good friend, Congressman Frank Thompson, D-N.J.

Hearings on the bill to permit common situs picketing are scheduled to start before the labor subcommittee during the first week in April.

At the executive council session of the Building and Construction Trades Department in Bal Harbour, Fla., last month its ace lobbyist Walter Mason told his colleagues, "I believe we have the votes on both sides of the aisle which will pass a situs picketing bill."

That's undoubtedly true -- now.

Adam has aggravated lots of people. But he still has his friends in the House or Senate -- to which the repeal bill must go, of course, if it passes the House.

If Adam does hit the hustings, his voice will be heard throughout the land -- and it won't exactly have the tone of the turtle. Adam Powell will be orating as a layman and preaching as a reverend. He will be hitting such cities as Cleveland just as the construction controversy heats up.

The hearings will run into April after the opening testimony, probably by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz. And Adam Clayton Powell will be back in Congress then -- if he wants to take his seat.

And silence is not exactly his specialty. And he would have the biggest stage of all -- the House.

So labor isn't over the hurdle yet.

THE INTERNATIONAL DRINK -TEA-

Next to water, tea is the world's favorite drink. In China, where tea was first grown over 5,000 years ago it is sipped from small bowls. In Japan tea leaves are made into a soup, in Siam, it is chewed with salt, in Burma it is pickled and served as a salad and in Russia, tea is flavored with mutton fat. America and Canada are the only countries that care for iced tea.

The trees are on evergreens that grows best in the tropical climates of Ceylon and Java. They will grow in colder climates such as China or Japan but they are not as productive.

Tea plants will grow as tall as a good sized tree but they are kept pruned to a height of about three feet. A good tea bush will yield after 10 years only a quarter of a pound of tea in a year. Only the bud and first two leaves of each branch is used for the finest tea. A Ceylonese woman, using both hands, can pick 60 pounds of tea in a day.

When the processed tea leaves arrive in the United States they must be examined and graded by government inspectors before they are released to the American companies.

After the tea is received at the American manufacturers it is again tested. Each company employs "tea tasters" that will blend the various teas until they have the best flavor. An expert "tea taster" can tell hundreds of teas apart by tasting them. He can tell which teas are mixed in every blend and where each was grown. After deciding on a blend the recipe is kept secret.

For best results in brewing tea:

Measure one teaspoon of tea or one tea bag for each cup of tea. Pour the boiling water over the tea and let it steep or stand for three minutes - five minutes for stronger tea. Drink the tea hot or let it cool and add ice. Do not boil tea - it will be bitter and lose its true flavor.

Joint Party Celebrates Birthdays

Mark was three last Monday and Michael was two Wednesday.

ROADSIDE CROSSES

In many sections of South Texas the sites of highway fatalities are marked by small shrines in the shape of a cross. The crosses, some of wood and some of elaborate stone, are erected by the family of the deceased as a memorial. Marking the site of a death is a religious custom that originated in Spain, and the crosses are found in areas with heavy Mexican population.

THE INTERNATIONAL DRINK -TEA-

Next to water, tea is the world's favorite drink. In China, where tea was first grown over 5,000 years ago it is sipped from small bowls. In Japan tea leaves are made into a soup, in Siam, it is chewed with salt, in Burma it is pickled and served as a salad and in Russia, tea is flavored with mutton fat. America and Canada are the only countries that care for iced tea.

The trees are on evergreens that grows best in the tropical climates of Ceylon and Java. They will grow in colder climates such as China or Japan but they are not as productive.

Tea plants will grow as tall as a good sized tree but they are kept pruned to a height of about three feet. A good tea bush will yield after 10 years only a quarter of a pound of tea in a year. Only the bud and first two leaves of each branch is used for the finest tea. A Ceylonese woman, using both hands, can pick 60 pounds of tea in a day.

When the processed tea leaves arrive in the United States they must be examined and graded by government inspectors before they are released to the American companies.

After the tea is received at the American manufacturers it is again tested. Each company employs "tea tasters" that will blend the various teas until they have the best flavor. An expert "tea taster" can tell hundreds of teas apart by tasting them. He can tell which teas are mixed in every blend and where each was grown. After deciding on a blend the recipe is kept secret.

For best results in brewing tea:

Measure one teaspoon of tea or one tea bag for each cup of tea. Pour the boiling water over the tea and let it steep or stand for three minutes - five minutes for stronger tea. Drink the tea hot or let it cool and add ice. Do not boil tea - it will be bitter and lose its true flavor.

Joint Party Celebrates Birthdays

Mark was three last Monday and Michael was two Wednesday.

Games were played and favors given.

Guests were Rebecca Steward, Charles Moore, Mark and Madeline Blanton, Greg Crenshaw and Laura Jane Rolwing, both of Charleston.

AMONG the forms to be filled out in applying for admission to the University of Wisconsin is a personal-data sheet. In response to the request to "List Your Personal Strengths," one 18-year-old applicant wrote: "Sometimes I am trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent." Where the form said, "List Your Weaknesses," he wrote: "Sometimes I am not trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent."

ROADSIDE CROSSES

In many sections of South Texas the sites of highway fatalities are marked by small shrines in the shape of a cross. The crosses, some of wood and some of elaborate stone, are erected by the family of the deceased as a memorial. Marking the site of a death is a religious custom that originated in Spain, and the crosses are found in areas with heavy Mexican population.

KANSAS CITY CENTRAL dethroned Beaumont and won the Class L state indoor high school track championship Saturday for the fourth time in five years.

Central scored 28 1/2 points. Kansas City Paseo second at 22 and Beaumont third with 17.

Six meet records were broken and one was tied.

Wilbur Smith made 12 of Paseo's points for individual honors. His 7.5 seconds in the 60-yard high hurdles tied the record. He was second in the low hurdles and third in the broad jump.

BILL WHITE, the Philadelphia Phillies' injured first baseman, may be used as a pinch hitter before long, even though doctors say he will not be able to play regularly before June.

"He could pinch hit on opening day April 11," Manager Gene Mauch said Sunday.

THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS sent 12 players back to the minors Saturday, among them George Kernek, who had been billed a year ago as successor to Bill White at first base.

Six roster players were sent to the Cardinal minor league camp for reassignment and six nonroster players were returned to their minor league clubs.

The other roster players were infielders Jose Arcia, Steve Huntz and John Sipin and outfielders John Kindl and Floyd Wicker.

The nonrostermen were pitchers Dennis Aust, Sal Campesi, Joe Hamende, Leland White and Leo Newton and Catcher Gary Stone.

Kernek and Aust, who pitched briefly for the National League club, were the only two of the group with major league experience.

16 To Battle For Title

Invitational Opens Tonight

PARMA -- Sixteen teams will battle for the championship of the Parma Independent Invitational Basketball tournament this week.

Advance and Gray Ridge, winners of two area tournaments, are favored to take the title. Poplar Bluff, Parma, Sikeston Rebels and Dexter have been tabbed as the dark horses.

Action begins tonight at 6 p.m. when Vanduser and Poplar Bluff square off followed by a 7:30 p.m. game that matches Advance and Lilbourn and an 9 p.m. game that will find Parma going against United Parcel of Sikeston.

Three games will be played daily Monday through Thursday with semi-finals Friday and finals Saturday.

The upper bracket of the tournament seems to be the strongest. Poplar Bluff, Advance and Parma are in it. The lower bracket has Gray Ridge, Portageville, Sikeston Rebels and Dexter.

The Daily Standard team will open tournament action Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. when it challenges Dexter.

Tuesday night's action opens at 6 p.m when rivals Wardell and Kennett lock horns followed at 7:30 p.m. by the Gray Ridge Morley game. At 9 p.m. another rival match will take place, when Portageville and Hayti meet.

Oran and Sikeston open Wednesday night's action at 6 p.m. followed by the Standard-Dexter game at 7:30 p.m. and at 9 p.m. putting the winners of the Vanduser-Poplar Bluff game against the winner of the Advance-Lilbourn contest.

UCLA Ends With Perfect Record And NCAA Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — John Wooden, coach of UCLA's NCAA national basketball champions, isn't sure what the word dynasty means but he may have one on his hands.

Led by giant Lew Alcindor and tiny Mike Warren, the Bruins wrapped up their third national title in four years Saturday night to cap a perfect 30-0 season.

And with all five starters returning, Wooden won't deny that UCLA may be back to claim the title next year.

"I've never been quite sure what the word dynasty means. I've never looked it up," Wooden said after the Uclans had squashed Dayton's game Flyers 79-64 in the championship game.

"But I do hope we can stay up there and be a power," he said. "We're certainly going to continue trying and I hope we'll be back next year, and the year following, and the year following and the year following.

"I never want us to do less than we did this year in order to get here," Wooden said.

Wooden denied that a basketball dynasty, at UCLA, if there is to be one, would be harmful to college basketball.

"I'd say the New York Yankee regime wasn't bad for baseball," Wooden said. "I think a winning team should give others incentive to build to the level of the best."

Don Donoher, the Dayton coach, agrees.

"When you see a team like this it makes you want to build toward it," he said.

The Flyers fell behind 20-4 as the game started and never really knew what hit them.

Dayton's biggest scoring threat, Don May hit only three of 12 baskets in the first half and the team hit only 23.8 per cent from the field. May wound up with 21 points but the Flyers team shooting only warmed up to 34 per cent.

Alcindor's mere presence was enough to intimidate Dayton, but he scored 20 points and nabbed 18 rebounds for good measure. Lucius Allen had 19 points and Warren 17.

It was the third straight year in the playoffs for Dayton and the third time it had been eliminated by the No. 1 ranked team. The Flyers finished 25-6 this season.

Guy Lewis, whose Houston Cougars did only what was necessary to defeat North Carolina, 84-62 in the consolation game, also is optimistic about next season.

"We lose two starters, but I think that we can have a team just as good or better next season," Lewis said. "When you wind up you season with a win over the number three ranked team in the country, it's a pretty good indication."

Hawk-Warrior Battle For NBA Supremacy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Warriors and the St. Louis Hawks now are getting ready for the battle for supremacy in the National Basketball Association's Western Division, but the Boston Celtics surprisingly have a little unfinished business in the East.

The Warriors, who won their third straight playoff victory from Los Angeles Sunday, 122-115, play the Hawks in the Cow Palace Thursday night in the opener of their series.

But the Celts, who had beaten New York 21 times including two recent playoff triumphs, were upended by the Knicks 123-112 in Boston and the series moves back to New York Tuesday.

Philadelphia won its playoff series from Cincinnati with a 112-94 third-game victory Saturday while St. Louis disposed of Chicago with a 119-106 triumph in its final game in the preliminary Western Division series.

The rest of the schedule between St. Louis and San Francisco has the second game on the Coast Saturday and then it's back to St. Louis for the third game on April 5 and the fourth game on April 8.

If additional games are needed, the fifth will be at San Francisco on April 10, the sixth at St. Louis on April 12 and the seventh in San Francisco on April 14.

Rick Barry led the Warriors Sunday with 37 points, and the Lakers sorely missed Jerry West, out of the game with a broken finger. Elgin Baylor had 37 points for Los Angeles.

Willis Reed had 38 points for the Knicks and dominated the boards in the upset. Cazzie Russell had 24 points and Walt Bellamy added 23. John Havlicek had 29 for Boston.

Exhibition Baseball

By RON RAPOPORT

The verdict on Sam McDowell may not be final for a couple of months yet, but the Chicago Cubs think they see the jury coming in.

McDowell, of course, is the fireballing Cleveland left-hander who was supposed to make everybody forget about Sandy Koufax. He ran into arm trouble last year and had a mediocre season.

But Sunday, with the opening of the major-league baseball season just a little more than two weeks away, McDowell went six innings against the Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz., and gave up not so much as a single hit.

The Indians had a little trouble scoring themselves, but finally pushed across three unearned runs in the eighth inning and added another in the ninth, then withstood a Chicago challenge and won 4-3.

In all, Sudden Sam struck out six and walked one in the Cleveland triumph. The Cubs' runs all came in the ninth, two of them on Ron Santo's two run homer in his first appearance since being spiked on March 17.

In other exhibition games Sunday, Baltimore beat Los Angeles 3-1, Kansas City edged Houston 5-4, California blanked San Francisco 5-0, Philadelphia outslugged Atlanta 10-9, the New York Yankees bounced Cincinnati 9-3, Pittsburgh and Washington tied 5-5 in 15 innings, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Mets 4-3 in 10 innings, Minnesota blasted Boston 7-1 and St. Louis beat Detroit 6-2.

Cleveland's Dick Radatz set the Cubs down without a hit in the seventh, but Jim Stewart broke the spell in the eighth with a two-out pinch single off Vince Romo.

Dave Johnson knocked in two runs for the Orioles with a double and two singles in the victory over the Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla. Dave Duncan drove in two runs, one on a homer, for Kansas City as the Astros fell at Cocoa, Fla.

George Brunet set San Francisco down on two hits in six innings in the Angels' triumph at Palm Springs, Calif. Tom Satriano had three hits and two runs batted in for California.

Two balks by Charlie Vaughan sent in the tying and winning runs for Philadelphia at Clearwater, Fla. The Phillies blew a 7-2 lead before coming back for the victory.

Horace Clarke had four runs batted in and four hits for the Yankees at Tampa, Fla., and Lou Clinton homered for the Yanks. Whitey Ford was the winning pitcher.

The Senators-Pirates game was called off at Pompano Beach, Fla., after four hours and 15 minutes because of darkness. Frank Howard had three runs batted in for the Senators and Matty Alou and Maury Wills each had four Pittsburgh hits.

Tom McCraw's single with the bases loaded in the 10th gave the White Sox their win at St. Petersburg, Fla. Ron Swoboda and Jerry Grote homered for the Mets.

Ray Washburn doubled in a run and pitched five good innings for the Cardinals at Lakeland, Fla. Jerry Lumpe doubled in both Detroit runs.

"HE WHISPERS TO ME"

In the early morning hours
Just at the break of day
In quiet Meditation
I seek my God and pray

It is the time of day when I
Feel Nearer to My Lord
When all the world is peaceful
I read his holy Word.

The quiet hours When I kneel down
and pray to God above
I listen as he tells my heart
About the Wonders of his love.

Yes, he tells me of his love
so great
As I listen to him there
The calm and peace that fills my soul
As I kneel in silent prayer.

I tell him of my trials
He whispers hope and peace to me
Believe on me and I will do
So very much for thee.

A Record Nears, But Mays Is Too Busy to Notice

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(NEA)—Willie Howard Mays Jr., waiting his turn to bat in the batting cage of the San Francisco Giants, saw the thin fungo bat near the third-base line. He grabbed it and quickly flipped a baseball in the air. Willie chopped at the ball to hit a grounder toward Hal Lanier at shortstop.

But the ball, instead of hitting the infield grass, sailed on a line and then rose in a parabola which took it far over Lanier's head into the outfield. It rolled free to the fence.

"I can't help it," squealed Willie at Lanier, "if there ain't nothin' but hits in my bat." A high-pitched giggle came out of his chocolate face.

Outwardly, there's hardly any change in the compact, thick-necked body with the slightly bandied legs that first showed up in New York's Polo Grounds in 1951. Maybe a tuft or two less of kinky hair, a worry line etched deeper between the eyes, a trace of crow's feet on the edges. Age has placed a gentle tattoo on Willie Mays, who has hit 542 homers in his big league career and conceivably has a chance to surpass the 714 of the immortal Babe Ruth.

Willie will be 36 years old on May 6. Last year he hit 37 home runs. If he plays five more seasons until he's 40, which was Ruth's age when he hit his last homer, and Willie keeps collecting home runs at the 1966 rate, he will surpass the Babe. But records are for the hypothesists, and Willie's a materialist concerned only with what he's doing today.

"I don't think about it," he said, as he tapped a bat on the ground and studiously watched the rookie pitcher throwing batting practice. "I never think about those things, records and all. They're nice, but they're not the way I play baseball. I don't know how many home runs I hit or how many records I got coming to me. I never been any other way. It'd be nice to hit as many home runs as Babe Ruth, but that's a long way off. No use wondering about it."

Willie does worry about the demands on his body as he takes up his normal role as field leader of the Giants.

"I love the game now as much as I ever did," he said, retreating to the team clubhouse after the workout. "I get as much fun out of it, the actual playing but the game is a little harder when you get older. I pace myself and get a lot more rest between games. I don't play doubleheaders. Four or five years ago, I used to work out in the infield. I can't help myself when I'm around the guys. That's why to rest I have to stay away from the park completely."

So you look up the record book and it shows that Willie has never played fewer than 151 games in any season since 1954 (his career had been interrupted by a hitch in the Army), and he has a total of 2,540 base hits with a lifetime batting average of .312. It's a log of amazing durability for an all-out performer.

"I have never been hurt seriously," he said, and rapped his knuckles on the thick barrel of his bat. "Fellows like Mantle, they had injuries long before they even got into baseball. They had a history of it. I try hard not to get out of shape too much between seasons. I come to camp, and I only have to lose four or five pounds. I always weigh around 185.

"The most important thing is the legs. I don't do the things I used to. I don't run the bases. I concede to the fact I'm much older."

KANSAS CITY CENTRAL dethroned Beaumont and won the Class L state indoor high school track championship Saturday for the fourth time in five years.

Central scored 28 1/2 points. Kansas City Paseo second at 22 and Beaumont third with 17.

Six meet records were broken and one was tied.

Wilbur Smith made 12 of Paseo's points for individual honors. His 7.5 seconds in the 60-yard high hurdles tied the record. He was second in the low hurdles and third in the broad jump.

BILL WHITE, the Philadelphia Phillies' injured first baseman, may be used as a pinch hitter before long, even though doctors say he will not be able to play regularly before June.

"He could pinch hit on opening day April 11," Manager Gene Mauch said Sunday.

THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS sent 12 players back to the minors Saturday, among them George Kernek, who had been billed a year ago as successor to Bill White at first base.

Sox roster players were sent to the Cardinal minor league camp for reassignment and six nonroster players were returned to their minor league clubs.

The other roster players were infielders Jose Arcia, Steve Huntz and John Sipin and outfielders John Kindl and Floyd Wicker.

The nonrostermen were pitchers Dennis Aust, Sal Campesi, Joe Hamende, Leland White and Leo Newton and Catcher Gary Stone.

Kernek and Aust, who pitched briefly for the National League club, were the only two of the group with major league experience.

16 To Battle For Title

Invitational Opens Tonight

PARMA -- Sixteen teams will battle for the championship of the Parma Independent Invitational Basketball tournament this week.

Advance and Gray Ridge, winners of two area tournaments, are favored to take the title. Poplar Bluff, Parma, Sikeston Rebels and Dexter have been tabbed as the dark horses.

Action begins tonight at 6 p.m. when Vanduser and Poplar Bluff square off followed by a 7:30 p.m. game that matches Advance and Lilbourn and an 9 p.m. game that will find Parma going against United Parcel of Sikeston.

Three games will be played daily Monday through Thursday with semi-finals Friday and finals Saturday.

The upper bracket of the tournament seems to be the strongest. Poplar Bluff, Advance and Parma are in it. The lower bracket has Gray Ridge, Portageville, Sikeston Rebels and Dexter.

The Daily Standard team will open tournament action Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. when it challenges Dexter.

Tuesday night's action opens at 6 p.m when rivals Wardell and Kennett lock horns followed at 7:30 p.m. by the Gray Ridge Morley game. At 9 p.m. another rival match will take place, when Portageville and Hayti meet.

Oran and Sikeston open Wednesday night's action at 6 p.m. followed by the Standard-Dexter game at 7:30 p.m. and at 9 p.m. putting the winners of the Vanduser-Poplar Bluff game against the winner of the Advance-Lilbourn contest.

UCLA Ends With Perfect Record And NCAA Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — John Wooden, coach of UCLA's NCAA national basketball champions, isn't sure what the word dynasty means but he may have one on his hands.

Led by giant Lew Alcindor and tiny Mike Warren, the Bruins wrapped up their third national title in four years Saturday night to cap a perfect 30-0 season.

And with all five starters returning, Wooden won't deny that UCLA may be back to claim the title next year.

"I've never been quite sure what the word dynasty means. I've never looked it up," Wooden said after the Uclans had squashed Dayton's game Flyers 79-64 in the championship game.

"But I do hope we can stay up there and be a power," he said. "We're certainly going to continue trying and I hope we'll be back next year, and the year following, and the year following and the year following.

"I never want us to do less than we did this year in order to get here," Wooden said.

Wooden denied that a basketball dynasty, at UCLA, if there is to be one, would be harmful to college basketball.

"I'd say the New York Yankee regime wasn't bad for baseball," Wooden said. "I think a winning team should give others incentive to build to the level of the best."

Don Donoher, the Dayton coach, agrees.

"When you see a team like this it makes you want to build toward it," he said.

The Flyers fell behind 20-4 as the game started and never really knew what hit them.

Dayton's biggest scoring threat, Don May hit only three of 12 baskets in the first half and the team hit only 23.8 per cent from the field. May wound up with 21 points but the Flyers team shooting only warmed up to 34 per cent.

Alcindor's mere presence was enough to intimidate Dayton, but he scored 20 points and nabbed 18 rebounds for good measure. Lucius Allen had 19 points and Warren 17.

It was the third straight year in the playoffs for Dayton and the third time it had been eliminated by the No. 1 ranked team. The Flyers finished 25-6 this season.

Guy Lewis, whose Houston Cougars did only what was necessary to defeat North Carolina, 84-62 in the consolation game, also is optimistic about next season.

"We lose two starters, but I think that we can have a team just as good or better next season," Lewis said. "When you wind up you season with a win over the number three ranked team in the country, it's a pretty good indication."

Hawk-Warrior Battle For NBA Supremacy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Warriors and the St. Louis Hawks now are getting ready for the battle for supremacy in the National Basketball Association's Western Division, but the Boston Celtics surprisingly have a little unfinished business in the East.

The Warriors, who won their third straight playoff victory from Los Angeles Sunday, 122-115, play the Hawks in the Cow Palace Thursday night in the opener of their series.

But the Celts, who had beaten New York 21 times including two recent playoff triumphs, were upended by the Knicks 123-112 in Boston and the series moves back to New York Tuesday.

Philadelphia won its playoff series from Cincinnati with a 112-94 third - game victory Saturday while St. Louis disposed of Chicago with a 119-106 triumph in its final game in the preliminary Western Division series.

The rest of the schedule between St. Louis and San Francisco has the second game on the Coast Saturday and then it's back to St. Louis for the third game on April 5 and the fourth game on April 8.

If additional games are needed, the fifth will be at San Francisco on April 10, the sixth at St. Louis on April 12 and the seventh in San Francisco on April 14.

Rick Barry led the Warriors Sunday with 37 points, and the Lakers sorely missed Jerry West, out of the game with a broken finger. Elgin Baylor had 37 points for Los Angeles.

Willis Reed had 38 points for the Knicks and dominated the boards in the upset. Cazzie Russell had 24 points and Walt Bellamy added 23. John Havlicek had 29 for Boston.

Exhibition Baseball

By RON RAPOPORT

The verdict on Sam McDowell may not be final for a couple of months yet, but the Chicago Cubs think they see the jury coming in.

McDowell, of course, is the fireballing Cleveland left-hander who was supposed to make everybody forget about Sandy Koufax. He ran into arm trouble last year and had a mediocre season.

But Sunday, with the opening of the major-league baseball season just a little more than two weeks away, McDowell went six innings against the Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz., and gave up not so much as a single hit.

The Indians had a little trouble scoring themselves, but finally pushed across three unearned runs in the eighth inning and added another in the ninth, then withstood a Chicago challenge and won 4-3.

In all, Sudden Sam struck out six and walked one in the Cleveland triumph. The Cubs' runs all came in the ninth, two of them on Ron Santo's two run homer in his first appearance since being spiked on March 17.

In other exhibition games Sunday, Baltimore beat Los Angeles 3-1, Kansas City edged Houston 5-4, California blanked San Francisco 5-0, Philadelphia outslugged Atlanta 10-9, the New York Yankees bounced Cincinnati 9-3, Pittsburgh and Washington tied 5-5 in 15 innings, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Mets 4-3 in 10 innings, Minnesota blasted Boston 7-1 and St. Louis beat Detroit 6-2.

Cleveland's Dick Radatz set the Cubs down without a hit in the seventh, but Jim Stewart broke the spell in the eighth with a two-out pinch single off Vince Romo.

Dave Johnson knocked in two runs for the Orioles with a double and two singles in the victory over the Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla. Dave Duncan drove in two runs, one on a homer, for Kansas City as the Astros fell at Cocoa, Fla.

George Brunet set San Francisco down on two hits in six innings in the Angels' triumph at Palm Springs, Calif. Tom Satriano had three hits and two runs batted in for California.

Two balks by Charlie Vaughan sent in the tying and winning runs for Philadelphia at Clearwater, Fla. The Phillies blew a 7-2 lead before coming back for the victory.

Horace Clarke had four runs batted in and four hits for the Yankees at Tampa, Fla., and Lou Clinton homered for the Yanks. Whitey Ford was the winning pitcher.

The Senators-Pirates game was called off at Pompano Beach, Fla., after four hours and 15 minutes because of darkness. Frank Howard had three runs batted in for the Senators and Matty Alou and Maury Wills each had four Pittsburgh hits.

Tom McCraw's single with the bases loaded in the 10th gave the White Sox their win at St. Petersburg, Fla. Ron Swoboda and Jerry Grote homered for the Mets.

Ray Washburn doubled in a run and pitched five good innings for the Cardinals at Lakeland, Fla. Jerry Lumpe doubled in both Detroit runs.

"HE WHISPERS TO ME"

In the early morning hours
Just at the break of day
In quiet Meditation
I seek my God and pray

It is the time of day when I
Feel Nearer to My Lord
When all the world is peaceful
I read his holy Word.

The quiet hours When I kneel down
and pray to God above
I listen as he tells my heart
About the Wonders of his love.

Yes, he tells me of his love
so great
As I listen to him there
The calm and peace that fills my soul
As I kneel in silent prayer.

I tell him of my trials
He whispers hope and peace to me
Believe on me and I will do
So very much for thee.

I thank him and I praise him
For without him I would be
Just like a ship without a sail
Lost in a storm at sea.

So you look up the record book and it shows that Willie has never played fewer than 151 games in any season since 1954 (his career had been interrupted by a hitch in the Army), and he has a total of 2,540 base hits with a lifetime batting average of .312. It's a log of amazing durability for an all-out performer.

Golden Globes

Golden Jubilee, a 1967 All-America Selections winner, has double, golden-yellow flowers from 3½ to 4½ inches in diameter, borne on uniform plants. A row looks like a fine hedge.

Giant golden-yellow flowers, fully double, measuring from 3½ to 4½ inches in diameter appear as golden globes on plants so bushy and compact that, with no clipping at all, they form a perfect hedge.

That's a description of Golden Jubilee, a first generation hybrid marigold, which is one of three All-America Selections award winners for 1967.

While the plants grow about 20 inches high, they spread only 13 inches wide, another characteristic which makes a row of them a natural hedge.

If, like most gardeners, you have grown marigolds of the Climax type, you will find that Golden Jubilee grows about a foot lower than any of the Climax' and is slightly deeper in color than Golden Climax. It also starts flowering earlier and produces more blooms.

But the superior habit of growth is what really makes Golden Jubilee different from marigolds other than its yellow-flowered counterpart, Diamond Jubilee. Just think what you can do in the way of not only a hedge, but also a solid border or bed planting when you know that all of the plants will be of the same height!

A planting of Golden Jubilee in full bloom is a brilliant sight. There are so many flowers on each plant and they are so large and so bright.

Vietnam Service Medal

The United States Armed Forces Vietnam Service Medal may be awarded to individuals who have served in Vietnam and "designated contiguous waters, and air space thereover," since July 3, 1965.

Military personnel who have served in Vietnam before July 3, 1965, and are entitled to the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal, may choose the Vietnam Service Medal instead. However, no one may receive both medals for serving in Vietnam.

The medal itself is a gold disk, one and one-quarter inches in diameter. The front side shows a dragon behind a grove of bamboo trees over the inscription "Republic of Vietnam Service." The bamboo trees were taken from the president's flag of the Republic of Vietnam.

The reverse side of the disk shows a torch superimposed on a crossbow above the curved inscription "United States of America." The torch refers to the Statue of Liberty which is the symbol of the United States and of freedom. The crossbow is an ancient Vietnamese weapon. Together, the torch and crossbow symbolize the American aid to Vietnam.

Details pertaining to the length of time required in Vietnam may be found in Change #13 to AR 672-5-1, dated May 1961. (ANF)

Chickens and pictures have won prizes for two Missouri boys for their best-in-state 4-H projects, as judged by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The youths and their projects are J. H. Beard, 15, Kansas City, photography, and Dennis Brasher, 16, Bragg City, poultry.

Eastman Kodak Company has awarded Beard a $50 U.S. savings bond for his excellent progress.

Brasher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Brasher, translated his father's occupation into an award-winning project of his own. He cared for 300 hens of his own as well as his father's flock of 35,000. He gathers, grades and packages eggs and vaccinates and debeaks the birds.

Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc. awarded him a wrist watch.

Golden Globes

Golden Jubilee, a 1967 All-America Selections winner, has double, golden-yellow flowers from 3½ to 4½ inches in diameter, borne on uniform plants. A row looks like a fine hedge.

Giant golden-yellow flowers, fully double, measuring from 3½ to 4½ inches in diameter appear as golden globes on plants so bushy and compact that, with no clipping at all, they form a perfect hedge.

That's a description of Golden Jubilee, a first generation hybrid marigold, which is one of three All-America Selections award winners for 1967.

While the plants grow about 20 inches high, they spread only 13 inches wide, another characteristic which makes a row of them a natural hedge.

If, like most gardeners, you have grown marigolds of the Climax type, you will find that Golden Jubilee grows about a foot lower than any of the Climax' and is slightly deeper in color than Golden Climax. It also starts flowering earlier and produces more blooms.

But the superior habit of growth is what really makes Golden Jubilee different from marigolds other than its yellow-flowered counterpart, Diamond Jubilee. Just think what you can do in the way of not only a hedge, but also a solid border or bed planting when you know that all of the plants will be of the same height!

A planting of Golden Jubilee in full bloom is a brilliant sight. There are so many flowers on each plant and they are so large and so bright.

Vietnam Service Medal

The United States Armed Forces Vietnam Service Medal may be awarded to individuals who have served in Vietnam and "designated contiguous waters, and air space thereover," since July 3, 1965.

Military personnel who have served in Vietnam before July 3, 1965, and are entitled to the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal, may choose the Vietnam Service Medal instead. However, no one may receive both medals for serving in Vietnam.

The medal itself is a gold disk, one and one-quarter inches in diameter. The front side shows a dragon behind a grove of bamboo trees over the inscription "Republic of Vietnam Service." The bamboo trees were taken from the president's flag of the Republic of Vietnam.

The reverse side of the disk shows a torch superimposed on a crossbow above the curved inscription "United States of America." The torch refers to the Statue of Liberty which is the symbol of the United States and of freedom. The crossbow is an ancient Vietnamese weapon. Together, the torch and crossbow symbolize the American aid to Vietnam.

Details pertaining to the length of time required in Vietnam may be found in Change #13 to AR 672-5-1, dated May 1961. (ANF)

GOV. WARREN E. HEARNES signs a proclamation designating April as FEDERAL LAND BANK MONTH in Missouri. Ralph E. Nowlan, president of The Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, observes the signing.

Proclamation

STATE OF MISSOURI

WHEREAS, the month of April, 1917, marked the beginning of operations of the Nation's twelve Federal Land Banks and the issuance of the first loans to farmers by Land Bank associations; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Land Banks and local associations provided the first nationwide means of making private investment capital available to the use of farmers for modernizing their facilities and increasing their productive capacity; and

WHEREAS, the farmers of Missouri and the allied service and supply industries related to agriculture in this state have shared in a half-century of progress, founded on the wise and constructive use of credit as an agricultural tool; and

WHEREAS, agricultural advancement through sound farm financing has been furthered by the innovations and leadership provided by the Federal Land Banks and Federal Land Bank associations; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Land Banks are dedicating their 50th Anniversary to honoring the farmers of Missouri and the United States for their achievements as "Providers of Plenty;"

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WARREN E. HEARNES, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MISSOURI, do hereby proclaim the month of April, 1967, as

and call upon all citizens to join with the Federal Land Banks and local Land Bank associations to pay just tribute to those engaged in our state's agriculture.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Missouri, in the City of Jefferson, this 27th day of February, 1967.

Club Opposes Turnpike Bill

ST. LOUIS - Senate bill 2, calling for establishment of a turnpike authority in Missouri, does not meet the qualifications for a toll road law as required by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his message to the 74th general assembly, according to the Automobile Club of Missouri.

In that address Jan. 4, 1967, the Governor said:

"I recommend to this general assembly that legislation be enacted to authorize the establishment of turnpikes and to place the economic burden of construction and maintenance directly upon those who use them and benefit by them."

In an appearance before the house roads and highways committee in Jefferson City, the Auto Club charged that: Senate bill 2, in its present form, does not fulfill those requirements because under the leasing provisions in this bill, gasoline tax and other highway user revenues paid by motorists who may never use a toll road, can be used to subsidize the toll facility."

The Auto Club said it recognizes the increasing highway needs in the state but added that there has been no evidence presented that toll roads are the best solution to current highway needs because no study has been made of alternatives to the toll road method.

Senate bill 170 provides for a state tax study commission to study all fiscal operations of the state. The Auto Club pointed out that this could include a study of methods of financing highway construction.

The AAA noted that Missouri maintains 32,000 miles of state highways, compared with only 16,000 in Illinois and 15,000 in New York. It was suggested by the Auto Club that a study should be made to determine why Missouri maintains such a disproportionately high amount of state highways on the lowest gasoline tax rate in the United States. In fact, the Auto Club called for a thorough study to be made of the entire highway structure before any precipitant action is taken to disturb the present Missouri highway system.

The provision in senate bill 2 that the Turnpike Authority can lease a toll road to the state highway commission constitutes a procedure whereby highway user funds can be used to pay principal and interest on toll road bonds. "This," said the Auto club, "is contrary to the intent of the Missouri Constitution. Under this arrangement, the turnpike authority is, in effect, being given authority to make highway user funds available to build toll roads anywhere in the state."

"It is a basic principle," said the Auto club, "that leases should be negotiated at arms length for the protection of the public. This is impossible under Senate Bill No. 2 because negotiations on such a lease would be fiction, since the Highway Commission would also comprise the turnpike authority, putting the Highway Commission in the position of being both landlord and tenant."

"There is no justification," charged the Auto club, "for a Turnpike Authority to be given the power to set speed limits 20 per cent higher than those existing on the free state highway system. Traffic cannot safely move at speeds 20 per cent higher on toll roads if those roadways are built to the same design standards as interstate highways which have a design speed of 70 miles per hour. The best evidence of this is found in statistics recently released by the International Bridge and Tunnel Association. According to their figures, the Kansas Turnpike, with an 80 mile-per-hour speed limit has a fatality rate of 9.7 persons killed per 100 million miles of travel, over 3 times greater than the national average of 2.8 for all turnpikes. Nor is there any justification for the provision permitting unlimited vehicle weights and dimensions on a toll road."

Police Probe Interstate Theft Ring

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The recovery of vehicles and $7,500 worth of farm chemical in the Bootheel during the past two weeks has led to a probe by state and federal law authorities into the possibility of an area link with an interstate theft ring which originated in Texas.

According to Sgt. Jeff M. Hickman of Hayti, who is representing the State Highway Patrol in the investigation, informers in Texas spurred a Ranger, a Deputy Sheriff and a detective from the Dallas, Tex., area to come to Pemiscot County about two weeks ago to search for cars and other items stolen in several counties in Texas.

As of this date Sergeant Hickmen states, the state and federal agents have recovered a 1966 Ford, three semi-trailers, three pick-up trucks which are 1965 and 1966 motel Chevrolets and the $7,500 worth of Treflan, all of which have definitely been identified as part of the stolen Texas loot.

Questioned as to who had the stolen items in their possession, Sgt. Hickman replied that some of the recovered goods were found abandoned and the remainder were in the hands of individuals who willingly surrendered them, reporting that they had bought them from persons and were not aware that they had stolen goods.

Most of the items, except for a portion of the chemical were recovered in and around Caruthersville in Pemiscot County. Some of the chemical was located in the possession of a Dunklin county man, according to Captain E. F. Dampf of the headquarters office of the Highway Patrol at Poplar Bluff.

A great many rumors are being circulated all over the Bootheel about prominent individuals being under investigation or already in custody and charged with conspiracy with the interstate theft ring.

A newsman checked reliable sources, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation Office in St. Louis, and could find no evidence that any person had been charged, taken into custody or indicated in connection with this stolen property.

The case is under investigation and, as stated by Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Sharon J. Pate, "You can be sure that the FBI will work slowly but surely. When they are ready to pull the net, which may not be for another month or so, if any persons in this area are implicated, they'll be caught."

Hart Heads M.U. Section

COLUMBIA -- Dr. William M. Hart has been appointed professor of surgery and head of the section of ophthalmology at the University of Missouri medical center. He assumed duties March 1, succeeding Dr. Carl H. Ide, who has been acting chief of the section.

Dr. Hart came from Bethesda, Md., where he had been director of the Eye Research Foundation of Bethesda, a private institution affiliated with the University of Maryland. He will continue on the board of trustees of the foundation.

He has also served as a research consultant to the federal aviation agency; a member of the committee on vision, National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council; and a member of the program-project committee of the National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

A native of St. Clair county, Dr. Hart received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau; and Master of Science degree from the University of Iowa; a Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Minnesota as a Mayo Foundation Fellow in physiology; and his Doctor of Medicine degree at Temple University, Philadelphia.

He remained at Temple as a research associate professor of ophthalmology from 1949 to 1952 and then served a year as chief of the branch of ophthalmology at the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

Between 1954 and 1964 he was clinical associate professor of ophthalmology and a special lecturer in physiology at Georgetown University while he was in private practice.

Dr. Hart was named a diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology in 1952. He is also a member of a number of medical societies and is listed in Who's Who in America, American Men of Medicine, Leaders in American Science, and American Men of Science.

Dr. and Mrs. Hart have four children, two married daughters, a son in medical school at the University of Maryland, and a daughter attending Grinnell College.

Black Walnut Hulls Pack Sedative Ability

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- Ozark fishermen have known for years what scientists are just now discovering: a substance found in the green hulls of black walnuts has immobilizing qualities.

For generations, crafty Missouri anglers have put bags of the walnut hulls in streams and ponds to stun temporarily the fish, which then float to the top and are easily caught. Now pharmacologists at the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia have succeeded in isolating the element that acts as a mild sedative.

Umesh C. Bhargava, an Indian student who is a Doctor of Philosophy candidate, continued investigations begun some time ago by the chairman of the department of pharmacology, Dr. B. A. Westfall. After considerable study, Bhargava was able to identify the mystery element. It is ellagic acid, which is common to many plants. It has been found, also, in hulls of cashew nuts, in guava fruit, beer, cognac spirits, and in small amounts in some French and German wines.

Bhargava has found that research animals react to the compound much as the fish do to the walnut hulls. When injected into mice, the ellagic acid produces sedation and musuclar incoordination. In albino rats it causes a fall in blood pressure with accompanying temporary increases then decreases in heart rate and respiration, from which the animals soon recover. Ellagic acid also causes a mild analgesia and, given along with pentobarbital, increases sleeping time.

The reactions suggest possible commercial use of the new compound in the production of tranquilizers, Bhargava said.

He has been invited to present a paper on his findings at an April meeting of the Federation of American Socieites for Experimental Biology. Member societies include the American Physiological Society, American Society of Biological Chemists, American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, American Society for Experimental Pathology, American Institute of Nutrition, and American Association of Immunologists.

Senior Citizens Meet at NSC

One of the quilts that they have finished was given to a family who lost all their belongings when their house burned.

Two days were spent making and mending clothes to be given to a needy family in the area.

Senior citizens come to the center each week. This week 12 women came, last week 21. The numbers vary according to the weather but now that spring is here it is expected that more women will come out each week.

Along with the work the women do, they have a social hour with refreshments and visiting.

Senior citizen women in the Morehouse, Matthews, and Canalou communities may participate in the Tuesday afternoon sessions.

Cape Federal Building Now Being Razed

CAPE GIRARDEAU, -- Demolition has started on the 57-year-old federal building here at the downtown corner of Fountain and Broadway.

The site will be graded down to street level and a new federal courthouse and office building will be erected on the same site.

Furnishings in the building were distributed among various government agencies.

Under way is the dismantling of salvageable materials, including iron railings on the staircase and the removal of marble paneling in the lobby and elsewhere in the structure.

The solid stone walls will be knocked down by a steel headache ball when the interior work is completed, demolition company workers said.

It was estimated it will take about 30 days to raze the old structure.

U. S. district court will be held in the court of common pleas until the new building is completed.

This is impossible under Senate Bill No. 2 because negotiations on such a lease would be fiction, since the Highway Commission would also comprise the turnpike authority, putting the Highway Commission in the position of being both landlord and tenant."

"There is no justification," charged the Auto club, "for a Turnpike Authority to be given the power to set speed limits 20 per cent higher than those existing on the free state highway system. Traffic cannot safely move at speeds 20 per cent higher on toll roads if those roadways are built to the same design standards as interstate highways which have a design speed of 70 miles per hour. The best evidence of this is found in statistics recently released by the International Bridge and Tunnel Association. According to their figures, the Kansas Turnpike, with an 80 mile-per-hour speed limit has a fatality rate of 9.7 persons killed per 100 million miles of travel, over 3 times greater than the national average of 2.8 for all turnpikes. Nor is there any justification for the provision permitting unlimited vehicle weights and dimensions on a toll road."

Police Probe Interstate Theft Ring

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The recovery of vehicles and $7,500 worth of farm chemical in the Bootheel during the past two weeks has led to a probe by state and federal law authorities into the possibility of an area link with an interstate theft ring which originated in Texas.

According to Sgt. Jeff M. Hickman of Hayti, who is representing the State Highway Patrol in the investigation, informers in Texas spurred a Ranger, a Deputy Sheriff and a detective from the Dallas, Tex., area to come to Pemiscot County about two weeks ago to search for cars and other items stolen in several counties in Texas.

As of this date Sergeant Hickmen states, the state and federal agents have recovered a 1966 Ford, three semi-trailers, three pick-up trucks which are 1965 and 1966 motel Chevrolets and the $7,500 worth of Treflan, all of which have definitely been identified as part of the stolen Texas loot.

Questioned as to who had the stolen items in their possession, Sgt. Hickman replied that some of the recovered goods were found abandoned and the remainder were in the hands of individuals who willingly surrendered them, reporting that they had bought them from persons and were not aware that they had stolen goods.

Most of the items, except for a portion of the chemical were recovered in and around Caruthersville in Pemiscot County. Some of the chemical was located in the possession of a Dunklin county man, according to Captain E. F. Dampf of the headquarters office of the Highway Patrol at Poplar Bluff.

A great many rumors are being circulated all over the Bootheel about prominent individuals being under investigation or already in custody and charged with conspiracy with the interstate theft ring.

A newsman checked reliable sources, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation Office in St. Louis, and could find no evidence that any person had been charged, taken into custody or indicated in connection with this stolen property.

The case is under investigation and, as stated by Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Sharon J. Pate, "You can be sure that the FBI will work slowly but surely. When they are ready to pull the net, which may not be for another month or so, if any persons in this area are implicated, they'll be caught."

Hart Heads M.U. Section

COLUMBIA -- Dr. William M. Hart has been appointed professor of surgery and head of the section of ophthalmology at the University of Missouri medical center. He assumed duties March 1, succeeding Dr. Carl H. Ide, who has been acting chief of the section.

Dr. Hart came from Bethesda, Md., where he had been director of the Eye Research Foundation of Bethesda, a private institution affiliated with the University of Maryland. He will continue on the board of trustees of the foundation.

He has also served as a research consultant to the federal aviation agency; a member of the committee on vision, National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council; and a member of the program-project committee of the National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

A native of St. Clair county, Dr. Hart received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau; and Master of Science degree from the University of Iowa; a Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Minnesota as a Mayo Foundation Fellow in physiology; and his Doctor of Medicine degree at Temple University, Philadelphia.

He remained at Temple as a research associate professor of ophthalmology from 1949 to 1952 and then served a year as chief of the branch of ophthalmology at the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

Between 1954 and 1964 he was clinical associate professor of ophthalmology and a special lecturer in physiology at Georgetown University while he was in private practice.

Dr. Hart was named a diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology in 1952. He is also a member of a number of medical societies and is listed in Who's Who in America, American Men of Medicine, Leaders in American Science, and American Men of Science.

Dr. and Mrs. Hart have four children, two married daughters, a son in medical school at the University of Maryland, and a daughter attending Grinnell College.

Black Walnut Hulls Pack Sedative Ability

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- Ozark fishermen have known for years what scientists are just now discovering: a substance found in the green hulls of black walnuts has immobilizing qualities.

For generations, crafty Missouri anglers have put bags of the walnut hulls in streams and ponds to stun temporarily the fish, which then float to the top and are easily caught. Now pharmacologists at the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia have succeeded in isolating the element that acts as a mild sedative.

Umesh C. Bhargava, an Indian student who is a Doctor of Philosophy candidate, continued investigations begun some time ago by the chairman of the department of pharmacology, Dr. B. A. Westfall. After considerable study, Bhargava was able to identify the mystery element. It is ellagic acid, which is common to many plants. It has been found, also, in hulls of cashew nuts, in guava fruit, beer, cognac spirits, and in small amounts in some French and German wines.

Bhargava has found that research animals react to the compound much as the fish do to the walnut hulls. When injected into mice, the ellagic acid produces sedation and musucular incoordination. In albino rats it causes a fall in blood pressure with accompanying temporary increases then decreases in heart rate and respiration, from which the animals soon recover. Ellagic acid also causes a mild analgesia and, given along with pentobarbital, increases sleeping time.

The reactions suggest possible commercial use of the new compound in the production of tranquilizers, Bhargava said.

He has been invited to present a paper on his findings at an April meeting of the Federation of American Societes for Experimental Biology. Member societies include the American Physiological Society, American Society of Biological Chemists, American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, American Society for Experimental Pathology, American Institute of Nutrition, and American Association of Immunologists.

Senior Citizens Meet at NSC

One of the quilts that they have finished was given to a family who lost all their belongings when their house burned.

Two days were spent making and mending clothes to be given to a needy family in the area.

Senior citizens come to the center each week. This week 12 women came, last week 21. The numbers vary according to the weather but now that spring is here it is expected that more women will come out each week.

Along with the work the women do, they have a social hour with refreshments and visiting.

Senior citizen women in the Morehouse, Matthews, and Canalou communities may participate in the Tuesday afternoon sessions.

Cape Federal Building Now Being Razed

CAPE GIRARDEAU, -- Demolition has started on the 57-year-old federal building here at the downtown corner of Fountain and Broadway.

The site will be graded down to street level and a new federal courthouse and office building will be erected on the same site.

Furnishings in the building were distributed among various government agencies.

Under way is the dismantling of salvageable materials, including iron railings on the staircase and the removal of marble paneling in the lobby and elsewhere in the structure.

The solid stone walls will be knocked down by a steel headache ball when the interior work is completed, demolition company workers said.

It was estimated it will take about 30 days to raze the old structure.

U. S. district court will be held in the court of common pleas until the new building is completed.

Kim was born in Sikeston and attended the First Methodist Kindergarten school and the Lee Hunter school through the second grade.

July 25 Cutoff On Home Loans

ST. LOUIS -- Only about four months remain for veterans of World War II to use their guarantee privileges for a loan to purchase a home, farm or for business purposes, P. S. Pollock, manager, Veterans Administration regional office, pointed out today.

Present statutes provide that a cutoff date for World War II veterans on July 25. This deadline is the result of congressional action which extended the final date of eligibility several times.

The cutoff will not affect veterans of the Korean conflict or veterans who have served since Jan. 31, 1955, Pollock pointed out. These veterans are covered by different legislation.

In Missouri 140,000 loans have been guaranteed by the Veterans Administration to veterans since the beginning of the program following World War II. One out of every five homes constructed in the United States following World War II was with VA guarantee.

The Veterans Administration will guarantee up to 60 per cent of the purchase price of a home for a veteran with limitation as to the total purchase price. Pollock urged veterans planning to purchase a home to make their selection as soon as possible, avoiding the last minute rush for certification.

CBS to Go Into Movie Production

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The talk of the film industry this week was the announcement by the Columbia Broadcasting System that it is going into the business of making movies for theaters.

"This makes it a whole new ball game," said a movie bigwig in assessing the significanceof the CBS move.

The announcement was made by John A. Schneider, president of the CBS broadcast group.

The import of this development is being discussed in film industry circles.

At least three elements have emerged:

1. CBS is taking firm action to assure supply of feature movies for its network programming. And if CBS does so, NBC and ABC may well follow suit.

The smash success of "The Bridge On The River Kwai" this season proved the value of feature movies in prime time TV. All three networks have become increasingly concerned about the supply of features, which will be expended within three years. At that time the networks will have to start replaying films that have already appeared on TV — or else supply new ones.

2. The major studios will now be faced with direct competition by the television industry.

Until now, the Hollywood companies have thrived by using television to bolster their finances; sales of TV series and old movies have saved the studios from insolvency.

For the first time, the old-line companies are faced with direct competition for theatrical bookings. Is the CBS move at variance with antitrust laws? The film companies may look into this. But CBS will undoubtedly seek to protect itself on that score.

3. Movie theaters will welcome the CBS development.

For the past decade the central theme of theater conventions has been: "We need more product." Exhibitors have claimed that the film producers do not supply enough new features to maintain a healthy industry.

The number of CBS features is expected to be no more than 10 per year at the beginning.

Kiwanis Told of School Bonds

MOREHOUSE -- The program given the Kiwanis club Thursday was on the proposed school bond issue and election April 4.

Supt. of Schools Thad Ryan emphasized the fact that the proposed tax rate for the coming year will be $3 per $100 assessed valuation compared with this year's rate of $2.95.

This increase will qualify the school for second level equalization money from the state. This would amount to approximately $5,000.

The club discussed the possibility of having a pancake day.

Matthews Girl Scouts Have Potluck Supper

MATTHEWS -- The Girl Scout troops observed Girl Scout Week with a potluck supper held in the school cafeteria. Each troop contributed to the entertainment on the program. The senior scouts served as narrators; the cadets conducted the flag ceremony; the juniors did a choral reading; and the brownies sang the Girl Scout song. Guests were parents, friends and Miss Ilena Aslin, executive director of the Cotton Bowl Council. A yellow and green color scheme was used in the room table and stage decorations. About 125 persons attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Settles and daughter, Kathy, returned recently from a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones, and daughter, Lisa, in Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Carl Romines is reported to be convalescing satisfactorily from surgery on her feet which she underwent at Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Richard Gaines is serving as clerk in the postoffice during her absence.

Pvt. Ricky Huls, who is in training with the armed forces at Camp Polk, La., had the misfortune of breaking a leg this month. His father, Lowell Huls, and George Gaines went to Camp Polk to accompany him home to remain during his convalessence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rogers have received word that their son, Pvt. William Rogers, who was in training at Fort Dix, N.J., has been transferred to Fort Campbell, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester King and son, Joe Lynn, and daughter, Brenda, attended funeral services for Mrs. King's grandfather, Henry McColl, at Morrilton. McCool was with his daughter, Mrs. Beryl Franklin in Atchison, Kan. at the time of his death.

The Christian Women's Fellowship met at the church Wednesday evening with Mrs. C. G. Scott Jr., in charge of the program. The group had a bean supper at the church on Saturday, March 18.

Matthews R-5 schools were in session Saturday, March 11, to make up for Tuesday, March 7, when school was not in session because of snow. Schools were dismissed on March 16 and 17 for the Southeast Missouri district teachers meeting at Cape Girardeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Stanley of Caruthersville were recent guests of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Stanley.

The Matthews Community Club met at the home of Mrs. B. B. Conrad on Thursday evening. "Let's Understand Color and Design" was the topic for the program presented by Mrs. Marcus Koch and Mrs. D. K. Lape.

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford L. Nelson of St. Paul, Minn., spent a week visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Conrad and son, Charles. Both are employed at the University of Minnesota where he is an associate professor in College of Agriculture and she is a textiles research laboratory technician in the School of Home Economics.

Jury Says Drug Use Limited

COLUMBIA (AP) - The Boone County grand jury reported Thursday it had found no evidence of widespread use of marijuana here.

The report, submitted to Circuit Judge John M. Cave, severely criticized two publications on the University of Missouri campus for "irresponsible articles" indicating widespread use of drugs by students in Columbia.

Three young people, students or former students at M. U. have been arrested on narcotics charges of possession or sale of marijuana since last November, and the jury said "unquestionably other arrests will follow."

But the jury's report concluded that the use of marijuana in the Boone County area "is limited to a very minute segment of our population."

The jury said part of its investigation was based on articles in the Maneater and the Columbia Missourian, indicating widespread use of marijuana in Boone County.

The Maneater is a weekly campus newspaper produced by M. U. students. The Missourian is a daily newspaper published by the university school of journalism as a laboratory project for journalism students and faculty members. It is circulated both on and off the campus.

The jury reported it had questioned 42 persons in its investigation. Among them, the report said, were law enforcement authors of news articles, editors and "individuals commonly referred to as weirdoes and creeps."

The report said investigation showed that reports in the Columbia Missourian of laxity in enforcing narcotics laws here were unfounded.

"Several local news articles on the sale and use of marijuana were inaccurate and have proved to be more fiction than fact-a said commentary indeed for a community which boasts of the outstanding journalism school in the United States," the report said.

Jury Says Drug Use Limited

COLUMBIA (AP) - The Boone County grand jury reported Thursday it had found no evidence of widespread use of marijuana here.

The report, submitted to Circuit Judge John M. Cave, severely criticized two publications on the University of Missouri campus for "irresponsible articles" indicating widespread use of drugs by students in Columbia.

Three young people, students or former students at M. U. have been arrested on narcotics charges of possession or sale of marijuana since last November, and the jury said "unquestionably other arrests will follow."

But the jury's report concluded that the use of marijuana in the Boone County area "is limited to a very minute segment of our population."

The jury said part of its investigation was based on articles in the Maneater and the Columbia Missourian, indicating widespread use of marijuana in Boone County.

The Maneater is a weekly campus newspaper produced by M. U. students. The Missourian is a daily newspaper published by the university school of journalism as a laboratory project for journalism students and faculty members. It is circulated both on and off the campus.

The jury reported it had questioned 42 persons in its investigation. Among them, the report said, were law enforcement authors of news articles, editors and "individuals commonly referred to as weirdoes and creeps."

The report said investigation showed that reports in the Columbia Missourian of laxity in enforcing narcotics laws here were unfounded.

"Several local news articles on the sale and use of marijuana were inaccurate and have proved to be more fiction than fact-a said commentary indeed for a community which boasts of the outstanding journalism school in the United States," the report said.

Conference at School for Blind

ST. LOUIS - A pre-school conference for parents of visually handicapped children who will be considered for enrollment in September will be held at the Missouri School for the Blind April 24 and 25. Children must be five years or older by Oct. 1 to be considered for enrollment.

Parents and their visually handicapped children are invited to spend the two days to get acquainted with the school's staff and education program. School will be in session, and classes may be observed. Examinations of eye conditions, health, speech and hearing will be given, and the school readiness of each child will be evaluated.

Registration should be in advance. There is no charge for the conference, and guests from out of town may stay overnight at the school. Meals will also be provided at the school.

For more information parents or interested persons may write or call the Missouri School for the Blind, 3815 Magnolia, St. Louis, Mo. Telephone PR 6-4320.

HOFFA AND POWELL

The hour finally arrived, and Jimmy Hoffa -- undisputed ruler of the Teamsters -- went to jail. In the same period, Adam Clayton Powell, the Congressman from Harlem and playbody of the Bahamas, was denied a seat in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Both events unquestionably proved a comfort to millions of good citizens who have been deeply dismayed at the offenses committed by Hoffa and Powell. The two men long seemed to be above the law or any form of corrective action. For three years, Jimmy Hoffa stalled the processes of justice. He used every conceivable delaying tactic to prevent paying his debt to society. As for Powell, he mocked the law, the Congress and the people of the United States. It is crystal clear that he acted on the assumption that he could not be brought to account, that he was a one-man privileged sanctuary.

For the time being, both men have received a jolt. Hoffa is behind bars. The only people he could hope to personally organize are his fellow convicts in federal prison. Adam Clayton Powell may act with his usual cockiness, but he no longer occupies a seat of power on Capitol Hill. Americans can be thankful that he is no longer numbered among the lawmakers.

But the situation of both offenders against society is such that the public can't be entirely happy. Hoffa is no longer in the head office of the Teamsters Union, but he still exerts power from a prison cell. The Teamsters evidence no shame at Hoffa's conviction. Nor is there any evidence that Hoffa-style rule of a union is about to disappear. It is not only Hoffa the man who needs to be removed from circulation but the Hoffa philosophy of unionsim. The unions have yet to experience real democracy. Union members still are in the trip of powerful and ruthless union bosses who are true overlords.

Powell's will also continues to be manifested in his home district. James Meredith's hasty retirement from the field against Powell is evidence of the remaining power of the preacher-politician-playboy. No one may ever know the extent of the pressures -- even threats -- directed against Meredith when he sought to run against Powell. As one writer has said, Harlem will have a "Russian election" and Powell will be re-elected. The misguided people of his district, who are infatuated with his contempt of the public interest, seem certain to return him to Washington. Again, Congress will be duty bound to refuse to let him be seated. Powell's presence in Congress would be a stain on that body.

Hoffa and Powell represent what the ancients referred to as "kakistocracy," or rule by the worst. In the waning days of the Roman Republic, ruthless opportunists, catering to the mobs, gained enormous power. They helped bring to an end one of the finest governments in history. Hoffa and Powell likewise represent pernicious influences in American life. They stand for things which are utterly incompatible with free republican government. Demagogy is a disease of free states, and cannot be tolerated. As in the case of many diseases, a permanet cure involves as much reeducation as medication.

For Hoffa, the courts have provided the right medicine. The Congress also furnished the needed medicine in Powell's case. But continuing and accelerated education of the public is needed to make the American people aware of the political and social evils that Hoffa and Powell stand for.

Nations fall not so much because of a lack of material means but because of a breakdown of moral standards. An excessive tolerance toward destructive elements and figures in a nation can ruin a republic as effectively as atomic bombs. The arrogant, above-the-law dictator -- whether he be in a union office or a pulpit and political office -- is a threat to the country and to the majesty of our government of law. Such a figure cannot be allowed to return to a position of authority.

Hoffa in jail and Powell out of power is in the interest of all the people of the United States, including both the Teamster members and the residents of Harlem.

Savings Bond Sales Strong

Sales of U. S. savings bonds continued strong through February, according to Donald R. Bohannon, savings bonds chairman, in Scott county. He said sales for February amounted to $31,687, bringing the combined sales for January and February to $65,805 and the county quota to 10.1 per cent.

John L. Wilson, state chairman, reports total sales of Series E and H Bonds in Missouri during February amounted to $13,919,293. Total sales in Missouri for the first two months of 1967 amounted to $27,501,632, he said.

Nationally, Wilson said, sales for February amounted to $426,000,000. "This represents an increase of 23 per cent over a year ago and was the highest for any February since 1960," he said.

Not only are sales of U. S. Savings Bonds up all around the country, but people seem to be holding on to their bonds more than ever, according to the state chairman. There are now outstanding in unredeemed Savings Bonds a total of $50,399,000,000, which is a billion dollars more than was outstanding a year ago, he said.

Sales of Savings Bonds in other area counties were:

Bollinger -- $2,981 last month; $4,893 this year; 9.6 per cent of quota.

Butler -- $20,306 last month; $43,193 this year; 10.2 per cent of quota.

Cape Girardeau -$73,102 last month; $122,818 this year; 16.5 per cent of quota.

Dunklin -- $6,637 last month; $26,737 this year; 4.6 per cent of quota.

Mississippi -- $2,681 last month; $6,149 this year; 2 per cent of quota.

New Madrid -- $1,762 last month; $10,537 this year; 3.1 per cent of quota.

Pemiscot -- $7,462 last month; $29,193 this year; 7.3 per cent of quota.

Stoddard -- $14,050 last month; $24,600 this year; 7.1 per cent of quota.

RETAIL RECRUITERS LOOK FOR MORE COLLEGE GRADS

NEW YORK -- The nation's retailers will be competing more actively than ever for top - caliber college graduates in 1967, says the personnel director of one of the world's largest retail chains.

Robert W. Young, vice president -- personnel for the F. W. Woolworth Co., said that continued expansion of the nation's economy and increased complexity of retailing are major factors that will stimulate recruiting drives on the nation's campuses this year.

"A recent study of the needs by business and industry shows that this year they seek to sharply increase their hiring from the 1967 graduating classes, with the increases in some categories running as high as 108 per cent over 1966," Mr. Young reported.

A high percentage of the companies will be contacting more schools than they did in the past in the hope of meeting their needs, he added.

Population increases and rising economic levels make imperative an expansion in retailing, and that requires additions to the management team, Mr. Young said.

He added that Woolworth recruiting teams last year visited 309 colleges and universities to take with graduating students about career opportunities in retailing. As a result of these visits, 600 college graduates joined Woolworth's executive training program, which now totals 2700 trainees.

"Although it once was an intuitive art, the retailing businesses today is automated and computerized and requires precise long - range projections and scientifically accurate research," the Woolworth executive explained.

"Modern management techniques are essential. Retailing is becoming a complex science, and only the best - trained and most alert managements will succeed in maintaining their competitive positions."

Mr. Young said retailing offers career opportunities to college graduates in accounting, real estate, construction and other specialized fields in addition to merchandising.

"And the compensation, pensions and other fringe benefits offered to men in these careers are equal to or better than those received by men at a similar level in fields other than retailing."

Commenting on Woolworth's historic policy of promoting from within the company, he said this policy and the opportunity for managers to share in company net profits are the best means of creating a successful team.

Woolworth, he said, finds that employee turnover among college graduates is very low, only six per cent, compared to about 19 per cent for non - college people.

Helping the Poor

I am in sympathy with the outspoken caseworker who was dismissed by the Missouri Division of Welfare for his attempts to publicize the inadequacies of our state's public assistance programs.

The grants are pitifully low. Eligibility requirements are archaic, rigid and punitive. For example, residence requirements date back to the Elizabethan Poor Laws of the early 1600s and were set up to keep the poor from leaving their ghettos.

However, the Missouri Division of Welfare is not to blame. This agency is merely carrying out those policies set by the Legislature and the citizens of Missouri. I wonder if Missourians realize that part of their federal income tax helps to support and rehabilitate the poor in those states with more liberal laws and public assistance grants.

"THE ROBIN"

When the robin sings his carols
We know that spring is on its way
And we see the pretty Crocus
Opening up at break of day.

Tho the days be still quite chilly
The robin doesn't seem to mind
As he hunts for seed and berries
Waiting for the summertime.

He is singing Oh so sweetly
As he builds so high his nest
In the tree top near my window
Never stopping once to rest.

When the farmer plows the furrows
You will see him hop along
Looking for some worms for dinner
Singing all the while his song.

I'm so glad that I am living
Now that spring is here again
As the earth seems to awaken
To the robins sweet refrain.

Soviets Seek Flu Cure

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists are setting up an institute in Leningrad that will work on improving methods of preventing and curing influenza, the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda says.

The newspaper said the institute would attempt to develop vaccines against flu and would cooperate with scientists in the same field throughout the world.

When science finishes getting man up to the moon, maybe it can have another try at getting pigeons down from public buildings. Changing Times

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Cape Man Heads Group

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- J. Hugh Logan, Cape Girardeau city councilman, was elected the first president of district 12 of the Missouri Municipal League at an organizational meeting held Thursday.

To serve with him in the year ahead are the vice president, Robert Riley, mayor of New Madrid, and the secretary, Woodrow Ball, councilman from Flat River.

All were elected by acclamation by the 75 municipal officials in attendance from cities in the 15 counties of southeast Missouri comprising the district.

As one of the items of business following organization, the district went on record as opposing state house bill 166 dealing with collective bargaining pending in the Legislature.

The resolution was submitted by Mayor Willis Conner of Dexter and was seconded by Paul Baumgardner, assistant to the mayor of Poplar Bluff There were no dissenting votes.

One of the three speakers during the program had outlined the bill to the group.

J. T. Bell, executive director of the Missouri Municipal League, said the original bill on collective bargaining had passed the Legislature two years ago. It put into law that cities may bargain collectively with unions.

If the bill now before the Legislature is passed, it will make collective bargaining between cities and unions mandatory, he stated.

This could lead to some troublesome times for some cities and their officials, Mr. Bell pointed out. The bill was heard in the Senate March 14 and is now on the third reading calendar.

Bell said the bill had passed the House heavily and that the Municipal League hasn't been able to do much about slowing it down.

After the resolution was passed opposing the bill, members of the organization were urged to contact their senators immediately to tell them of their views on the issue.

It was brought out that the league is not against organized labor, but wants it kept out of municipal government.

Bell had also reviewed other municipal legislation which has been introduced during the session of the Legislature and reported on his status.

He listed as opposed or contrary to league policy House bills now on legislation on annexation, firemen's hours, daylight savings time, pensions - Social Security, vehicle license fees, revenue and general obligation bonds, elimination of personal property tax on house goods and autos.

Those proposed or supported by the league are House bills in legislation on anti - crime, Title 19-Social Security act, records and archives, reassessment, unsafe buildings, state sharing of police costs, fuel tax exemption, codes by reference, assessments, public property and the house joint resoltuion on revenue and general obligation bonds.

Other house bills of interest to the league were listed as those on municipal utilities and on warrants.

Some of the senate bills before the legislature of interest to the league are those on qualification for office, housing authority, development authority, licensing, lagers (pension legislation), unsafe buildings and street improvement costs, Bell said.

The opening speaker, John Poelker, St. Louis city comptroller and an authority on municipal finance, talked on shared taxes prior to the discussion of legislation.

He told the group that metropolitan problems and urban problems are the same. While there may be more people and more dollars involved in operating a larger city, the problems remains much the same as in smaller towns - particularly with the budgets, he said.

Poelker added that these common bonds hold municipal officials together and this was one of the reasons the Missouri Municipal League was setting up District XII. District and league meetings provide opportunities for cities to help each other and to transmit back to league officials the thoughts of various towns on specific issues.

He pointed out the state legislation sometimes needs to be educated in the problems of local governments. Poelker emphasized that school districts received state funds by being persistent and knocking on the door of the Legislature year after year. He urged municinal officials present to do the same thing.

"Keep knocking on the doors in Jefferson City-educate the governor now there to our problems and the ones who will be there in the future," Poelker urged the group. He said most cities could solve their problems with a little more money.

He then spoke on a few issues the league and its revenue and taxation committee has called to the attention of the legislature. Included are those on real estate taxation, state collected-locally shared taxes, real estate transfer and repeal of personal property tax on household goods and others.

On tax sharing, the municipal committee has recommended that provision be made for a local tax sharing plan whereby a portion of any increase in state income or sales tax be shared with local governments, the speaker said.

He also pointed out that nowhere on the state level is there a plan on the part of the state to pass down to local government any share the state may get from federal income tax.

Poelker stated cities should not support federal legislation which would allow Washington to pass unrestricted amounts to the state without some assurance that part of what the state receives will be handed on to local governments.

George Nickolaus, legal specialist in governmental affairs, University of Missouri, Columbia, spoke on municipal annexation laws and procedures. He is a past city attorney of Columbia and is presently a candidate for the office of mayor there.

Nickolaus said that in the last eight years, the subject of urban extension has become very popular. An attempt has been made through many universities to extend these ideas to municipalities, he stated.

He said annexation laws and procedures in Missouri are very complex and added that something needs to be done about the municipal code in this state. A standardized law should be worked out to apply to all municipalities, he emphasized.

The speaker gave to each person in attendance a copy of a book he has written called "Annexation in Missouri." He reviewed parts of the book with the audience and a question-answer period followed.

Picking up litter along Missouri highways cost $360,160 last year, the Highway Department reported today.

Chief Engineer M. J. Snider, in announcing the figures, urged all highway travelers to help cut down on this unnecessary use of highway funds by not throwing litter out of their cars. The total cost was for cleaning right of way along the approximate 32,000 miles of the state highway system.

"Throwing this litter along the highways not only drains away funds sorely needed for construc'ive purposes," said Snider. "It also mars our state's scenic beauty. And it creates a potential danger for the highway traveler and our maintenancemen as well as possible damage to equipment."

Litter pickup costs by Department districts ranged from $13,014 in District 2 at Macon to $81,726 in District 7 at Joplin.

Costs in other districts were: District 1, St. Joseph, $15,912; District 3, Hannibal, $18,886; District 4, Kansas City, $42,720; District 5, Jefferson City, $24,667; District 6, Kirkwood, $73,578; District 8, Springfield, $32,413; District 9, Willow Springs, $15,476; and District 10, Sikeston, $41,768.

Uplift Interests Students

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Eighty freshmen at Harvey Mudd College have petitioned the engineering department to let them undertake the design and development of a better brassiere.

Proposed Project Uplift was outlined by David De Ford, 18, as follows:

"It could be approached like a bridge. There are stresses and strains to be considered, and the frequency of collapses."

GOVERNORS FOR RIGHT TO WORK

HAYDON BURNS, Governor of Florida 1965 - 1969: "During my campaign, I stated that Florida's Right to Work law was good for both sides, labor and management, and should be left intact and untouched."

HOFFA AND POWELL

The hour finally arrived, and Jimmy Hoffa -- undisputed ruler of the Teamsters -- went to jail. In the same period, Adam Clayton Powell, the Congressman from Harlem and playbody of the Bahamas, was denied a seat in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Both events unquestionably proved a comfort to millions of good citizens who have been deeply dismayed at the offenses committed by Hoffa and Powell. The two men long seemed to be above the law or any form of corrective action. For three years, Jimmy Hoffa stalled the processes of justice. He used every conceivable delaying tactic to prevent paying his debt to society. As for Powell, he mocked the law, the Congress and the people of the United States. It is crystal clear that he acted on the assumption that he could not be brought to account, that he was a one-man privileged sanctuary.

For the time being, both men have received a jolt. Hoffa is behind bars. The only people he could hope to personally organize are his fellow convicts in federal prison. Adam Clayton Powell may act with his usual cockiness, but he no longer occupies a seat of power on Capitol Hill. Americans can be thankful that he is no longer numbered among the lawmakers.

But the situation of both offenders against society is such that the public can't be entirely happy. Hoffa is no longer in the head office of the Teamsters Union, but he still exerts power from a prison cell. The Teamsters evidence no shame at Hoffa's conviction. Nor is there any evidence that Hoffa-style rule of a union is about to disappear. It is not only Hoffa the man who needs to be removed from circulation but the Hoffa philosophy of unionsim. The unions have yet to experience real democracy. Union members still are in the trip of powerful and ruthless union bosses who are true overlords.

Powell's will also continues to be manifested in his home district. James Meredith's hasty retirement from the field against Powell is evidence of the remaining power of the preacher-politician-playboy. No one may ever know the extent of the pressures -- even threats -- directed against Meredith when he sought to run against Powell. As one writer has said, Harlem will have a "Russian election" and Powell will be re-elected. The misguided people of his district, who are infatuated with his contempt of the public interest, seem certain to return him to Washington. Again, Congress will be duty bound to refuse to let him be seated. Powell's presence in Congress would be a stain on that body.

Hoffa and Powell represent what the ancients referred to as "kakistocracy," or rule by the worst. In the waning days of the Roman Republic, ruthless opportunists, catering to the mobs, gained enormous power. They helped bring to an end one of the finest governments in history. Hoffa and Powell likewise represent pernicious influences in American life. They stand for things which are utterly incompatible with free republican government. Demagogy is a disease of free states, and cannot be tolerated. As in the case of many diseases, a permanet cure involves as much reeducation as medication.

For Hoffa, the courts have provided the right medicine. The Congress also furnished the needed medicine in Powell's case. But continuing and accelerated education of the public is needed to make the American people aware of the political and social evils that Hoffa and Powell stand for.

Nations fall not so much because of a lack of material means but because of a breakdown of moral standards. An excessive tolerance toward destructive elements and figures in a nation can ruin a republic as effectively as atomic bombs. The arrogant, above-the-law dictator -- whether he be in a union office or a pulpit and political office -- is a threat to the country and to the majesty of our government of law. Such a figure cannot be allowed to return to a position of authority.

Hoffa in jail and Powell out of power is in the interest of all the people of the United States, including both the Teamster members and the residents of Harlem.

Savings Bond Sales Strong

Sales of U. S. savings bonds continued strong through February, according to Donald R. Bohannon, savings bonds chairman, in Scott county. He said sales for February amounted to $31,687, bringing the combined sales for January and February to $65,805 and the county quota to 10.1 per cent.

John L. Wilson, state chairman, reports total sales of Series E and H Bonds in Missouri during February amounted to $13,919,293. Total sales in Missouri for the first two months of 1967 amounted to $27,501,632, he said.

Nationally, Wilson said, sales for February amounted to $426,000,000. "This represents an increase of 23 per cent over a year ago and was the highest for any February since 1960," he said.

Not only are sales of U. S. Savings Bonds up all around the country, but people seem to be holding on to their bonds more than ever, according to the state chairman. There are now outstanding in unredeemed Savings Bonds a total of $50,399,000,000, which is a billion dollars more than was outstanding a year ago, he said.

Sales of Savings Bonds in other area counties were:

Bollinger -- $2,981 last month; $4,893 this year; 9.6 per cent of quota.

Butler -- $20,306 last month; $43,193 this year; 10.2 per cent of quota.

Cape Girardeau -$73,102 last month; $122,818 this year; 16.5 per cent of quota.

Dunklin -- $6,637 last month; $26,737 this year; 4.6 per cent of quota.

Mississippi -- $2,681 last month; $6,149 this year; 2 per cent of quota.

New Madrid -- $1,762 last month; $10,537 this year; 3.1 per cent of quota.

Pemiscot -- $7,462 last month; $29,193 this year; 7.3 per cent of quota.

Stoddard -- $14,050 last month; $24,600 this year; 7.1 per cent of quota.

RETAIL RECRUITERS LOOK FOR MORE COLLEGE GRADS

NEW YORK -- The nation's retailers will be competing more actively than ever for top - caliber college graduates in 1967, says the personnel director of one of the world's largest retail chains.

Robert W. Young, vice president -- personnel for the F. W. Woolworth Co., said that continued expansion of the nation's economy and increased complexity of retailing are major factors that will stimulate recruiting drives on the nation's campuses this year.

"A recent study of the needs by business and industry shows that this year they seek to sharply increase their hiring from the 1967 graduating classes, with the increases in some categories running as high as 108 per cent over 1966," Mr. Young reported.

A high percentage of the companies will be contacting more schools than they did in the past in the hope of meeting their needs, he added.

Population increases and rising economic levels make imperative an expansion in retailing, and that requires additions to the management team, Mr. Young said.

He added that Woolworth recruiting teams last year visited 309 colleges and universities to take with graduating students about career opportunities in retailing. As a result of these visits, 600 college graduates joined Woolworth's executive training program, which now totals 2700 trainees.

"Although it once was an intuitive art, the retailing businesses today is automated and computerized and requires precise long - range projections and scientifically accurate research," the Woolworth executive explained.

"Modern management techniques are essential. Retailing is becoming a complex science, and only the best - trained and most alert managements will succeed in maintaining their competitive positions."

Mr. Young said retailing offers career opportunities to college graduates in accounting, real estate, construction and other specialized fields in addition to merchandising.

"And the compensation, pensions and other fringe benefits offered to men in these careers are equal to or better than those received by men at a similar level in fields other than retailing."

Commenting on Woolworth's historic policy of promoting from within the company, he said this policy and the opportunity for managers to share in company net profits are the best means of creating a successful team.

Woolworth, he said, finds that employee turnover among college graduates is very low, only six per cent, compared to about 19 per cent for non - college people.

Helping the Poor

I am in sympathy with the outspoken caseworker who was dismissed by the Missouri Division of Welfare for his attempts to publicize the inadequacies of our state's public assistance programs.

The grants are pitifully low. Eligibility requirements are archaic, rigid and punitive. For example, residence requirements date back to the Elizabethan Poor Laws of the early 1600s and were set up to keep the poor from leaving their ghettos.

However, the Missouri Division of Welfare is not to blame. This agency is merely carrying out those policies set by the Legislature and the citizens of Missouri. I wonder if Missourians realize that part of their federal income tax helps to support and rehabilitate the poor in those states with more liberal laws and public assistance grants.

"THE ROBIN"

When the robin sings his carols
We know that spring is on its way
And we see the pretty Crocus
Opening up at break of day.

Tho the days be still quite chilly
The robin doesn't seem to mind
As he hunts for seed and berries
Waiting for the summertime.

He is singing Oh so sweetly
As he builds so nigh his nest
In the tree top near my window
Never stopping once to rest.

When the farmer plows the furrows
You will see him hop along
Looking for some worms for dinner
Singing all the while his song.

I'm so glad that I am living
Now that spring is here again
As the earth seems to awaken

Soviets Seek Flu Cure

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists are setting up an institute in Leningrad that will work on improving methods of preventing and curing influenza, the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda says.

The newspaper said the institute would attempt to develop vaccines against flu and would cooperate with scientists in the same field throughout the world.

When science finishes getting man up to the moon, maybe it can have another try at getting pigeons down from public buildings. Changing Times

Cape Man Heads Group

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- J. Hugh Logan, Cape Girardeau city councilman, was elected the first president of district 12 of the Missouri Municipal League at an organizational meeting held Thursday.

To serve with him in the year ahead are the vice president, Robert Riley, mayor of New Madrid, and the secretary, Woodrow Ball, councilman from Flat River.

All were elected by acclamation by the 75 municipal officials in attendance from cities in the 15 counties of southeast Missouri comprising the district.

As one of the items of business following organization, the district went on record as opposing state house bill 166 dealing with collective bargaining pending in the Legislature.

The resolution was submitted by Mayor Willis Conner of Dexter and was seconded by Paul Baumgardner, assistant to the mayor of Poplar Bluff. There were no dissenting votes.

One of the three speakers during the program had outlined the bill to the group.

J. T. Bell, executive director of the Missouri Municipal League, said the original bill on collective bargaining had passed the Legislature two years ago. It put into law that cities may bargain collectively with unions.

If the bill now before the Legislature is passed, it will make collective bargaining between cities and unions mandatory, he stated.

This could lead to some troublesome times for some cities and their officials, Mr. Bell pointed out. The bill was heard in the Senate March 14 and is now on the third reading calendar.

Bell said the bill had passed the House heavily and that the Municipal League hasn't been able to do much about slowing it down.

After the resolution was passed opposing the bill, members of the organization were urged to contact their senators immediately to tell them of their views on the issue.

It was brought out that the league is not against organized labor, but wants it kept out of municipal government.

Bell had also reviewed other municipal legislation which has been introduced during the session of the Legislature and reported on his status.

He listed as opposed or contrary to league policy House bills now on legislation on annexation, firemen's hours, daylight savings time, pensions - Social Security, vehicle license fees, revenue and general obligation bonds, elimination of personal property tax on house goods and autos.

Those proposed or supported by the league are House bills in legislation on anti - crime, Title 19-Social Security act, records and archives, reassessment, unsafe buildings, state sharing of police costs, fuel tax exemption, codes by reference, assessments, public property and the house joint resoltuion on revenue and general obligation bonds.

Other house bills of interest to the league were listed as those on municipal utilities and on warrants.

Some of the senate bills before the legislature of interest to the league are those on qualification for office, housing authority, development authority, licensing, lagers (pension legislation), unsafe buildings and street improvement costs, Bell said.

The opening speaker, John Poelker, St. Louis city comptroller and an authority on municipal finance, talked on shared taxes prior to the discussion of legislation.

He told the group that metropolitan problems and urban problems are the same. While there may be more people and more dollars involved in operating a larger city, the problems remains much the same as in smaller towns - particularly with the budgets, he said.

Poelker added that these common bonds hold municipal officials together and this was one of the reasons the Missouri Municipal League was setting up District XII. District and league meetings provide opportunities for cities to help each other and to transmit back to league officials the thoughts of various towns on specific issues.

He pointed out the state legislation sometimes needs to be educated in the problems of local governments. Poelker emphasized that school districts received state funds by being persistent and knocking on the door of the Legislature year after year. He urged municipal officials present to do the same thing.

"Keep knocking on the doors in Jefferson City-educate the governor now there to our problems and the ones who will be there in the future," Poelker urged the group. He said most cities could solve their problems with a little more money.

He then spoke on a few issues the league and its revenue and taxation committee has called to the attention of the legislature. Included are those on real estate taxation, state collected-locally shared taxes, real estate transfer and repeal of personal property tax on household goods and others.

On tax sharing, the municipal committee has recommended that provision be made for a local tax sharing plan whereby a portion of any increase in state income or sales tax be shared with local governments, the speaker said.

He also pointed out that nowhere on the state level is there a plan on the part of the state to pass down to local government any share the state may get from federal income tax.

Poelker stated cities should not support federal legislation which would allow Washington to pass unrestricted amounts to the state without some assurance that part of what the state receives will be handed on to local governments.

George Nickolaus, legal specialist in governmental affairs, University of Missouri, Columbia, spoke on municipal annexation laws and procedures. He is a past city attorney of Columbia and is presently a candidate for the office of mayor there.

Nickolaus said that in the last eight years, the subject of urban extension has become very popular. An attempt has been made through many universities to extend these ideas to municipalities, he stated.

He said annexation laws and procedures in Missouri are very complex and added that something needs to be done about the municipal code in this state. A standardized law should be worked out to apply to all municipalities, he emphasized.

The speaker gave to each person in attendance a copy of a book he has written called "Annexation in Missouri." He reviewed parts of the book with the audience and a question-answer period followed.

Picking up litter along Missouri highways cost $360,160 last year, the Highway Department reported today.

Chief Engineer M. J. Snider, in announcing the figures, urged all highway travelers to help cut down on this unnecessary use of highway funds by not throwing litter out of their cars. The total cost was for cleaning right of way along the approximate 32,000 miles of the state highway system.

"Throwing this litter along the highways not only drains away funds sorely needed for constructive purposes," said Snider. "It also mars our state's scenic beauty. And it creates a potential danger for the highway traveler and our maintenancemen as well as possible damage to equipment."

Litter pickup costs by Department districts ranged from $13,014 in District 2 at Macon to $81,726 in District 7 at Joplin.

Costs in other districts were: District 1, St. Joseph, $15,912; District 3, Hannibal, $18,886; District 4, Kansas City, $42,720; District 5, Jefferson City, $24,667; District 6, Kirkwood, $73,578; District 8, Springfield, $32,413; District 9, Willow Springs, $15,476; and District 10, Sikeston, $41,768.

Uplift Interests Students

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Eighty freshmen at Harvey Mudd College have petitioned the engineering department to let them undertake the design and development of a better brassiere.

Proposed Project Uplift was outlined by David De Ford, 18, as follows:

"It could be approached like a bridge. There are stresses and strains to be considered, and the frequency of collapses."

GOVERNORS FOR RIGHT TO WORK

HAYDON BURNS, Governor of Florida 1965 -- 1969: "During my campaign, I stated that Florida's Right to Work law was good for both sides, labor and management, and should be left intact and untouched."

FT. BELVOIR, Virginia - Captain John R. Childress (center), son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Childress of 716 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, is presented the army commendation medal (first Oak Leaf cluster) for meritorious service as commanding officer of the engineer officer orientation unit, U.S. army engineer school, during the period 1 August 1966 to 8 March 1967. Making the presentation, in recent ceremonies at the school, is Colonel William M. Glasgow, Jr. (left), Assistant Commandant. The captain's wife, WAC Captain Margaret Childress, witnesses the presentation.

The citation stated that Captain Childress' "performance of duty has been characterized by extremely outstanding leadership, forceful perseverance, exceptional organizational ability and professional competence of the hightest caliber."

He is a 1956 graduate of Sikeston high school and earned his bachelor of science degree from the Missouri School of Mines in 1962. He entered the army in March of that year. Captain Childress is a member of the society of american military engineers.

There is still a little time left in which to apply for Nursing.

This program offers an excellent educational opportunity for students interested in the field of nursing. It is open to young men and women who have not yet reached their 24th birthday by June 15. The deadline for submitting applications is March 31.

If qualified, the plan provides the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Science in Nursing with the major portion of edcational expenses paid by the Department of the Army.

Young men and women selected spend their first two years attending the accredited college or university of their choice. The government pays tuition and certain other required fees directly to the college. The student receives pay and allowances at the end of each month from which room and board is paid by the individual.

At the end of the first two years, providing requirements have been met, the student will transfer to the University of Maryland School of Nursing. Academic study will be taken at the university and clinical training will be provided by Walter Reed Army hospital.

After graduation and satisfactory completion of the examination for State license for registered nurse, the candidate is appointed a second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps. All who complete the program are required to serve on active duty for a period of three years.

After commissioning, Army nurses have opportunities for travel and professional advancement. They serve in interesting, exciting, and sometimes, romantic locations all over the world. Of particular value in light of today's increased emphasis on higher education is the fact that Army Nurses are encouraged to pursue advance programs leading to graduate degrees in medically related fields.

The Army Nurse Corps is the oldest of all the military services for women. Established in 1901, the all-officer Corps consists entirely of registered professional nurses. The heritage of the Army Nurse Corps to serve the soldier and his family when and where most needed is being continued today by the nearly 4,500 nurses on active duty. Over 500 of these men and women are serving in Vietnam.

The present need for nurses is great . . .the future need is also great. If interested in nursing as a career, and if interested in scholarship assistance, young men and women are urged to contact their local Army Recruiter for help in filing their applications.

Remember, the deadline for filing this year is March 31.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC)- Marine Private Roger T. Butler, son of Arthur E. Butler of 522 Sikes, Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from the six-week Marine Aviation Operational Clerical Course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

The course included basic typing, introduction to aviation operations, the handling of flight records and reports, disbursing hazardous duty pay for people involved in actual flights, flight safety, airfield operations, and operations administration.

Upon completion of this course he is eligible for duties with the Aviation Branch of the Marine Corps.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: A most unusual thing occurred recently at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles. I believe it will interest you. A woman drove up in front of the hotel and left a box with the doorman. The note pasted to the box read as follows:

"Dear Sir: Here are the items my son took from the Acapulco Hilton. An embarrassed Mother."

Clipped to her note was a copy of your column which dealt with stealing from hotels under the guise of "souvenir collecting."

The contents of the box contained the following items which would have an approximate value of $300 to $400: 2 silver wine coolers, 6 silver finger bowls, 1 - 14 inch silver service tray, 3 bread and butter knives, 3 dinner knives, 3 forks, 3 teaspoons, 2 soup spoons, 1 ice tong, 4 drinking glasses and 2 face towels.

As a past president of the California State Hotel and Motel Association, I'm sure I speak for all hotel and motel managers when I say thank you, Ann Landers, for your help. The problem of hotel pilfering is reaching incredible proportions and running into millions of dollars annually.

The fact that at least one young man was influenced by your comments to the extent that he returned the stolen articles, is evidence that some people do listen to you. We are most grateful for your support. - Robert A. Groves, General Manager, Beverly Hilton.

Dear Mr. Groves: Thank you for your letter. When I was a guest at another well-known Beverly Hills hotel in December, someone stole my diamond earrings. If HIS mother would return them to the doorman MY day would be complete.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 19-year-old girl who has a problem I have never heard of before. I'll bet you have never heard of it either.

I have been looking for a job for six months. Almost every job that interests me requires that I take a physical examination. I just can't bring myself to undress in front of a doctor. I also can't bear the thought of having a doctor put his hands on me.

I realize this is crazy, but I don't know what to do about it. My mother can't understand why I have not landed a job in all this time and I can't tell her. Please help me. - PETRIFIED

Dear Pet: I assume you mean MALE doctor, so for heaven's sake go to a female doctor and get your physical so you can go to work. Then, use some of your salary for psychiatric help. If you expect to lead a normal life you must conquer your crippling inhibitions about your body.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits - the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex - Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE MIS-INTERPRETIVE DANCE

Norton's neighbor Sally had a figure that was curvier than a road map. Consequently, when she invited Norton and two other female neighbors into her apartment, for some beer and music, Norton didn't have to be asked twice. He bounced into the apartment like a beach ball. And, if he had eyes for Sally before the evening's festivities began, they nearly popped several hours and beers later when the two female neighbors dared Sally to do a strip-tease dance and she did it to perfection. So much so, in fact, that when Norton met her in the hallway two nights later, he couldn't help grabbing and kissing her.

Indignant, Sally had amorous Norton charged with assault and battery.

"It was as much her fault as it was mine," Norton argued in court. "After the other night, I thought she liked me. I thought I was one of her chosen people."

"I wouldn't choose him for dog-catcher," was Sally's answer. "Just because he happened to be present when I accepted a dare was no invitation for him to try to kiss me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Norton for misinterpreting Sally's dance?

This is how the judge ruled: Not guilty! The judge held that for a woman to perform a strip-tease dance before a lone man might imply consent to his later making advances toward her. If he misconstrues the implication, it's not necessarily his fault.

(Based upon a 1962 Alabama Court of Appeals Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER

If you purchase an item on time, such as an automobile or a television set, and fail to keep up the payments, the seller may not use force or any other conduct that might result in a breach of the peace to repossess it. If he does, he may find himself liable for damages.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Our Savior Christ Jesus. . . abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. (II Timothy 1:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Glorious Savior, we cannot understand the miracle of Thy resurrection, but we believe it with all our hearts and minds. We humble ourselves in Thy presence, and rejoice that Thou art alive forevermore. In Thy name we offer our thanksgiving and praise. Amen.

UNNATURAL SELECTION

A Madison Ave. advertising executive drove most of his staff wild by playing favorites among the junior partners. They heaved a sigh of relief when he went off for a long vacation at a retreat he maintained in Florida.

Then they began to receive messages addressed to "The Gang," with his standard message. "Having a wonderful time! Wish most of you were here."

The Guys in the Da Nang patrol

Now the time is near. Men in the chopper are counting the seconds.
17 of them. Dressed in green dungarees, soaked black in sweat.
No wisecracks. No horseplay.
Any minute now they'll hit the landing zone. And head for the jungle.
The chopper will lift. And they'll be alone.
They're the guys in the Da Nang patrol.

Ten thousand miles around the world, there are people who call them sucker.
People who hope they'll give up. Quit. Go AWOL.
But they won't.
They care. Enough so 9 out of 10 men in the outfit put cash into U.S. Savings Bonds.
To help pay the bill.

The next time they hit the landing zone, will you be with them?
Do you care enough to get in there and pitch the best way you can?
Make no mistake.
These guys in the Da Nang patrol will hit the landing zone anyway.

Armed Forces

FT. BELVOIR, Virginia - Captain John R. Childress (center), son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Childress of 716 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, is presented the army commendation medal (first Oak Leaf cluster) for meritorious service as commanding officer of the engineer officer orientation unit, U.S. army engineer school, during the period 1 August 1966 to 8 March 1967. Making the presentation, in recent ceremonies at the school, is Colonel William M. Glasgow, Jr. (left), Assistant Commandant. The captain's wife, WAC Captain Margaret Childress, witnesses the presentation.

The citation stated that Captain Childress' "performance of duty has been characterized by extremely outstanding leadership, forceful perseverance, exceptional organizational ability and professional competence of the hightest caliber."

He is a 1956 graduate of Sikeston high school and earned his bachelor of science degree from the Missouri School of Mines in 1962. He entered the army in March of that year. Captain Childress is a member of the society of american military engineers.

There is still a little time left in which to apply for Nursing.

This program offers an excellent educational opportunity for students interested in the field of nursing. It is open to young men and women who have not yet reached their 24th birthday by June 15. The deadline for submitting applications is March 31.

If qualified, the plan provides the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Science in Nursing with the major portion of edcational expenses paid by the Department of the Army.

Young men and women selected spend their first two years attending the accredited college or university of their choice. The government pays tuition and certain other required fees directly to the college. The student receives pay and allowances at the end of each month from which room and board is paid by the individual.

At the end of the first two years, providing requirements have been met, the student will transfer to the University of Maryland School of Nursing. Academic study will be taken at the university and clinical training will be provided by Walter Reed Army hospital.

After graduation and satisfactory completion of the examination for State license for registered nurse, the candidate is appointed a second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps. All who complete the program are required to serve on active duty for a period of three years.

After commissioning, Army nurses have opportunities for travel and professional advancement. They serve in interesting, exciting, and sometimes, romantic locations all over the world. Of particular value in light of today's increased emphasis on higher education is the fact that Army Nurses are encouraged to pursue advance programs leading to graduate degrees in medically related fields.

The Army Nurse Corps is the oldest of all the military services for women. Established in 1901, the all-officer Corps consists entirely of registered professional nurses. The heritage of the Army Nurse Corps to serve the soldier and his family when and where most needed is being continued today by the nearly 4,500 nurses on active duty. Over 500 of these men and women are serving in Vietnam.

The present need for nurses is great . . .the future need is also great. If interested in nursing as a career, and if interested in scholarship assistance, young men and women are urged to contact their local Army Recruiter for help in filing their applications.

Remember, the deadline for filing this year is March 31.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC)- Marine Private Roger T. Butler, son of Arthur E. Butler of 522 Sikes, Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from the six-week Marine Aviation Operational Clerical Course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

The course included basic typing, introduction to aviation operations, the handling of flight records and reports, disbursing hazardous duty pay for people involved in actual flights, flight safety, airfield operations, and operations administration.

Upon completion of this course he is eligible for duties with the Aviation Branch of the Marine Corps.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: A most unusual thing occurred recently at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles. I believe it will interest you. A woman drove up in front of the hotel and left a box with the doorman. The note pasted to the box read as follows:

"Dear Sir: Here are the items my son took from the Acapulco Hilton. An embarrassed Mother."

Clipped to her note was a copy of your column which dealt with stealing from hotels under the guise of "souvenir collecting."

The contents of the box contained the following items which would have an approximate value of $300 to $400: 2 silver wine coolers, 6 silver finger bowls, 1 - 14 inch silver service tray, 3 bread and butter knives, 3 dinner knives, 3 forks, 3 teaspoons, 2 soup spoons, 1 ice tong, 4 drinking glasses and 2 face towels.

As a past president of the California State Hotel and Motel Association, I'm sure I speak for all hotel and motel managers when I say thank you, Ann Landers, for your help. The problem of hotel pilfering is reaching incredible proportions and running into millions of dollars annually.

The fact that at least one young man was influenced by your comments to the extent that he returned the stolen articles, is evidence that some people do listen to you. We are most grateful for your support. - Robert A. Groves, General Manager, Beverly Hilton.

Dear Mr. Groves: Thank you for your letter. When I was a guest at another well-known Beverly Hills hotel in December, someone stole my diamond earrings. If HIS mother would return them to the doorman MY day would be complete.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 19-year-old girl who has a problem I have never heard of before. I'll bet you have never heard of it either.

I have been looking for a job for six months. Almost every job that interests me requires that I take a physical examination. I just can't bring myself to undress in front of a doctor. I also can't bear the thought of having a doctor put his hands on me.

I realize this is crazy, but I don't know what to do about it. My mother can't understand why I have not landed a job in all this time and I can't tell her. Please help me. - PETRIFIED

Dear Pet: I assume you mean MALE doctor, so for heaven's sake go to a female doctor and get your physical so you can go to work. Then, use some of your salary for psychiatric help. If you expect to lead a normal life you must conquer your crippling inhibitions about your body.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits - the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex - Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE MIS-INTERPRETIVE DANCE

Norton's neighbor Sally had a figure that was curvier than a road map. Consequently, when she invited Norton and two other female neighbors into her apartment, for some beer and music, Norton didn't have to be asked twice. He bounced into the apartment like a beach ball. And, if he had eyes for Sally before the evening's festivities began, they nearly popped several hours and beers later when the two female neighbors dared Sally to do a strip-tease dance and she did it to perfection. So much so, in fact, that when Norton met her in the hallway two nights later, he couldn't help grabbing and kissing her.

Indignant, Sally had amorous Norton charged with assault and battery.

"It was as much her fault as it was mine," Norton argued in court. "After the other night, I thought she liked me. I thought I was one of her chosen people."

"I wouldn't choose him for dog-catcher," was Sally's answer. "Just because he happened to be present when I accepted a dare was no invitation for him to try to kiss me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Norton for misinterpreting Sally's dance?

This is how the judge ruled: Not guilty! The judge held that for a woman to perform a strip-tease dance before a lone man might imply consent to his later making advances toward her. If he misconstrues the implication, it's not necessarily his fault.

(Based upon a 1962 Alabama Court of Appeals Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER

If you purchase an item on time, such as an automobile or a television set, and fail to keep up the payments, the seller may not use force or any other conduct that might result in a breach of the peace to repossess it. If he does, he may find himself liable for damages.

The Guys in the Da Nang patrol

Now the time is near. Men in the chopper are counting the seconds.
17 of them. Dressed in green dungarees, soaked black in sweat.
No wisecracks. No horseplay.
Any minute now they'll hit the landing zone. And head for the jungle.
The chopper will lift. And they'll be alone.
They're the guys in the Da Nang patrol.

Ten thousand miles around the world, there are people who call them sucker.
People who hope they'll give up. Quit. Go AWOL.
But they won't.
They care. Enough so 9 out of 10 men in the outfit put cash into U.S. Savings Bonds.
To help pay the bill.

The next time they hit the landing zone, will you be with them?
Do you care enough to get in there and pitch the best way you can?
Make no mistake.
These guys in the Da Nang patrol will hit the landing zone anyway.

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 27, the 86th day of 1967. There are 279 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1964, an earthquake dealt a massive blow to southcentral Alaska. The quake and ensuing tidal waves killed at least 114 persons in Alaska, Oregon and California.

On this date:

In 1845, the man who discovered the X-ray, Wilhelm Roentgen, was born.

In 1933, Japan withdrew from the League of Nations.

In 1939, Adolf Hitler demanded the Polish Republic agree to Nazi Germany's annexation of Danzig.

In 1945, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared that the Germans as a military force on the Western Front were a whipped army.

Ten years ago — A Senate committee on improper activities in the labor or management fields completed month-long public hearings in the first phase of a major investigation into alleged racketeering in labor unions.

Five years ago — a preliminary conference on President Kennedy's proposal for international cooperation in space was held in New York between top American and Soviet space scientists.

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 27, the 86th day of 1967. There are 279 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1964, an earthquake dealt a massive blow to southcentral Alaska. The quake and ensuing tidal waves killed at least 114 persons in Alaska, Oregon and California.

On this date:

In 1845, the man who discovered the X-ray, Wilhelm Roentgen, was born.

In 1933, Japan withdrew from the League of Nations.

In 1939, Adolf Hitler demanded the Polish Republic agree to Nazi Germany's annexation of Danzig.

In 1945, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared that the Germans as a military force on the Western Front were a whipped army.

Ten years ago -- A Senate committee on improper activities in the labor or management fields completed month-long public hearings in the first phase of a major investigation into alleged racketeering in labor unions.

Five years ago — a preliminary conference on President Kennedy's proposal for international cooperation in space was held in New York between top American and Soviet space scientists.

In the United States, hundreds of thousands attended sunrise services in generally good weather. New York City's traditional Easter parade along Fifth Avenue was marked by many fur coats and relatively few frilly hats.

New York's temperatures were in the 50's but many among the 220,000 holiday strollers remembered the heavy snow and cold of last week. The parade included a few miniskirts, one on a bearded man, and a white poodle who wore a red jacket and white helmet and sat on a motorcycle.

Mexico City police arrested more than 3,000 pranksters who observed the Easter custom of drenching strollers and motorists with water. Thousands of persons returned to the Mexican capital late Sunday night after Holy Week vacations. Hundreds of government agencies, banks, stores and industries were closed at least three days during the week, and beach resorts reported record crowds.

Pile Up Causes Four Injuries

A three car accident Sunday afternoon on East Malone in front of the Imperial Bowling Lanes resulted in injuries to the three drivers and a passenger.

No one was considered seriously injured.

Robert Mitchell Jr., 20, 10 Bel Air; Betty Thomann, 17, 221 Crowe; Sharon Malone, 16, 811 Matthews; and John R. Felker Jr., 19, Sikeston, were treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital following the pileup. Felker was a passenger in the Mitchell vehicle.

The accident occurred on wet pavement at about 2 p.m. when the car driven by Miss Malone headed west, skidded into the eastbound path of Mitchell causing a headon collision, police said. The rear of the Malone vehicle struck the side of a car driven by Miss Thomann who was stopped in the westbound lane to make a left turn into the bowling alley entrance.

Three minor accidents were reported Sunday during the rainy weather. No one was injured in the other accidents.

Long Calls for Better Prices

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A new effort to "provide the American farmer with decent prices and a decent income," was advanced today by Senator Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

He said the present farm program had worked "pretty well" but added:

"We have still not achieved the most important goal: parity of income for the family farmer. Farm prices are down again. Farm costs continue to rise. The farmer is caught in the middle with pulls and pushes from the consumer, the processor, the supermarket chains and the Federal budget."

The senator spoke at the annual meeting of the Central Electric Cooperative.

With surpluses down, we must make new efforts to find a balance between surpluses and shortages," he said. "We simply must not permit the farmer to be exploited. He must have insurance against a drought this year or next year. Reserves would guarantee our nation's security against the dangers of not enough food. Reserves would make sure that the consumer costs do not fluctuate too widely."

Senator Long said the future of rural Missouri depends a great deal on whether Congress votes to establish the Rural Electric Bank, a system to insure that cooperatives will have enough money available for expansion.

"In Missouri alone, our rural electric coops are going to have to produce 1.8 billion kilowatt hours by 1971," he said. "This is 1-billion hours more than we produced last year. By 1980, just 13 years from now, Missouri farmers and rural residents will require two and a half times more kilowatt hours than rural electric coops are now able to produce."

He said the cooperatives are going to need 10 to 15 billion dollars in loan funds in another 15 years. He added that there are too many demands on the taxpayer's dollar to afford this billions of dollars increase for rural electrification.

He added that this capital can be obtained on the open market through the Rural Electric Bank system.

Error Rate High on State Tax Returns

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The director of the Missouri Department of Revenue, Thomas A. David, said today a high percentage of error has turned up in processing state income tax returns.

He estimated if the current rate of error continues nearly 300,000 returns will require special handling. This amounts to about 16 per cent of the total.

Common errors he noted included:

Incorrect computation is the biggest problem, accounting for nearly half the income tax errors, David said.

Traineeships Given to Two

JEFFERSON CITY -- Karen Diviney of Sikeston and John Edward Schneider of Cape Girardeau have been awarded summer traineeships by the department of education.

The grants are given to Missouri residents, who are considered by the department of education to be "professional personnel interested in the education of handicapped children."

The grants were received for persons preparing to teach handicapped children, as college instructors for preparation of teachers of the handicapped, as supervisors of teachers for the handicapped, as speech correctionists or as research workers in the education of the handicapped.

Court Delays Rail Merger

Justice Tom C. Clark, announcing the 5-4 decision, said the merger should be delayed until the Interstate Commerce Commission determines the fate of smaller railroads.

Clark made it clear the court was not passing on the validity of the merger, the biggest corporate union in the history of American business.

Delay had been requested by the Justice Department and by nine other railroads.

The proposed $6-billion merger was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for some 10 years. It approved the deal last April, saying the merger could "fall apart" by delay.

AS A NEW recruit during the Korean conflict, I was hustled from one end of Fort Meade, Md., to the other for initial processing. Finally I was crowded into a large room to receive my classification interview and assignment. As I sat apprehensively waiting for the sergeant on the other side of the desk to decide my future, the air was shattered by a bellow from the next desk.

Another recruit had received his assignment and was not taking it quietly. He shouted that his civilian training was in public relations, that the Army should certainly try to place a man in a field in which he had previous experience.

The old sergeant facing him endured the tirade in silence. Then he said sympathetically, "I'd like to, son. But, you see, the infantry needs men, and not too many come through here who shot people for a living."

William G. Volenick.

Pile Up Causes Four Injuries

A three car accident Sunday afternoon on East Malone in front of the Imperial Bowling Lanes resulted in injuries to the three drivers and a passenger.

No one was considered seriously injured.

Robert Mitchell Jr., 20, 10 Bel Air; Betty Thomann, 17, 221 Crowe; Sharon Malone, 16, 811 Matthews; and John R. Felker Jr., 19, Sikeston, were treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital following the pileup. Felker was a passenger in the Mitchell vehicle.

The accident occurred on wet pavement at about 2 p.m. when the car driven by Miss Malone headed west, skidded into the eastbound path of Mitchell causing a headon collision, police said. The rear of the Malone vehicle struck the side of a car driven by Miss Thomann who was stopped in the westbound lane to make a left turn into the bowling alley entrance.

Three minor accidents were reported Sunday during the rainy weather. No one was injured in the other accidents.

Long Calls for Better Prices

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A new effort to "provide the American farmer with decent prices and a decent income," was advanced today by Senator Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

He said the present farm program had worked "pretty well" but added:

"We have still not achieved the most important goal: parity of income for the family farmer. Farm prices are down again. Farm costs continue to rise. The farmer is caught in the middle with pulls and pushes from the consumer, the processor, the supermarket chains and the Federal budget."

The senator spoke at the annual meeting of the Central Electric Cooperative.

With surpluses down, we must make new efforts to find a balance between surpluses and shortages," he said. "We simply must not permit the farmer to be exploited. He must have insurance against a drought this year or next year. Reserves would guarantee our nation's security against the dangers of not enough food. Reserves would make sure that the consumer costs do not fluctuate too widely."

Senator Long said the future of rural Missouri depends a great deal on whether Congress votes to establish the Rural Electric Bank, a system to insure that cooperatives will have enough money available for expansion.

"In Missouri alone, our rural electric coops are going to have to produce 1.8 billion kilowatt hours by 1971," he said. "This is 1-billion hours more than we produced last year. By 1980, just 13 years from now, Missouri farmers and rural residents will require two and a half times more kilowatt hours than rural electric coops are now able to produce."

He said the cooperatives are going to need 10 to 15 billion dollars in loan funds in another 15 years. He added that there are too many demands on the taxpayer's dollar to afford this billions of dollars increase for rural electrification.

He added that this capital can be obtained on the open market through the Rural Electric Bank system.

Error Rate High on State Tax Returns

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The director of the Missouri Department of Revenue, Thomas A. David, said today a high percentage of error has turned up in processing state income tax returns.

He estimated if the current rate of error continues nearly 300,000 returns will require special handling. This amounts to about 16 per cent of the total.

Common errors he noted included:

Traineeships Given to Two

JEFFERSON CITY -- Karen Diviney of Sikeston and John Edward Schneider of Cape Girardeau have been awarded summer traineeships by the department of education.

The grants are given to Missouri residents, who are considered by the department of education to be "professional personnel interested in the education of handicapped children."

The grants were received for persons preparing to teach handicapped children, as college instructors for preparation of teachers of the handicapped, as supervisors of teachers for the handicapped, as speech correctionists or as research workers in the education of the handicapped.

Court Delays Rail Merger

Justice Tom C. Clark, announcing the 5-4 decision, said the merger should be delayed until the Interstate Commerce Commission determines the fate of smaller railroads.

Clark made it clear the court was not passing on the validity of the merger, the biggest corporate union in the history of American business.

Delay had been requested by the Justice Department and by nine other railroads.

The proposed $6-billion merger Commerce Commission for some 10 years. It approved the deal last April, saying the merger could "fall apart" by delay.

AS A NEW recruit during the Korean conflict, I was hustled from one end of Fort Meade, Md., to the other for initial processing. Finally I was crowded into a large room to receive my classification interview and assignment. As I sat apprehensively waiting for the sergeant on the other side of the desk to decide my future, the air was shattered by a bellow from the next desk.

Another recruit had received his assignment and was not taking it quietly. He shouted that his civilian training was in public relations, that the Army should certainly try to place a man in a field in which he had previous experience.

The old sergeant facing him endured the tirade in silence. Then he said sympathetically, "I'd like to, son. But, you see, the infantry needs men, and not too many come through here who shot people for a living."

William G. Volenick.
